Merchants Block Action on Parking Hike

10-Cent Hour Plan Is Left With Committee

Opposition Report Prior to Meeting Cancels Vote, Mayes Still for Hike

A proposed boost in parking meter rates for a section of the uptown shopping area was left in committee at last night's special Common Council meeting apparently because of heavy objection by merchants involved.

Published sentiment against the requested 10 cents an hour charge, just before the meeting, left the majority of aldermen obviously in no position to vote, and unless trends change before the regular May meeting, it could be a committee problem for some time.

Mayor Edwin F. Radel, who had made budgetory provision for extra city revenue from the meters, was presented with the merchants' objections an hour before meeting time, indicated he was unaware of the opposition, because the proposal had been a budget item, and was aired at the budget meeting, without apparent dissension.

Mayes For More Revenue

Only Alderman Hirschell Mayes (R), First Ward, one of the five councilmen, who signed the call order for the special session, appeared still definitely for the 10-cent charge as a means of additional city revenue. He based his stand on the 20-cent charge in the uptown merchants' new parking lot.

It was proposed to charge five cents for the first half hour and five cents for the second half hour on some 180 meters on sections of Wall, Fair, John and North Front Streets. The regular maximum meter charge now is 5 cents an hour.

In the new uptown parking lot started by the Senate Parking Corp., and leased to the National Parking Association, Washington, D. C., an hour of free parking is permitted persons who shop at any one of the 25 member stores.

For others parking there the charge is 10 cents for a half hour or 20 cents an hour. Tickets are given those who patronize the stores to record time.

Plan Changed

Originally it was decided to permit free parking for those whose purchases amounted to $5, but it has since been decided to permit free parking on minimum purchases.

Mayor Radel requested action on the parking meter proposal at the regular April council meeting but it was left with the finance committee because of the absence of Alderman Mayes, who represents the area involved.

Five Call Meeting

Then last week on the requred bid of five aldermen the special session was called. The call order was signed by Mayes, along with Joseph Tomaszewski, Arthur G. Smith, and William K. Bodenweber (the latter three are Democrats) and Alderman William G. Davis, Liberal Party.

Mayor Radel, noting that provision had been made in the 1959 budget for the extra revenue from meters, advised that if the proposal were to be approved, it

Volunteers Will Collect Tonight For Cancer Fund

Today is C-Day in Ulster County. Throughout the city of Kingston and in Ulster County townships workers are canvassing the homes for funds while depositing life-saving pamphlets.

In Kingston the canvass will get under way at 6:30 o'clock when a house-to-house visitation will begin. Residents at home are asked to put on porch lights to indicate to workers that they are ready for the canvassers.

Both in Kingston and in the rural areas where access is a problem the canvass will be extended over a period of several days until all homes have been visited.

The Cancer Society is again using the campaign slogan, "Fight Cancer with a Checkup and a Check," for the fourth year, Dr. William Bush, president of the Ulster County Division, pointed out. He continued:

"We have definite evidence that our checkup drive is beginning to pay off. Slowly but surely, people are becoming checkup-conscious. We know, for example, that right here in Ulster County more men and women will see their doctors for health

See Dulles Giving Up Post Soon

Early Word Due If Treatment Fails

WASHINGTON (AP)— Senators expressed today a growing belief that Secretary of State John Foster Dulles may have to hand in his resignation soon.

There were well-founded reports —including some from persons who have talked to him — that Dulles has failed to respond to treatment for a cancerous condition.

Results Are Vital

If fresh medical treatments planned at Walter Reed Army Hospital do not show results, the general expectation among members of Congress is that Dulles will step out of his official job quickly to clear the way for appointment of a successor.

Dulles returned unexpectedly Sunday from a Florida rest to reenter the hospital for further checks and treatment. President Eisenhower visited him for 45 minutes Monday but delayed a decision on Dulles' future.

Press secretary James C. Hagerty said later that Dulles has not resigned, and added that "pending additional medical evaluation there will be no further statement from the President."

But several senators said that if Dulles finds he is not going to be able to attend the scheduled East-West foreign ministers meeting in Geneva May 11, they believe he will want the American representative there to carry the full title of secretary of state.

Herter Logical Choice

In Dulles' absence, that representative seems certain to be Christian Herter, undersecretary who is serving now as acting secretary.

Fire Loss $50,000 At Mushroom Firm

COXSACKIE, N. Y. (AP) — Fire destroyed about $30,000 worth of mushrooms Monday and caused $20,000 damage to the concrete building in which they were housed.

The plant, one of 19 operated by Albert Adamo and his son, James, contained 4,800 trays of mushrooms.

Fire Chief Alfred Daoust, who estimated the building damage, said the fire may have been caused by defective wiring.

No one was known to have been in the building.

Albert Adamo, estimated the mushroom loss. The building was owned by Henry H. Koblintz, an Albany lawyer.

U. S. Transport Is Buzzed by Soviet On Berlin Flight

BONN, Germany — (AP)—Soviet planes have buzzed an American Air Force transport in another incident in an air corridor to Berlin, the U.S. Embassy disclosed today.

An embassy spokesman said two Soviet jet fighters harassed an Air Force double-decker propeller transport on its way back from a routine cargo delivery flight to Berlin April 10.

The embassy spokesman gave this account of the April 3 incident:

The big military version of the Boeing Stratocruiser was flying at about 12,000 feet when two Soviet jets came up from behind and began cruising, each about 100 feet from a wingtip of the American plane.

Swapped Positions

The Soviet fliers then swapped positions, one going over and the other going under the transport. The American pilot reduced altitude a little. This seemed to satisfy the Soviets, for they flew away. The whole encounter lasted only a few minutes.

The spokesman charged the Soviet jets with "very dangerous maneuvers." He said American and Soviet officers at the four-power air safety center in Berlin had exchanged verbal protests, each accusing the other's fliers of dangerous air tactics.

J. W. Beburov, chief spokesman of the Soviet Embassy in East Berlin, commenting on the incident, indicated the Soviet Union is standing by its demands that American planes fly below 10,000 feet in the corridors.

Stand Unchanged

"The Soviet standpoint is known and has not changed," Beburov told a reporter.

The Soviet Union has warned the United States that it cannot

State Taxpayer Relieved Filing Chore This Year

ALBANY—For the first time in 39 years, New York State income taxpayers can watch that big April 15 date on the calendar come and go without lifting a finger.

Ordinarily the final, frantic due date for state income tax returns, when a heavy majority of the over five million taxpayers rush to beat the deadline, swamp the postal system, bury the State Tax Department and pay hundreds of millions of dollars in state tax, April 15 will pass this year without a ripple—and without state income tax payments.

Canceled This Year

That's because your state tax on 1958 income is canceled under new law and you don't even have to file a return. The state went on a pay-as-you-go withholding basis April 1 to cover the tax on 1959 income.

In only a fractional number of cases is the April 15 date of significance this year to state income taxpayers. The 1958 returns are still required for estates and trusts, as well as for persons who died last year.

Joseph H. Murphy, president of the State Tax Commission, reminded that April 15 is still the due date also for unincorporated business tax returns for 1958. This tax was not canceled, but it is sub-

Aerial Catch of Capsule Set

Discoverer Is in Orbit; May Stay Up for Month

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—Discoverer II, a 1,600-pound satellite, was in polar orbit today, carrying in its nose cone a space capsule the Air Force hopes to catch in the air near Hawaii.

The recovery experiment may be attempted later today.

The capsule was described as a miniature of the type that someday may be used to return men from space stations.

Florida Tests Fail

Discoverer II was launched from this missile base Monday, while across the nation fellow scientists were experiencing a disappointment.

At Cape Canaveral, Fla., the Air Force tried unsuccessfully to put three satellites into orbit from a single launching vehicle, Vanguard III. The Vanguard's second stage failed to ignite on schedule. Officials at the Cape said cause of the trouble was not known.

If Discoverer 5th graf 110-ta30.

If Discoverer II achieves proper stability, its instrumented nose cone is scheduled to be kicked loose on command from ground tracking stations and float earthward beneath a parachute.

Eight Hawaii-based C119 Flying Boxcars are awaiting orders to swoop on the descending parachute and try to drape it across a 30-foot-long trapeze bar suspended beneath each plane. The parachute and capsule would then be reeled into the plane.

The parachute would come into range of the Air Force C119s at about 20,000 feet. The planes would have 10 minutes to snatch the parachute from the air. If they failed, the buoyant capsule would be fished from the ocean by Navy vessels patrolling the recovery area.

At least one official was pessimistic that the capsule would be recovered. William H. Godel, director of planning for the Advanced Research Projects Agency, estimated the chance of success at 1 in 1,000. He said a number of things could go wrong before the capsule even is ejected.

The capsule contains instruments to supply oxygen and control heat and atmospheric pressure. Other instruments will check how effective these environmental systems are. They are designed

New Temple Emanuel Will Be Dedicated on May 15 Weekend

Plans for dedication of the new Temple Emanuel on Albany Avenue were completed at a recent meeting of the board of trustees and Richard M. Kalish, chairman of the dedication committee, today announced the ceremonies will be held during the weekend of May 15.

Although the Temple will not be dedicated until May, the first services will be conducted in the new Temple Friday, April 17, at 7:45 p. m. All future services will be held in the new Temple since the present Temple at 50 Abeel Street has been sold to the Emanuel Church, with headquarters in New York City, and the new congregation will use the former Temple.

Dedication services at Temple Emanuel on Albany Avenue will be held Friday night, May 15 with services by Rabbi Herbert I. Bloom and other prominent religious leaders participating. The complete program will be announced.

On Saturday evening, May 16, there will be a dedication dinner at the Temple with members of the Ministerial Association and other members of the clergy taking part. Arrangements are being made to have a number of notable speak-

Decision Reserved In Case of Ryan

Monday the Appellate Division reserved decision on a show cause order seeking to dismiss an indictment in the Ulster County investigation into "kickbacks" which charged Morgan D. Ryan, a former official and employe of the Ulster Bituminous Corporation, with conspiracy to bribe public officials.

N. LeVan Haver, counsel for Ryan, argued that his client had been granted immunity from prosecution when he testified before the special grand jury making the probe. Special Attorney General Bernard Tompkins dened this allegation.

Haver was given until Thursday, April 16, to file additional papers. Ryan, an employe of the Ulster County Welfare Department, is free on $1,000 bail. Trial of the indictment, which jointly charges Ernest A. Steuding, former superintendent of public work of Kingston, is scheduled April 28, pending a decision on the Appellate Division appeal.

Extra State Aid Seen $465,916

Enrollment Problem Cited as Need for Voting $5,980,000

In a statement Monday night the Kingston Board of Education urged passage of the proposed $5,980,000 bond issue for school construction, calling attention to an "enrollment predicament" and asserting that "action is imperative."

The statement was presented at a joint meeting of the board and the advisory Committee of Fifty at Kingston High School.

Lesser Plan, Higher Rate

It was explained that if the bond issue is defeated the board will be "compelled" to proceed with school construction on a "priority basis" to the constitutional debt limit of $4,675,000 which would have to be bonded over a 10-year period and "will mean a considerably higher tax rate than the $5,980,000 bond proposition financed over a 20-year period."

The statement follows:

It is the firm belief of the Kingston Board of Education that the educational opportunities afforded the children in the consolidated district will be improved by the integration of the several school districts and the extra state aid which will accrue to the greater city consolidation may be used for this purpose. A recent computation of this extra state aid is found to be unofficially $465,916.60 annually.

Now Is Time: Board

9 File for School Posts

Burke, Withall Latest Entries for Election

The list of candidates for members of the Greater Kingston Area School Board continued to grow today with the filing of two additional petitions, bringing the total list to nine candidates for the election on May 5.

Today the petitions of William J. Burke of Lake Katrine and Arthur H. Withall of Rifton were filed with Superintendent Dr. Earl F. Soper.

Burke is manager of the security department of Kingston IBM. Withall is a heating, plumbing and electrical contractor. Both have been interested in school activities for some time.

Other Candidates

In addition to the two petitions filed today, others who have filed are:

Howard L. Fox, 33 Grandview Avenue, Kingston.

Benson A. Krom, P. O. Box 204, Hurley.

G. A. Ryerson, Box 213, Tillson.

Harold Baltz, R. D. 1, Box 160, Kingston.

John Vines of Miller's Lane Extension.

Mrs. George L. Chilson, 24 Delta Place, Kingston.

Joseph Scott, 321 Lucas Avenue, Kingston.

In announcing his candidacy Burke said that "we as parents and taxpayers have three important responsibilities to consider when electing a school board members."

He is former president of the Lake Katrine School Board of Education.

"The first is prudent and sensible use of each taxpayer's dollar.

Curriculum His Concern

"The third, which is of primary importance is curriculum, education guidance and the instructional program offered to our students."

In the area of finance, Burke pointed out that his district was unique in sponsoring the deduction of school taxes which, during his last term, amounted to approximately $5 per thousand valuation. This reduction did not interfere with the district's ability to transport all the children as a safety precaution, to present a leading salary schedule for teachers or to lessen the availability of education material for the students, he explained.

Consider Taxes, Needs

He pointed out that in order to have sound business manage-

Highland Woman Is Killed Early Today on Rt. 9W

Mrs. Shirley Mahar, 23, RD 2, Highland, was killed almost instantly at 3:05 a. m. today when her car was in a headon collision with a 1954 Van truck in Route 9W about one mile south of the Ulster County line.

Newburgh State Police said the victim suffered multiple fractures and internal injuries. Her body was removed to St. Luke's hospital morgue in Newburgh for an autopsy.

Corporal Walter Kunowski and Trooper Walter Ryan said the truck was operated by Louis Camuglia, Grand Street, Marlboro.

The Highland women was reportedly traveling north when her car failed to negotiate a left curve, the report said. The sedan left the pavement, knocked down two guard posts and then veered back onto the highway and into the southbound lane where the vehicle collided headon, troopers reported.

Both drivers were thrown to the pavement. The injured were rushed to St. Luke's hospital, where the woman was pronounced dead on arrival. Camuglia was treated for contusions of the chest.

Orange County Coroner Harvey Agnew investigated with Newburgh State Police.

State Grants Needes Right To Merge With Arrow Corp.

Mrs. Claude L. Needes, secretary of Needes' Express, Inc. of this city, made known today that the State Public Service Commission, has granted temporary and permanent authority for the corporation to merge with Arrow Carrier Corp., of Carlstadt, N. J.

Mrs. Needes, in the absence of Mr. Needes who was in New Jersey today, said the two firms are combining operations on April 20, and at that time the merged companies will be in a position to handle New York City business.

It was also made known that the Interstate Commerce Commission, has granted temporary authority for the merger, and the permanent authority from the Interstate Commerce Commission is pending.

John E. Ackerman, president of Arrow Carrier Corp., will be president of the new corporation, and Needes will be vice president and a director. Mrs. Needes, who plans to retire, said she and Mr. Needes will continue to reside in Kingston.

Get People to Polls, Committee Is Urged

May 5 Election Will Decide Two New Board Members, Fate of Bond Issue

The Committee of Fifty Monday night adopted a resolution in support of the proposed $5,980,000 bond issue for the construction of schools in the Kingston School District.

The body is serving in an advisory capacity to the board of education during the difficult transition to an enlarged city school district.

The group met separately for a short time and was then joined by the board of education. Chris Larios of Hurley presided.

There was lengthy discussion of various issues in connection with the approaching vote on the bond issue, with some irritation indicated by certain rural representatives in connection with the location of polling places.

It was the feeling of some that voters in the rural areas had to travel too far to reach the polling places and that more should have been set up. Some expressed the belief that many voters will be confused by lack of clarity in laying out the voting district.

It was pointed out by school officials however, that arrangements for the referendum had been legally executed and could not now be altered.

President Robert Herzog of the board of education expressed regret that more rural election districts had not been set up.

He expressed his appreciation to the Committee of Fifty for its endorsement of the bond issue and its cooperation in setting up a public information program on the referendum, indicating his feeling that it was important for the committee to take the case to the people in view of the fact that "most people don't like the board."

Bond, Not Board the Issue

Several members of the Committee of Fifty agreed with Herzog.

Albert C. Kurdt said he was afraid "it's going to be a vote against the board of education rather than on the bond issue."

Kurdt said board members, who receive no compensation, had done a terrific job and taken a lot of abuse. "Why anyone would want the job I don't know," he remarked with a smile. He deplored a certain half-heartedness among some of the members of the Committee of Fifty, urged to get the people out to vote, saying he felt the "job can still be done."

Will Elect Two Members

Some of the members suggested that transportation corps be set up to get voters to the polls.

The board was asked to do all it could to publicize the location of the polls and to advise voters where to go to cast their ballots Tuesday, May 5.

At that time two members of the board will be elected, replacing Mrs. John D. Schoonmaker Jr., and Harold Darling.

There was some discussion of the position of the Committee of Fifty on the five candidates whose names it recommended for the board. Several members of the committee seemed to feel that that body should come out clearly for two of the five, since only two can be elected, and put all its weight behind them.

It was pointed out, on the other hand, that the committee could hardly show such partiality, since it had already indicated its support of all five of them.

Afraid of Distance

A delegate from the rural area said he felt the location of polling places and the distances voters in rural areas would have to travel made it almost impossible to elect a rural member to the board.

Information on the bond issue was distributed by the board of education to members of the Committee of Fifty last night. Some 10,000 copies, mimeographed in the board's office, were scheduled to be distributed to students today for delivery to parents.

Special bulletins explaining the bond issue as it relates to each school in the enlarged city school district are also being prepared.

Registration Continues

Registration of voters will continue through this week at the municipal auditorium.

On Tuesday, May 5, qualified voters of the district will go to the polls to do two things:

1. Vote on two members of the board of education.

2. Decide on a bond resolution in the amount of $5,980,000 for new schools in the district.

Proposed Locations

It is proposed that the schools be located as follows:

New elementary schools at Hasbrouck Park and on Mary's

Stall Will Lead Second Group in Economics Talks

The second economic discussion group has been organized by the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce.

This was done at a meeting in the Governor Clinton Hotel late yesterday afternoon at which William R. Stall was elected chairman. The group will meet at weekly breakfast sessions starting on Thursday, April 23 at 7:30 a. m.

14 Have Signed

Enrollment in the second group will be limited to 20. Fourteen have already signed up for the course. As soon as twenty enroll a list will be started for a third group.

The first economic discussion group started the course last Tuesday. They meet each Tuesday at 4 p. m. for an hour and a half session.

Basically, an economic discussion group consists of business, civic and professional leaders who voluntarily enroll to take a course in economics. They take a thoughtful analytical approach to local, state and national issues, and meet regularly to discuss economic problems and principles that vitally affect our way of life.

Study Basic Facts

The course is designed to improve the ability of local business and civic leaders to speak up for the competitive, free enterprise system, which made the nation great, by using basic facts. They are enabled to develop support for sound economic policies and principles.

A spokesman for the Chamber of Commerce said that the first session of the first economic discussion group met with great enthusiasm. The response for the second group was spontaneous and he predicted that a third group would be organized in the near future. More details about this new project may be obtained at the local Chamber of Commerce office.

The body is serving in an advisory capacity to the board of education during the difficult transition to an enlarged city school district.

The group met separately for a short time and was then joined by the board of education. Chris Larios of Hurley presided.

There was lengthy discussion of various issues in connection with the approaching vote on the bond issue, with some irritation indicated by certain rural representatives in connection with the location of polling places.

It was the feeling of some that voters in the rural areas had to travel too far to reach the polling places and that more should have been set up. Some expressed the belief that many voters will be confused by lack of clarity in laying out the voting district.

It was pointed out by school officials, however, that arrangements for the referendum had been legally executed and could not now be altered.

President Robert Herzog of the board of education expressed regret that more rural election districts had not been set up.

He expressed his appreciation to the Committee of Fifty for its endorsement of the bond issue and its cooperation in setting up a public information program on the referendum, indicating his feeling that it was important for the committee to take the case to the people in view of the fact that "most people don't like the board."

Bond, Not Board the Issue

Several members of the Committee of Fifty agreed with Herzog.

Albert C. Kurdt said he was afraid "it's going to be a vote against the board of education rather than on the bond issue."

Kurdt said board members, who receive no compensation, had done a terrific job and taken a lot of abuse. "Why anyone would want the job I don't know," he remarked with a smile. He deplored a certain half-heartedness among some of the members of the Committee of Fifty, urged to get the people out to vote, saying he felt the "job can still be done."

Will Elect Two Members

Some of the members suggested that transportation corps be set up to get voters to the polls.

The board was asked to do all it could to publicize the location of the polls and to advise voters where to go to cast their ballots Tuesday, May 5.

At that time two members of the board will be elected, replacing Mrs. John D. Schoonmaker Jr., and Harold Darling.

There was some discussion of the position of the Committee of Fifty on the five candidates whose names it recommended for the board. Several members of the committee seemed to feel that that body should come out clearly for two of the five, since only two can be elected, and put all its weight behind them.

It was pointed out, on the other hand, that the committee could hardly show such partiality, since it had already indicated its support of all five of them.

Afraid of Distance

A delegate from the rural area said he felt the location of polling places and the distances voters in rural areas would have to travel made it almost impossible to elect a rural member to the board.

Information on the bond issue was distributed by the board of education to members of the Committee of Fifty last night. Some 10,000 copies, mimeographed in the board's office, were scheduled to be distributed to students today for delivery to parents.

Special bulletins explaining the bond issue as it relates to each school in the enlarged city school district are also being prepared.

Registration Continues

Registration of voters will continue through this week at the municipal auditorium.

On Tuesday, May 5, qualified voters of the district will go to the polls to do two things:

1. Vote on two members of the board of education.

2. Decide on a bond resolution in the amount of $5,980,000 for new schools in the district.

Proposed Locations

It is proposed that the schools be located as follows:

Aerial Catch of Capsule Set

Discoverer Is in Orbit; May Stay Up for Month

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—Discoverer II, a 1,600-pound satellite, was in polar orbit today, carrying in its nose cone a space capsule the Air Force hopes to catch in the air near Hawaii.

The recovery experiment may be attempted later today.

The capsule was described as a miniature of the type that someday may be used to return men from space stations.

Florida Tests Fail

Discoverer II was launched from this missile base Monday, while across the nation fellow scientists were experiencing a disappointment.

At Cape Canaveral, Fla., the Air Force tried unsuccessfully to put three satellites into orbit from a single launching vehicle, Vanguard III. The Vanguard's second stage failed to ignite on schedule. Officials at the Cape said cause of the trouble was not known.

If Discoverer 5th graf 110-ta30.

If Discoverer II achieves proper stability, its instrumented nose cone is scheduled to be kicked loose on command from ground tracking stations and float earthward beneath a parachute.

Eight Hawaii-based C119 Flying Boxcars are awaiting orders to swoop on the descending parachute and try to drape it across a 30-foot-long trapeze bar suspended beneath each plane. The parachute and capsule would then be reeled into the plane.

The parachute would come into range of the Air Force C119s at about 20,000 feet. The planes would have 10 minutes to snatch the parachute from the air. If they failed, the buoyant capsule would be fished from the ocean by Navy vessels patrolling the recovery area.

At least one official was pessimistic that the capsule would be recovered. William H. Godel, director of planning for the Advanced Research Projects Agency, estimated the chance of success at 1 in 1,000. He said a number of things could go wrong before the capsule even is ejected.

The capsule contains instruments to supply oxygen and control heat and atmospheric pressure. Other instruments will check how effective these environmental systems are. They are designed

State Taxpayer Relieved Filing Chore This Year

ALBANY—For the first time in 39 years, New York State income taxpayers can watch that big April 15 date on the calendar come and go without lifting a finger.

Ordinarily the final, frantic due date for state income tax returns, when a heavy majority of the over five million taxpayers rush to beat the deadline, swamp the postal system, bury the State Tax Department and pay hundreds of millions of dollars in state tax, April 15 will pass this year without a ripple—and without state income tax payments.

Canceled This Year

That's because your state tax on 1958 income is canceled under new law and you don't even have to file a return. The state went on a pay-as-you-go withholding basis April 1 to cover the tax on 1959 income.

In only a fractional number of cases is the April 15 date of significance this year to state income taxpayers. The 1958 returns are still required for estates and trusts, as well as for persons who died last year.

Joseph H. Murphy, president of the State Tax Commission, reminded that April 15 is still the due date also for unincorporated business tax returns for 1958. This tax was not canceled, but it is sub-

9 File for School Posts

Burke, Withall Latest Entries for Election

The list of candidates for members of the Greater Kingston Area School Board continued to grow today with the filing of two additional petitions, bringing the total list to nine candidates for the election on May 5.

Today the petitions of William J. Burke of Lake Katrine and Arthur H. Withall of Rifton were filed with Superintendent Dr. Earl F. Soper.

Burke is manager of the security department of Kingston IBM. Withall is a heating, plumbing and electrical contractor. Both have been interested in school activities for some time.

Other Candidates

In addition to the two petitions filed today, others who have filed are:

Howard L. Fox, 33 Grandview Avenue, Kingston.

Benson A. Krom, P. O. Box 204, Hurley.

G. A. Ryerson, Box 213, Tillson.

Harold Baltz, R. D. 1, Box 160, Kingston.

John Vines of Miller's Lane Extension.

Mrs. George L. Chilson, 24 Delta Place, Kingston.

Joseph Scott, 321 Lucas Avenue, Kingston.

In announcing his candidacy Burke said that "we as parents and taxpayers have three important responsibilities to consider when electing a school board members."

He is former president of the Lake Katrine School Board of Education.

"The first is prudent and sensible use of each taxpayer's dollar.

Curriculum His Concern

"The third, which is of primary importance is curriculum, education guidance and the instructional program offered to our students."

In the area of finance, Burke pointed out that his district was unique in sponsoring the deduction of school taxes which, during his last term, amounted to approximately $5 per thousand valuation. This reduction did not interfere with the district's ability to transport all the children as a safety precaution, to present a leading salary schedule for teachers or to lessen the availability of education material for the students, he explained.

Consider Taxes, Needs

He pointed out that in order to have sound business manage-

Stall Will Lead Second Group in Economics Talks

The second economic discussion group has been organized by the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce.

This was done at a meeting in the Governor Clinton Hotel late yesterday afternoon at which William R. Stall was elected chairman. The group will meet at weekly breakfast sessions starting on Thursday, April 23 at 7:30 a. m.

14 Have Signed

Enrollment in the second group will be limited to 20. Fourteen have already signed up for the course. As soon as twenty enroll a list will be started for a third group.

The first economic discussion group started the course last Tuesday. They meet each Tuesday at 4 p. m. for an hour and a half session.

Basically, an economic discussion group consists of business, civic and professional leaders who voluntarily enroll to take a course in economics. They take a thoughtful analytical approach to local, state and national issues, and meet regularly to discuss economic problems and principles that vitally affect our way of life.

Study Basic Facts

The course is designed to improve the ability of local business and civic leaders to speak up for the competitive, free enterprise system, which made the nation great, by using basic facts. They are enabled to develop support for sound economic policies and principles.

A spokesman for the Chamber of Commerce said that the first session of the first economic discussion group met with great enthusiasm. The response for the second group was spontaneous and he predicted that a third group would be organized in the near future. More details about this new project may be obtained at the local Chamber of Commerce office.

Highland Woman Is Killed Early Today on Rt. 9W

Mrs. Shirley Mahar, 23, RD 2, Highland, was killed almost instantly at 3:05 a. m. today when her car was in a headon collision with a 1954 Van truck in Route 9W about one mile south of the Ulster County line.

Newburgh State Police said the victim suffered multiple fractures and internal injuries. Her body was removed to St. Luke's hospital morgue in Newburgh for an autopsy.

Corporal Walter Kunowski and Trooper Walter Ryan said the truck was operated by Louis Camuglia, Grand Street, Marlboro.

The Highland women was reportedly traveling north when her car failed to negotiate a left curve, the report said. The sedan left the pavement, knocked down two guard posts and then veered back onto the highway and into the southbound lane where the vehicle collided headon, troopers reported.

Both drivers were thrown to the pavement. The injured were rushed to St. Luke's hospital, where the woman was pronounced dead on arrival. Camuglia was treated for contusions of the chest.

Orange County Coroner Harvey Agnew investigated with Newburgh State Police.

Decision Reserved In Case of Ryan

Monday the Appellate Division reserved decision on a show cause order seeking to dismiss an indictment in the Ulster County investigation into "kickbacks" which charged Morgan D. Ryan, a former official and employe of the Ulster Bituminous Corporation, with conspiracy to bribe public officials.

N. LeVan Haver, counsel for Ryan, argued that his client had been granted immunity from prosecution when he testified before the special grand jury making the probe. Special Attorney General Bernard Tompkins doned this allegation.

Haver was given until Thursday, April 16, to file additional papers. Ryan, an employe of the Ulster County Welfare Department, is free on $1,000 bail. Trial of the indictment, which jointly charges Ernest A. Steuding, former superintendent of public work of Kingston, is scheduled April 28, pending a decision on the Appellate Division appeal.

Cases Heard Monday Here Before County Judge Bruhn

John Frederick Decker, 22, of 15 Allen Street, Catskill, who was charged with abducting a 15-year-old girl last October 12, entered a plea of guilty to violation of Section 483, Sub. 1, a misdemeanor, Monday afternoon in County Court. County Judge Louis G. Bruhn imposed a year jail sentence and, because of his prior good record, the sentence was suspended during good behavior. He was placed on probation for the maximum period.

George Henry Skarren, 29, of Valley Stream, L. I., entered a plea of guilty to illegal possession of a firearm and was fined $100 which was paid.

Clifford W. Weeks, 25, of 100 Main Street, charged with grand larceny, first degree, for taking of a car owned by Raymond Howe, deputy clerk of the board of supervisors entered a plea of guilty to petit larceny. Charles Saccoman, appearing for Weeks, said the complainant did not desire to further prosecute the case. A year in jail was suspended and defendant was placed on probation. The larceny charge was dismissed.

In the case of The People vs. Mary Doyle, 29, of 222 Greenkill Avenue, charged with grand larceny for the alleged theft of approximately $12,000 from the Mohican Company of 57 John Street where she was employed as a bookkeeper, the case was adjourned to April 30 at 2 p. m. Joseph Avis, counsel, told the court that an application to inspect the grand jury minutes had been denied by Supreme Court Justice Roscoe V. Elsworth but that he had made another application to the Supreme Court. The application alleges that her constitutional rights have been violated.

The case of one-time Catskill Police Commissioner John D. Whittaker, attorney, charged with larceny, was adjourned to April 15 at 2 p. m. Whittaker, now serving a prison term imposed in Greene County on a larceny charge, was remanded to jail until the adjourned date.

Frank Luke was arraigned on a charge of grand larceny, first degree, alleged to have been committed October 15, 1958, entered a plea of innocent. The indictment was amended to contain his true name, Anthony Lucadana. Counsel was granted 20 days for motions and he was released in $1,000 bail. The charge grows out of the sale of a car.

Angelo Sepe was arraigned on a charge of making false statements on a application for an operator's license. Stuart T. Schantz, counsel, waived reading of the indictment, and a plea of innocent was entered. Bail was continued and 20 days allowed for motions. The indictment charged forgery alleged to have taken place last July.

Three civil cases were announced settled.

A verdict of $77.25 was returned about 8:30 o'clock Monday evening in an action brought by Larry Lee Hoyt of Kingston against Hayes Lincoln-Mercury, Inc., involving purchase of a car. Plaintiff, a minor, alleged he had a right to rescind the contract since he was not of age and asked $118 damages. The car, purchased for $250, was held by the defendant and later sold for $125. After the case had been submitted to the jury a request was made late in the afternoon after the jury had deliberated for three hours for further instruction from Judge Bruhn.

The jury came in and asked for instruction as to whether the same vehicle was involved in the contract to purchase and the car later sold. The foreman said the bill of sale called for a gray car and the car later sold had been described as a brown car. It was stipulated the same vehicle was involved and the jury retired and continued its deliberation.

Court recessed until 10 a. m. today and jurors were excused until 11 a. m.

State Grants

remain, Mrs. Needes said, and the new combination will ultimately have 15 terminals. Mrs. Needs also made known that application has been made for an expansion of rights in the states of North and South Carolina. Action on the applications is still pending.

The merger brings together two of the oldest and best known transportation companies in the East. Both companies were formed in the early 1920's and have been in continuous operation.

The Needs firm has its terminal and general offices at 25-29 South Manor Avenue, this city.

Mrs. Needes confirmed a report that several employes will be let go in an economy move. She said she expected to give such notice to about 25 employes, mostly office workers. Mrs. Needes stated that very few, if any, truck drivers may be let go as many have accepted positions and will be transferred to the main offices at Carlstadt, N. J.

Mrs. Needes also stated that most of the office employes who will be let go, have said they would not move to Carlstadt. She said that several non-union workers have agreed to the transfer.

The combined transportation line will operate approximately 600 units and 15 terminals. The companies will continue to operate temporarily, at least, under the present titles.

Needes said at the time the announcement was made in December of the planned merger, that the transaction was motivated to extend the facilities of both companies to their customers and to provide better and more extended services, as well as to effect economies in both operations.

Needes, a life-long resident of Kingston, is the sole owner of his firm which for the past 35 years has operated in four states including, New Jersey, Vermont and Pennsylvania. Terminals in addition to Kingston and New York City are located at Albany, Newburgh, Fairlawn, N. J., and Philadelphia, Pa.

On Sunday morning, May 17, dedication services of the school will be held with Cantor Julian C. Lohre, principal of the school, in charge of that service.

The public will have an opportunity to inspect the new Temple Sunday afternoon, May 17, when "open house" will be held. Constructed to accommodate the growing congregation, the handsome new Temple on Albany Avenue will replace the downtown structure which was erected and has been in use since 1856, over 100 years ago.

Included in the new Temple will be full facilities to accommodate all of the activities of the congregation. In addition to the Temple where religious services will be held, the new modern structure will house the school in nine classrooms and there will be provisions for all social activities.

Dedication of the new Temple will mark a milestone in the history of the congregation, Dr. Goldfarb, president of Temple Emanuel, said.

It was found parked on Broadway near the Farrell cigar store, Central Broadway, and was damaged on fenders, the body and a door.

With the new tuboprop and jet transports coming into full service, the Allied powers have been determined to establish clearly their right to fly in the corridors at any height.

The jet type planes operate more efficiently at altitudes above 10,000 feet.

The United States Monday rejected the limit the Soviets are trying to put on the corridors and said U.S. planes will fly as high as they need to whenever they want to. A formal American note was delivered to the Soviet Foreign Office in Moscow.

Advisers Support

Additions at Schools 5 and 6, Port Ewen School, Lake Katrine School, Hurley School and Tillson School.

The brochure points out that Perkins and Will, school architects, have given a breakdown of the new space to be added in the various building additions as follows: Dietz, 103,044 square feet; Hasbrouck, 44,670; Mary's Avenue, 32,025; School 5, 9,045; School 6, 11,910; Port Ewen, 19,305; Lake Katrine, 19,335; Hurley, 17,550, and Tillson, 20,070.

To Give Equal Chance

This additional space would provide approximately 50 - 55 square feet of educational area per pupil in all elementary school projects, the brochure explains. "It affords the opportunity which will give all elementary children an equal chance for learning."

It points out that local meetings have been scheduled for the various schools. There will also be two general meetings—one April 14 at MJM and one April 29 at George Washington School.

School district bonding attorneys have advised the board that the bond issue of $5,980,000 can be financed on a 20-year basis at an interest rate of 3.4 per cent. The average annual payment would amount to $412,849.

$465,916 Extra Aid

Under consolidation the Kingston School District receives extra state aid in the amount of $465,916 annually. This amount is in addition to state aid already being received.

"In reality, this means that for the $5,980,000 bond issue with payments of $412,849 each year, the extra state aid will pay the bill and we will have — on the average — $53,067.60 left over annually."

The brochure states that the board feels "schools are urgently needed. Your help and cooperation are respectfully requested." It is explained that the board has authority to spend $4,675,000 for new schools but only on a 10-year bond issue.

"The board of education has strong convictions that the 'package' program (approving the nine schools or school additions) provide a fair and complete program of education for all the children of all the areas in the school district. Anything less means a half-loaf program with a system of priorities which leaves some children in some areas without the school they need and the school to which they are entitled."

Payment Explained

It is explained that the average annual payment on the 10-year bond issue at an estimated rate of three per cent interest would be $541.50. This would be in excess of extra state aid each year in the amount of $75,834.

This would be $128,901 more each year than it would cost on a 20-year basis.

"Since the extra state aid can be used to pay the bill under the $5,980,000 bond issue, the tax rate does not need to be increased for new schools. Of course, we all realize that other costs in the school district operation are going up and these increases may cause a tax rise. However, your board of education is doing its best to keep the tax rate in line with the New York State consolidation study and tax rates as estimated at that time.

"If the board of education proceeds, however, with the 10-year $4,670,000 bond issue, the excess cost as shown above would increase the tax rate for all areas."

Enrollment...

al opportunities for all the children in the consolidation regardless of the specific area.

The board has worked diligently on the problem of new schools for Kingston for many years. It must be recognized that the district has an enrollment predicament. Action is imperative. A building program which would provide adequate housing for all the children in Kingston and throughout the district is long overdue as a moral responsibility for all parents and taxpayers of the consolidation.

Recommend 9 Projects

"It is with this feeling of educational need and moral compunction that the members of the board of education remind the qualified voters that the 'package' program of $5,980,000 for the nine (9) school projects is recommended and strongly urged as a complete program of education for all the children of all areas in the school district.

It should also be recognized that this program is economical and within our financial means.

Paying for these schools in a twenty (20) year period means that we can stay within the limits of the extra state aid we will receive under consolidation. Anything less than this complete proposal means a system of priorities and only a partial solution to our building needs. Some children in some areas would go without the opportunity to which they are entitled and for which we are all responsible.

Must Provide Schools

"It is, therefore, with a feeling of great urgency and educational responsibility that the members of the board of education have decided that in the event the $5,980,000 bond proposition is defeated they will be compelled to proceed with all possible dispatch to provide schools for the children of the district on a priority basis within the constitutional debt limit of $4,675,000. which will have to be bonded over ten (10) years and which will mean a considerably higher tax rate than the $5,980,000. bond proposition financed over a twenty year period.

Napolean used 60 bottles of eau de cologne each month—even when he was on the battlefield.

Burke...

ment a background of experience is necessary to understand the complexities of contractual negotiations and the interrelationship between the tax base and the school system needs.

The importance of a well-balanced curriculum and its effect on the welfare of each community were topics discussed at the New York State School Board seminar in Syracuse last year, he said, pointing out that he feels these are topics "we must give deeper consideration and thought." Burke said, "We must face the issues squarely, recognize our responsibilities and take the necessary initiative to resolve them with the least inconvenience to all."

Attended Conference

Burke, a graduate of the U. S. Army Command at Staff College, completed a course in economic mobilization with the Industrial College of the Armed Forces and is now participating in an advanced study program sponsored by the University of California. Last year he was invited to Washington by President Eisenhower to participate in the Mutual Assistance Economic Conference.

He is a major in the U. S. Army Reserve with the present assignment of senior instructor with the 1053 USA Reserve School unit. His army career began in January, 1942, as a flying officer in the air corps. He has had continuous service in active and reserve capacities to his present assignment.

Mr. and Mrs. Burke and their three children reside in Lake Katrine, town of Ulster.

Sen. George D. Aiken (R-Vt), agreeing, added that "I don't think the country can afford to go on and on without an active head of the State Department."

Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, the assistant Democratic leader, said in a separate interview he agrees that the chief U.S. delegate "must not be in an inferior position" at Geneva.

"He must have the full title of secretary of state," Mansfield said. "I am sure that if he becomes convinced in his own mind that he can't carry on, Secretary Dulles will hand in his papers."

State Taxpayer

ject to a reduction. The tax on small business is cut 15 per cent on the first $100 of tax plus 10 per cent of the next $200 of tax, up to a maximum cut of $35 on every return. The unincorporated business tax may not be paid in installments. It's all due with the return by Wednesday.

Tax on Capital Gain

Commissioner Murphy also pointed out that the 1958 tax on net capital gain also remains in effect. However, the net capital gain tax return — and payment—is not due this year until June 15.

He added that the full 1958 normal income tax exemptions of $1,000 for a single person, $2,500 for a married couple and $400 for each dependent may be claimed on the 1958 capital gain tax returns.

The tax on 1958 net capital gains is at old rates which range from 1 per cent on the first $1,000 of net capital gains up to a maximum rate of 3½ per cent on all net capital gains over $9,000. The tax is due in full with the return by June 15; not payable this year in installments.

Capital gains result from the sale or exchange of capital assets, such as stocks, certain real estate or an automobile.

Partnership returns for 1958 must be filed if the partnership is subject to the unincorporated business tax if it had capital gains last year.

Must File Estimates

Next big date on the State tax calendar this year will be June 15 when declarations of estimated 1959 tax will be due — with half of the estimated tax. This date is of principal interest and importance to those who have income not subject to the new withholding system.

But for most state income taxpayers, this is the year of grace on income tax returns. None will be required until April 15, 1960, and many taxpayers are then expected to be eligible for refunds.

Memoriam

In sad and loving memory of our loving daughter and sister, Emma DeCicco Mayhon, who passed away 1 year ago today, April 14, 1958.

What we would give to see you smile,
And sit with you and talk awhile.
The blow was sudden, the shock severe,
To part with you so kind and dear;
Day and night we think of you,
The things you used to say and do;
We wonder why you had to die
Without a chance to say goodbye.
God bless you and keep you.

Cases Heard Monday Here Before County Judge Bruhn

John Frederick Decker, 22, of 15 Allen Street, Catskill, who was charged with abducting a 15-year-old girl last October 12, entered a plea of guilty to violation of Section 483, Sub. 1, a misdemeanor, Monday afternoon in County Court. County Judge Louis G. Bruhn imposed a year jail sentence and, because of his prior good record, the sentence was suspended during good behavior. He was placed on probation for the maximum period.

George Henry Skarren, 29, of Valley Stream, L. I., entered a plea of guilty to illegal possession of a firearm and was fined $100 which was paid.

Clifford W. Weeks, 25, of 100 Main Street, charged with grand larceny, first degree, for taking of a car owned by Raymond Howe, deputy clerk of the board of supervisors entered a plea of guilty to petit larceny. Charles Saccoman, appearing for Weeks, said the complainant did not desire to further prosecute the case. A year in jail was suspended and defendant was placed on probation. The larceny charge was dismissed.

In the case of The People vs. Mary Doyle, 29, of 222 Greenkill Avenue, charged with grand larceny for the alleged theft of approximately $12,000 from the Mohican Company of 57 John Street where she was employed as a bookkeeper, the case was adjourned to April 30 at 2 p. m. Joseph Avis, counsel, told the court that an application to inspect the grand jury minutes had been denied by Supreme Court Justice Roscoe V. Elsworth but that he had made another application to the Supreme Court. The application alleges that her constitutional rights have been violated.

The case of one-time Catskill Police Commissioner John D. Whittaker, attorney, charged with larceny, was adjourned to April 15 at 2 p. m. Whittaker, now serving a prison term imposed in Greene County on a larceny charge, was remanded to jail until the adjourned date.

Frank Luke was arraigned on a charge of grand larceny, first degree, alleged to have been committed October 15, 1958, entered a plea of innocent. The indictment was amended to contain his true name, Anthony Lucadana. Counsel was granted 20 days for motions and he was released in $1,000 bail. The charge grows out of the sale of a car.

Angelo Sepe was arraigned on a charge of making false statements on a application for an operator's license. Stuart T. Schantz, counsel, waived reading of the indictment, and a plea of innocent was entered. Bail was continued and 20 days allowed for motions. The indictment charged forgery alleged to have taken place last July.

Three civil cases were announced settled.

A verdict of $77.25 was returned about 8:30 o'clock Monday evening in an action brought by Larry Lee Hoyt of Kingston against Hayes Lincoln-Mercury, Inc., involving purchase of a car. Plaintiff, a minor, alleged he had a right to rescind the contract since he was not of age and asked $118 damages. The car, purchased for $250, was held by the defendant and later sold for $125. After the case had been submitted to the jury a request was made late in the afternoon after the jury had deliberated for three hours for further instruction from Judge Bruhn.

The jury came in and asked for instruction as to whether the same vehicle was involved in the contract to purchase and the car later sold. The foreman said the bill of sale called for a gray car and the car later sold had been described as a brown car. It was stipulated the same vehicle was involved and the jury retired and continued its deliberation.

Court recessed until 10 a. m. today and jurors were excused until 11 a. m.

State Grants

remain, Mrs. Needes said, and the new combination will ultimately have 15 terminals. Mrs. Needs also made known that application has been made for an expansion of rights in the states of North and South Carolina. Action on the applications is still pending.

The merger brings together two of the oldest and best known transportation companies in the East. Both companies were formed in the early 1920's and have been in continuous operation.

The Needs firm has its terminal and general offices at 25-29 South Manor Avenue, this city.

Mrs. Needes confirmed a report that several employes will be let go in an economy move. She said she expected to give such notice to about 25 employes, mostly office workers. Mrs. Needes stated that very few, if any, truck drivers may be let go as many have accepted positions and will be transferred to the main offices at Carlstadt, N. J.

Mrs. Needes also stated that most of the office employes who will be let go, have said they would not move to Carlstadt. She said that several non-union workers have agreed to the transfer.

The combined transportation line will operate approximately 600 units and 15 terminals. The companies will continue to operate temporarily, at least, under the present titles.

Needes said at the time the announcement was made in December of the planned merger, that the transaction was motivated to extend the facilities of both companies to their customers and to provide better and more extended services, as well as to effect economies in both operations.

Needes, a life-long resident of Kingston, is the sole owner of his firm which for the past 35 years has operated in four states including, New Jersey, Vermont and Pennsylvania. Terminals in addition to Kingston and New York City are located at Albany, Newburgh, Fairlawn, N. J., and Philadelphia, Pa.

New Temple

ers participate in this service.

On Sunday morning, May 17, dedication services of the school will be held with Cantor Julian C. Lohre, principal of the school, in charge of that service.

The public will have an opportunity to inspect the new Temple Sunday afternoon, May 17, when "open house" will be held. Constructed to accommodate the growing congregation, the handsome new Temple on Albany Avenue will replace the downtown structure which was erected and has been in use since 1856, over 100 years ago.

Included in the new Temple will be full facilities to accommodate all of the activities of the congregation. In addition to the Temple where religious services will be held, the new modern structure will house the school in nine classrooms and there will be provisions for all social activities.

Dedication of the new Temple will mark a milestone in the history of the congregation, Dr. Goldfarb, president of Temple Emanuel, said.

RICHARD M. KALISH

Complete plans for the dedication services will be announced later by Jay Melton, publicity chairman, and Richard M. Kalish, chairman of the Dedication committee.

Kalish, who served as chairman of the Building Fund Committee of Temple Emanuel, resides at 73 Highland Avenue and has taken an active part in all civic matters in addition to being a leader in the activities of Temple Emanuel. He is general chairman of the Kingston Area Community Chest; president of the Boys Club; vice president of the Kingston Lions Club; a director of the American Cancer Society; trustee of B'nai B'rith; co-chairman of the United Jewish Welfare Fund and has served as a member of the Kingston Board of Education.

It was found parked on Broadway near the Farrell cigar store, Central Broadway, and was damaged on fenders, the body and a door.

With the new tuboprop and jet transports coming into full service, the Allied powers have been determined to establish clearly their right to fly in the corridors at any height.

The jet type planes operate more efficiently at altitudes above 10,000 feet.

The United States Monday rejected the limit the Soviets are trying to put on the corridors and said U.S. planes will fly as high as they need to whenever they want to. A formal American note was delivered to the Soviet Foreign Office in Moscow.

Advisers Support

Additions at Schools 5 and 6, Port Ewen School, Lake Katrine School, Hurley School and Tillson School.

The brochure points out that Perkins and Will, school architects, have given a breakdown of the new space to be added in the various building additions as follows: Dietz, 103,044 square feet; Hasbrouck, 44,670; Mary's Avenue, 32,025; School 5, 9,045; School 6, 11,910; Port Ewen, 19,305; Lake Katrine, 19,335; Hurley, 17,550, and Tillson, 20,070.

To Give Equal Chance

This additional space would provide approximately 50 - 55 square feet of educational area per pupil in all elementary school projects, the brochure explains. "It affords the opportunity which will give all elementary children an equal chance for learning."

It points out that local meetings have been scheduled for the various schools. There will also be two general meetings—one April 14 at MJM and one April 29 at George Washington School.

School district bonding attorneys have advised the board that the bond issue of $5,980,000 can be financed on a 20-year basis at an interest rate of 3.4 per cent. The average annual payment would amount to $412,849.

$465,916 Extra Aid

Under consolidation the Kingston School District receives extra state aid in the amount of $465,916 annually. This amount is in addition to state aid already being received.

"In reality, this means that for the $5,980,000 bond issue with payments of $412,849 each year, the extra state aid will pay the bill and we will have — on the average — $53,067.60 left over annually."

The brochure states that the board feels "schools are urgently needed. Your help and cooperation are respectfully requested." It is explained that the board has authority to spend $4,675,000 for new schools but only on a 10-year bond issue.

"The board of education has strong convictions that the 'package' program (approving the nine schools or school additions) provide a fair and complete program of education for all the children of all the areas in the school district. Anything less means a half-loaf program with a system of priorities which leaves some children in some areas without the school they need and the school to which they are entitled."

Payment Explained

It is explained that the average annual payment on the 10-year bond issue at an estimated rate of three per cent interest would be $541.50. This would be in excess of extra state aid each year in the amount of $75,834.

This would be $128.901 more each year than it would cost on a 20-year basis.

"Since the extra state aid can be used to pay the bill under the $5,980,000 bond issue, the tax rate does not need to be increased for new schools. Of course, we all realize that other costs in the school district operation are going up and these increases may cause a tax rise. However, your board of education is doing its best to keep the tax rate in line with the New York State consolidation study and tax rates as estimated at that time.

"If the board of education proceeds, however, with the 10-year $4,670,000 bond issue, the excess cost as shown above would increase the tax rate for all areas."

Enrollment...

al opportunities for all the children in the consolidation regardless of the specific area.

The board has worked diligently on the problem of new schools for Kingston for many years. It must be recognized that the district has an enrollment predicament. Action is imperative. A building program which would provide adequate housing for all the children in Kingston and throughout the district is long overdue as a moral responsibility for all parents and taxpayers of the consolidation.

Recommend 9 Projects

"It is with this feeling of educational need and moral compunction that the members of the board of education remind the qualified voters that the 'package' program of $5,980,000 for the nine (9) school projects is recommended and strongly urged as a complete program of education for all the children of all areas in the school district.

It should also be recognized that this program is economical and within our financial means.

Paying for these schools in a twenty (20) year period means that we can stay within the limits of the extra state aid we will receive under consolidation. Anything less than this complete proposal means a system of priorities and only a partial solution to our building needs. Some children in some areas would go without the opportunity to which they are entitled and for which we are all responsible.

Must Provide Schools

"It is, therefore, with a feeling of great urgency and educational responsibility that the members of the board of education have decided that in the event the $5,980,000 bond proposition is defeated they will be compelled to proceed with all possible dispatch to provide schools for the children of the district on a priority basis within the constitutional debt limit of $4,675,000, which will have to be bonded over ten (10) years and which will mean a considerably higher tax rate than the $5,980,000, bond proposition financed over a twenty year period.

Napolean used 60 bottles of eau de cologne each month—even when he was on the battlefield.

Burke...

ment a background of experience is necessary to understand the complexities of contractual negotiations and the interrelationship between the tax base and the school system needs.

The importance of a well-balanced curriculum and its effect on the welfare of each community were topics discussed at the New York State School Board seminar in Syracuse last year, he said, pointing out that he feels these are topics "we must give deeper consideration and thought." Burke said, "We must face the issues squarely, recognize our responsibilities and take the necessary initiative to resolve them with the least inconvenience to all."

Attended Conference

Burke, a graduate of the U. S. Army Command at Staff College, completed a course in economic mobilization with the Industrial College of the Armed Forces and is now participating in an advanced study program sponsored by the University of California. Last year he was invited to Washington by President Eisenhower to participate in the Mutual Assistance Economic Conference.

He is a major in the U. S. Army Reserve with the present assignment of senior instructor with the 1053 USA Reserve School unit. His army career began in January, 1942, as a flying officer in the air corps. He has had continuous service in active and reserve capacities to his present assignment.

Mr. and Mrs. Burke and their three children reside in Lake Katrine, town of Ulster.

State Taxpayer

ject to a reduction. The tax on small business is cut 15 per cent on the first $100 of tax plus 10 per cent of the next $200 of tax, up to a maximum cut of $35 on every return. The unincorporated business tax may not be paid in installments. It's all due with the return by Wednesday.

Tax on Capital Gain

Commissioner Murphy also pointed out that the 1958 tax on net capital gain also remains in effect. However, the net capital gain tax return — and payment—is not due this year until June 15.

He added that the full 1958 normal income tax exemptions of $1,000 for a single person, $2,500 for a married couple and $400 for each dependent may be claimed on the 1958 capital gain tax returns.

The tax on 1958 net capital gains is at old rates which range from 1 per cent on the first $1,000 of net capital gains up to a maximum rate of 3½ per cent on all net capital gains over $9,000. The tax is due in full with the return by June 15; not payable this year in installments.

Capital gains result from the sale or exchange of capital assets, such as stocks, certain real estate or an automobile.

Partnership returns for 1958 must be filed if the partnership is subject to the unincorporated business tax if it had capital gains last year.

Must File Estimates

Next big date on the State tax calendar this year will be June 15 when declarations of estimated 1959 tax will be due — with half of the estimated tax. This date is of principal interest and importance to those who have income not subject to the new withholding system.

But for most state income taxpayers, this is the year of grace on income tax returns. None will be required until April 15, 1960, and many taxpayers are then expected to be eligible for refunds.

Memoriam

In sad and loving memory of our loving daughter and sister, Emma DeCicco Mayhon, who passed away 1 year ago today, April 14, 1958.

What we would give to see you smile,
And sit with you and talk awhile.
The blow was sudden, the shock severe,
To part with you so kind and dear;
Day and night we think of you,
The things you used to say and do;
We wonder why you had to die
Without a chance to say goodbye.
God bless you and keep you.

WE CATER TO SMART PEOPLE

Prescriptions are our business. And our business is different from any other business.

Here is where our business is different! You can't look up the price for that prescription in the newspaper ads, nor can you compare this prescription with the price your Aunt Tessie paid for her prescription last month. The reason is obvious—each prescription is individually designed for a specific condition in an entirely different person.

The point is that your prescription is not a commodity like a loaf of bread or a can of paint. There are no "specials" on prescriptions for heart conditions nor a "sale" on compounds for high blood pressure! And this is rightly so.

Nevertheless, sometimes misunderstandings about prescription prices occur. To prevent such situations, we wish you would show us your prescription and ask for the cost of filling it. Give us a few minutes to check the ingredients and quantities, and we will be pleased to tell you exactly how much we must charge.

In fact, we'll both feel better about it. You—because you will know in advance what the cost will be. We—because we will know that you are exercising your prerogative of doing business where you want. That proves you are smart and intelligent. All our customers are smart and intelligent. That is one reason they shop here!

Essay Contest Judges Named

The names of the three judges who will select the six Ulster County essays to compete in the State-wide Hudson-Champlain Contest, sponsored by the Commission on Historic Observances, were announced today.

They are James L. Quinn, president of the Quinn Publishing Co., Inc., chairman; Jansen H. Preston, president of the Ulster County Historical Society, and Alf Evers, author and president of the Woodstock Historical Society.

All students in junior and senior high school grades have been invited to prepare essays of historical significance. The rules have been posted in high schools of the county. All essays must be in the hands of the Ulster County Committee for the Hudson-Champlain Celebration by Friday, May 1. The committee headquarters is in the office of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce in Kingston. Each school is entitled to submit three essays from among those submitted by 7th, 8th and 9th grade students and three from those submitted by 10th, 11th and 12th grade pupils. The county board of judges will select the six best essays to be submitted to Albany in the State Contest.

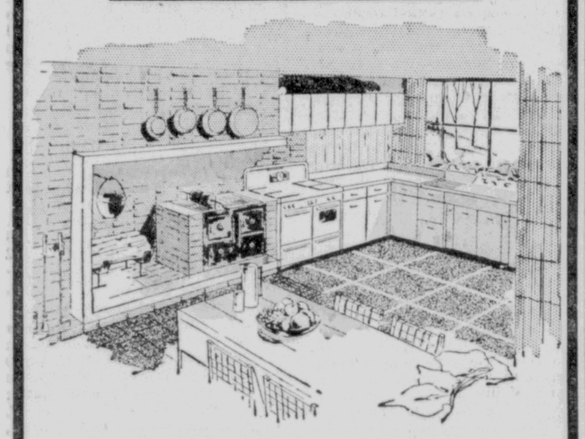

The six winners in the statewide essay contest will be awarded an all-expense trip to Europe this summer for themselves and a parent or guardian. Information regarding the contest may be obtained at each school, from community chairmen for the 350th Hudson Anniversary Celebration, or from the County headquarters in Kingston.

WE CATER TO SMART PEOPLE

Prescriptions are our business. And our business is different from any other business.

Here is where our business is different! You can't look up the price for that prescription in the newspaper ads, nor can you compare this prescription with the price your Aunt Tessie paid for her prescription last month. The reason is obvious—each prescription is individually designed for a specific condition in an entirely different person.

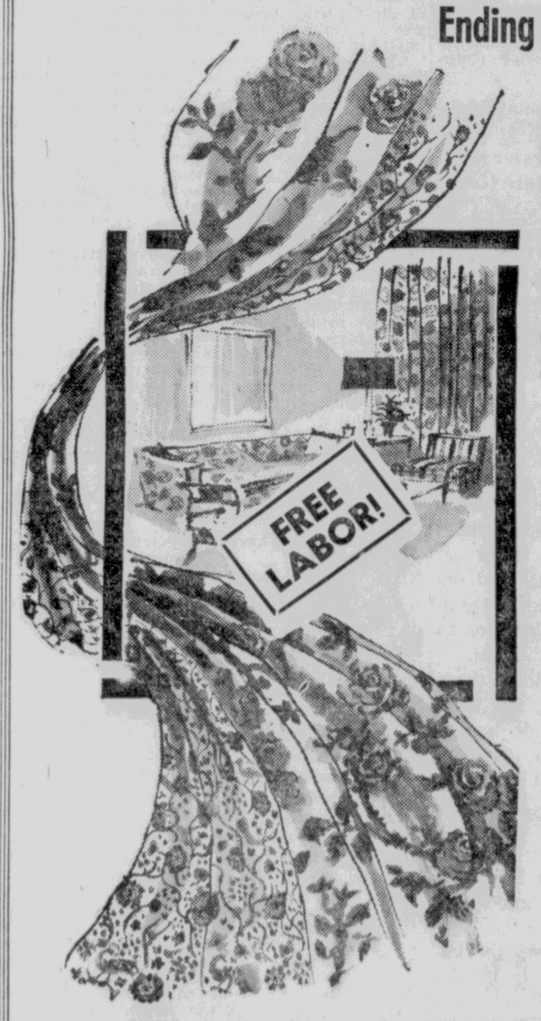

The point is that your prescription is not a commodity like a loaf of bread or a can of paint. There are no "specials" on prescriptions for heart conditions nor a "sale" on compounds for high blood pressure! And this is rightly so.

Nevertheless, sometimes misunderstandings about prescription prices occur. To prevent such situations, we wish you would show us your prescription and ask for the cost of filling it. Give us a few minutes to check the ingredients and quantities, and we will be pleased to tell you exactly how much we must charge.

In fact, we'll both feel better about it. You—because you will know in advance what the cost will be. We—because we will know that you are exercising your prerogative of doing business where you want. That proves you are smart and intelligent. All our customers are smart and intelligent. That is one reason they shop here!

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, APRIL 14, 1959

WAKE UP AND READ

This is National Library Week, a movement dedicated to encouraging everyone to do more reading. The observance of the week is sponsored by the American Book Committee.

Read your newspaper, then read a magazine or a book. If you haven't been doing much reading lately, why not visit your local library, browse around, take home a book and read it!

It is estimated that there are over a million people living in communities in New York State that have no libraries. Here we have the Kingston City Library. Here is an opportunity for a profitable and pleasurable leisure time activity that we cannot afford to pass up.

Go to the library at your earliest convenience, take home a book and read it.

Often you hear people try to make a sharp distinction between those who "do things" and those who "merely read and hear about things."

The idea is stressed, in other words, that men of action either do not or should not take time to read and listen, while readers and listeners don't act.

Certainly we have among us many highly charged individuals who can't sit down long enough to read a newspaper, let alone a book. And just as surely there are plenty of passive folk who shrink from the changing world of action and seek refuge in the printed word.

But basically the distinction is artifical. The intelligent man of action will not say he should not read and the reflective person will not imagine he can hide safely behind a book.

The two worlds belong together.

Life is a blend of action and of reflection, stock-taking, study and planning.

Unfold your newspaper or open your book and horizons stretch out of sight before you. From the urgent bulletins which report our progress along the ledge between peace and war, prosperity and depression, order and chaos, you can move in the flash of an eye to distant places or to the high reaches of philosophic thought.

The man who "does things" will do them better, be a better human being, too, if he expands his own world to include knowledge of what others, here and in many lands, do feel and think. To cast the same broad glance back into the past gives him still greater enlargement.

The experiences of other men, of other places, now and in other times, build impressively upon the foundation structure of your life.

Without them the structure will be low and small. You will have put rigid, arbitrary ceiling limits upon what you may achieve and what you may enjoy. You may have action, but it will be narrow, shallow, repetitive.

The building materials for bigger, more rewarding living lie at your finger tips. The moment you reach out and grasp your newspaper or a magazine or book, you have begun to build.

PASSING OF A WARRIOR

Frank Lloyd Wright, that "rebellious old gentleman," will be sorely missed. Not only by his colleagues in the field of architecture, but by all of us who have benefited from his genius—benefited perhaps more than we, in our ranch homes and glass skyscrapers, are aware.

Wright was always the angry young man of architecture, even when he was no longer a young man. His long life was a constant battle with what to him were the rigid, uninspired, change-resisting schools of thought of his contemporaries. If he was not the greatest architect of the 20th century, his fiery nature and vociferous devotion to his ideas made him the most famous.

Probably the best proof of Wright's success, aside from the honors from his profession that came to him late in life, is the fact that today some of his work is considered old-fashioned and romantic. So accustomed have we became to the deep imprint left by Frank Lloyd Wright on the face of this land.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

SOVIET ANTI-SEMITISM

Soviet anti-Semitism, as expressed by Stalin and Khrushchev, is normal to the Russian environment. Khrushchev who hails from the Russo-Ukrainian border, lived in the most anti-Semitic area in the world. It was in this region that the notorious Kishinev massacres occurred.

But there is a further matter that cannot be ignored: Karl Marx, although born of Jews, was himself a vicious anti-Semite, a hater of his own people. On this subject, a book has recently been published by The Wisdom Library, entitled "Karl Marx—a World Without Jews." Dagobert D. Runes who writes an introduction to this miserable volume says:

". . . in the middle of the nineteenth century anti-Semitism was mainly a religious and social, not a racial, issue, and among converts such as Karl Marx are to be found vitriolic enemies of Judaism. The convert as a tool in the hands of professional Jew baiters is to be found as early as the Middle Ages in the person of the Jew Pfefferkorn who assisted in attempts to put Jewish sacred literature to the torch. And little more than ten years ago in the Soviet Union, the Jew Ilya Ehrenburg led the attack against Jewish writers as being cosmopolitan, non-patriotic and Zionist. This he did at the grave of almost eight hundred Yiddish poets, writers, and novelists who had been executed at the behest of Stalin."

Karl Marx descended from a raobinical family but his father, Heschel Marx, accepted Christianity in 1816 in order to practice law in Prussia—a state in which no Jew could then practice law. In a word, Marx's father was converted to Christianity for economic reasons. This is Karl Marx's solution to the problem of the Jewish religion:

"The stiffest form of opposition between Jew and Christian is religious. How is it to be resolved? By making it impossible. How can this be achieved? By abolishing religion. As soon as Jew and Christian recognize their respective religions as different stages in the evolution of the human spirit, as successive snake-skins shed by history—man being the snake that bore them all—they will no longer stand in a religious relationship to each other, but in a critical, scientific, human relationship. . . ."

What Marx thought of religion is perhaps best stated in these lines:

". . . But since the existence of religion is the existence of a defect, the source of this defect can be sought only in the nature of the state. We hold that religion is no longer the operating cause but the result of human limitation. We therefore derive the religious small-mindedness of free citizens from their general small-mindedness. We do not maintain that they must abolish their religious limitations in order to abolish their human limitations. We do not turn secular human problems into religious ones; we turn religious questions into secular ones. History has too long been dissolved into superstitions; we now dissolve superstitions into history. . . ."

Karl Marx's concept of his own people follows:

". . . The Jew has emancipated himself in the Jewish fashion not only by acquiring money power but through money's having become (with him or without him) the world power and the Jewish spirit's having become the practical spirit of the Christian peoples. The Jews have emancipated themselves to the extent that Christians have become Jews."

How false this is appears in the poverty of most European Jews, a poverty which Karl Marx knew and experienced. In fact, many of his colleagues in the International Workingmen's Association were proletarian Jews. In the pages of this pamphlet, which I hold in my hands as I write this, are some of the most vicious and historically untruthful statements which Karl Marx makes about his own people, as, for instance:

"The monotheism of the Jew is therefore actually a polytheism of many needs, and it makes even renunciation the object of divine law. Practical need, egotism, is the underlying principle of bourgeois society and is recognizable as such immediately this society sets up its own political state. The god of practical needs and private interest is money."

No bigot, no professional money-raising Jew-hater has ever written anything as terrible as Karl Marx has about Jews. He talks much like those queer creatures in our own society who, having changed their names, labor to be what they are not.

Thyroid Deficiency Usually Yields Readily to Treatment

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

Written for NEA Service

"About seven years ago I had a goiter removed," writes Mrs. F.

"Since then I have put on a lot of weight and am sleepy and feel tired all the time. Could this come from the operation, and is there anything which might be done to help me?"

An attempt to answer this question requires a little guesswork. Of course, Mrs. F. should check with a physician before doing anything.

However, the question certainly implies that the patient had a part of her thyroid gland removed seven years ago for a toxic condition. At that time, presumably, this gland was producing an abnormal hormone secretion and the operation was doubtless done to restore its action more nearly to normal.

It seems possible that in this instance more thyroid tissue was removed than necessary so that now not enough of the hormone is produced.

This can be checked by having Mrs. F. take a basal metabolic test and other tests. If these reveal insufficient thyroid hormone production, she can be given just the right amount of thyroid extract.

Aside from operation there are two well-known disorders resulting from insufficient hormone manufactured by the thyroid gland.

One is known as cretinism and occurs in children. A child afflicted with cretinism fails to grow normally, either in a mental or physical sense.

What causes cretinism is not completely understood. The disease is fortunately rare in most parts of the world, although even today there are said to be an unusually large number of cases in certain regions of the Swiss Alps.

Thyroid extract prepared from animals contains the hormone which is lacking in cretinism. Therefore, if this extract can be given early enough and in sufficient quantities it will largely counteract the evil effects from the lack of secretion of the thyroid gland.

Adults also may be affected by total lack of secretion of the thyroid gland. This is known as myxedema.

It is a rare and extraordinary condition: The hair gets thick, coarse and loses its sheen; the skin becomes thick and dry; the pulse is slowed; and other symptoms such as anemia and joint pains are common.

Any physician likes to make a diagnosis of myxedema. One reason is that it is more or less of a medical curiosity; another, that treatment is exceedingly successful.

Thyroid extract results in the complete disappearance of symptoms which may have been present for many years. Of course, the thyroid extract has to be kept up throughout life, but this is simple and not excessively costly.

"Seems Like Yesterday You Came Up to My Knee"

Washington News

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Democratic National Committee is going into a couple of fancy finance promotion schemes to pay off its 1956-58 debts and to raise around $950,000 for 1959. If there's a little left over for 1960 too, nobody will be mad.

First is the "750 Club." The idea is to sign up 750 Democrats to give $1,000 apiece and so pay off the party's $750,000 debt. E. H. Foley, Washington lawyer who was treasury undersecretary in Truman's time, heads this up.

Principal attraction for members is that their subscription—in addition to coming to the aid of their party in time of need—will guarantee them a hotel reservation and two tickets to the 1960 convention in Los Angeles.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT tried this idea back in 1944 to finance the party in wartime. He called it the "One Thousand Club." The plan then was 1,000 members at $1,000 each, to raise a million. But only 291 signed up.

At the end of the campaign, the One Thousand Club had $3,400 in its treasury. Suggestions were made that the money be turned over to Democratic National Committee. The members would have none of that. They came to Washington for the 1945 inaugural, 275 strong, and threw themselves a big dinner. The bill was $6,155. They ended $2,755 in the red and just who paid that tab never was cleared up.

The Democrats think they can do better this time. So far, 225 members have been enrolled, leaving 525 to get.

THE SECOND DEMOCRATIC FLYER will be the Harry S. 75th birthday celebration May 8. This is a real gamble.

Mr. Truman is the only Democratic ex-president to reach 75 since James Buchanan in 1866. There was no celebration then. This time the Democrats decided to do something. Mr. Truman went along with the idea, to help the party.

So a celebration is being built around a 90-minute closed-circuit TV show. It will originate in New York at a $100-a-plate dinner in the Waldorf. It is being organized by Judge Sam Rosenman.

Speaker Sam Rayburn, Democratic National Chairman Paul Butler and other biggies will be there too.

From New York the program will be networked to other Democratic dinners, rallies and assorted clambakes now being organized as Jefferson-Jackson Day money raisings.

So far, 14 cities are on the hookup definitely. They include a Constitution Hall show in Washington at $20 a seat top, a $25 dinner in Boston with Texas Sen. Lyndon Johnson—not Senator Kennedy—as chief attraction. Also a Detroit rally with Eleanor Roosevelt as the star and a Chicago celebration headed by Gov. Adlai Stevenson. They'll all be cut in on the program for brief bits.

Other cities signed up are Albuquerque, Chattanooga, Denver, Gary, Kansas City, Los Angeles, New Orleans, Oklahoma City, San Francisco. About 30 other cities are trying to organize tieins and 10 more are possibles.

IF MOST OF THEM HOOK ON, the celebration can make the party a lot of money. If they don't the losses can be awful. For the first costs are $80,000 for the show alone.

The program will include a half-hour filmed life story of President Truman, now in production under Roger L. Stevens, New York play producer. Mr. Truman will make a short personal appearance at the end of the program.

The financial arrangement is that the Democratic National Committee and local sponsoring committees will split gross receipts 50-50. But the National Committee will have to pay original production costs and local committees will have to pay ticket, dinner or hall rental costs plus $2,500 for line costs to cities of under 500,000, or $5,000 to cities over 500,000.

The cities will have to raise this money and pay it on the line before April 24. Otherwise they won't get their big screen installed and connected for the show two weeks later. That's where the risk comes in.

Senators Said to Resent 'Gag' at Justice's Hearing

WASHINGTON — Several members of the United States Senate are a little disturbed over the attempt the other day to gag them when they were questioning Justice Potter Stewart of the Supreme Court of the United States.

Mr. Stewart was given a "recess appointment" as an associate justice of the Supreme Court on Oct. 14, 1958. He has not been confirmed by the Senate, but he has participated in many decisions and has written nine opinions.

Some justices in the past have declined to take the oath of office until confirmed. The embarrassments that come to a justice who is already sitting on the court but who has to appear before a Congressional committee to give information, presumably on his own qualifications, are obvious.

Curb on Questions

In the hearing of the Senate Judiciary Committee the other day, lasting two hours, a point of order was made that no question should be asked of Justice Stewart concerning Supreme Court decisions or his own attitude toward past decisions. But in the discussion that followed, it was apparent that the point of order was not concurred in by other members of the committee from both the North and the South.

While the Constitution provides that the Senate may confirm or reject any Presidential nomination submitted to it, sometimes, when Congress is not in session, "recess appointments" are made. The recipient of such an appointment can serve only through the subsequent session of Congress. If he is not confirmed during that session, he is no longer eligible to remain at his post.

Queried on Segregation

Justice Stewart was, of course, not on the Supreme Court when the segregation decisions of 1954 were issued, but he has since had opportunities to concur in various rulings derived from the original case. On the surface, it would seem to be an impropriety to ask any Supreme Court Justice to discuss his reasoning with respect to decisions that he has already rendered on the high court, even though serving under a recess appointment. But the Senators on the judiciary committee did not ask about current decisions. They were interested in the reasoning of the Supreme Court in decisions prior to the time of Mr. Stewart's appointment. They wanted to know whether the new justice agrees with the reasoning, and Senator McClellan of Arkansas, Democrat, asked him to explain what he thinks was the reasoning and logic applied in the school segregation cases.

Justice Stewart said that basically he agrees with the 1954 decision, but not with "all the grammar and the footnotes." Yet it was one of those footnotes citing "psychological authority"—including Gunnar Myrdal, a Swedish Socialist—that has occasioned widespread criticism. Certainly in the argument before the Supreme Court itself, there was no opportunity to offer a rebuttal to the Myrdal view, because the "footnote" had at the time not been mentioned by the court.

It might well be asked of what value it is to determine whether an appointee to the court agrees or disagrees with past decisions. On this point, Mr. Stewart said, "I've never read any opinion of any court that I thought was perfect."

But the real duty of the Senate, every time a judicial appointment is submitted, is to find out whether the prospective justice actually believes in a written Constitution and the method prescribed therein for its amendment, or whether he believes that the Supreme Court can override the Constitution at will.

At one point, when the Senate Judiciary Committee was interrogating Justice Stewart, he was asked:

"Do you think the Supreme Court has the power to amend the Constitution?" He answered: "Certainly not to amend it, no."

The questioning of Justice Stewart is to be resumed in a few days. This is not the first time the views of a judicial appointee have come under close scrutiny by members of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Back in 1930, when Charles Evans Hughes was nominated to be Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, he was sharply criticized for his views in various cases. Indeed, much of the opposition to his confirmation came from the radicals of those days, and on the final vote they voted against Mr. Hughes plainly because of his previous decisions. In the case of John J. Parker, a member of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals who was nominated by President Hoover for the Supreme Court of the United States, the labor-union opposition was such that his nomination was rejected by a vote of the Senate.

There is, therefore, ample precedent for the present members of the Judiciary Committee to examine the views of any appointee to the Supreme Court and, indeed, to vote against him if they are so inclined.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, APRIL 14, 1959

WAKE UP AND READ

This is National Library Week, a movement dedicated to encouraging everyone to do more reading. The observance of the week is sponsored by the American Book Committee.

Read your newspaper, then read a magazine or a book. If you haven't been doing much reading lately, why not visit your local library, browse around, take home a book and read it!

It is estimated that there are over a million people living in communities in New York State that have no libraries. Here we have the Kingston City Library. Here is an opportunity for a profitable and pleasurable leisure time activity that we cannot afford to pass up.

Go to the library at your earliest convenience, take home a book and read it.

Often you hear people try to make a sharp distinction between those who "do things" and those who "merely read and hear about things."

The idea is stressed, in other words, that men of action either do not or should not take time to read and listen, while readers and listeners don't act.

Certainly we have among us many highly charged individuals who can't sit down long enough to read a newspaper, let alone a book. And just as surely there are plenty of passive folk who shrink from the changing world of action and seek refuge in the printed word.

But basically the distinction is artifical. The intelligent man of action will not say he should not read and the reflective person will not imagine he can hide safely behind a book.

The two worlds belong together.

Life is a blend of action and of reflection, stock-taking, study and planning.

Unfold your newspaper or open your book and horizons stretch out of sight before you. From the urgent bulletins which report our progress along the ledge between peace and war, prosperity and depression, order and chaos, you can move in the flash of an eye to distant places or to the high reaches of philosophic thought.

The man who "does things" will do them better, be a better human being, too, if he expands his own world to include knowledge of what others, here and in many lands, do feel and think. To cast the same broad glance back into the past gives him still greater enlargement.

The experiences of other men, of other places, now and in other times, build impressively upon the foundation structure of your life.

Without them the structure will be low and small. You will have put rigid, arbitrary ceiling limits upon what you may achieve and what you may enjoy. You may have action, but it will be narrow, shallow, repetitive.

The building materials for bigger, more rewarding living lie at your finger tips. The moment you reach out and grasp your newspaper or a magazine or book, you have begun to build.

PASSING OF A WARRIOR

Frank Lloyd Wright, that "rebellious old gentleman," will be sorely missed. Not only by his colleagues in the field of architecture, but by all of us who have benefited from his genius—benefited perhaps more than we, in our ranch homes and glass skyscrapers, are aware.

Wright was always the angry young man of architecture, even when he was no longer a young man. His long life was a constant battle with what to him were the rigid, uninspired, change-resisting schools of thought of his contemporaries. If he was not the greatest architect of the 20th century, his fiery nature and vociferous devotion to his ideas made him the most famous.

Probably the best proof of Wright's success, aside from the honors from his profession that came to him late in life, is the fact that today some of his work is considered old-fashioned and romantic. So accustomed have we became to the deep imprint left by Frank Lloyd Wright on the face of this land.

'These Days'

SOVIET ANTI-SEMITISM

Soviet anti-Semitism, as expressed by Stalin and Khrushchev, is normal to the Russian environment. Khrushchev who hails from the Russo-Ukrainian border, lived in the most anti-Semitic area in the world. It was in this region that the notorious Kishinev massacres occurred.

But there is a further matter that cannot be ignored: Karl Marx, although born of Jews, was himself a vicious anti-Semite, a hater of his own people. On this subject, a book has recently been published by The Wisdom Library, entitled "Karl Marx—a World Without Jews." Dagobert D. Runes who writes an introduction to this miserable volume says:

". . . in the middle of the nineteenth century anti-Semitism was mainly a religious and social, not a racial, issue, and among converts such as Karl Marx are to be found vitriolic enemies of Judaism. The convert as a tool in the hands of professional Jew baiters is to be found as early as the Middle Ages in the person of the Jew Pfefferkorn who assisted in attempts to put Jewish sacred literature to the torch. And little more than ten years ago in the Soviet Union, the Jew Ilya Ehrenburg led the attack against Jewish writers as being cosmopolitan, non-patriotic and Zionist. This he did at the grave of almost eight hundred Yiddish poets, writers, and novelists who had been executed at the behest of Stalin."

Karl Marx descended from a raobinical family but his father, Heschel Marx, accepted Christianity in 1816 in order to practice law in Prussia—a state in which no Jew could then practice law. In a word, Marx's father was converted to Christianity for economic reasons. This is Karl Marx's solution to the problem of the Jewish religion:

"The stiffest form of opposition between Jew and Christian is religious. How is it to be resolved? By making it impossible. How can this be achieved? By abolishing religion. As soon as Jew and Christian recognize their respective religions as different stages in the evolution of the human spirit, as successive snake-skins shed by history—man being the snake that bore them all—they will no longer stand in a religious relationship to each other, but in a critical, scientific, human relationship. . . ."

What Marx thought of religion is perhaps best stated in these lines:

". . . But since the existence of religion is the existence of a defect, the source of this defect can be sought only in the nature of the state. We hold that religion is no longer the operating cause but the result of human limitation. We therefore derive the religious small-mindedness of free citizens from their general small-mindedness. We do not maintain that they must abolish their religious limitations in order to abolish their human limitations. We do not turn secular human problems into religious ones; we turn religious questions into secular ones. History has too long been dissolved into superstitions; we now dissolve superstitions into history. . . ."

Karl Marx's concept of his own people follows:

". . . The Jew has emancipated himself in the Jewish fashion not only by acquiring money power but through money's having become (with him or without him) the world power and the Jewish spirit's having become the practical spirit of the Christian peoples. The Jews have emancipated themselves to the extent that Christians have become Jews."

How false this is appears in the poverty of most European Jews, a poverty which Karl Marx knew and experienced. In fact, many of his collaegues in the International Workingmen's Association were proletarian Jews. In the pages of this pamphlet, which I hold in my hands as I write this, are some of the most vicious and historically untruthful statements which Karl Marx makes about his own people, as, for instance:

"The monotheism of the Jew is therefore actually a polytheism of many needs, and it makes even renunciation the object of divine law. Practical need, egotism, is the underlying principle of bourgeois society and is recognizable as such immediately this society sets up its own political state. The god of practical needs and private interest is money."

No bigot, no professional money-raising Jew-hater has ever written anything as terrible as Karl Marx has about Jews. He talks much like those queer creatures in our own society who, having changed their names, labor to be what they are not.

Thyroid Deficiency Usually Yields Readily to Treatment

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.
Written for NEA Service

"About seven years ago I had a goiter removed," writes Mrs. F.

"Since then I have put on a lot of weight and am sleepy and feel tired all the time. Could this come from the operation, and is there anything which might be done to help me?"

An attempt to answer this question requires a little guesswork. Of course, Mrs. F. should check with a physician before doing anything.

However, the question certainly implies that the patient had a part of her thyroid gland removed seven years ago for a toxic condition. At that time, presumably, this gland was producing an abnormal hormone secretion and the operation was doubtless done to restore its action more nearly to normal.

It seems possible that in this instance more thyroid tissue was removed than necessary so that now not enough of the hormone is produced.

This can be checked by having Mrs. F. take a basal metabolic test and other tests. If these reveal insufficient thyroid hormone production, she can be given just the right amount of thyroid extract.

Aside from operation there are two well-known disorders resulting from insufficient hormone manufactured by the thyroid gland.

One is known as cretinism and occurs in children. A child afflicted with cretinism fails to grow normally, either in a mental or physical sense.

What causes cretinism is not completely understood. The disease is fortunately rare in most parts of the world, although even today there are said to be an unusually large number of cases in certain regions of the Swiss Alps.

Thyroid extract prepared from animals contains the hormone which is lacking in cretinism. Therefore, if this extract can be given early enough and in sufficient quantities it will largely counteract the evil effects from the lack of secretion of the thyroid gland.

Adults also may be affected by total lack of secretion of the thyroid gland. This is known as myxedema.

It is a rare and extraordinary condition: The hair gets thick, coarse and loses its sheen; the skin becomes thick and dry; the pulse is slowed; and other symptoms such as anemia and joint pains are common.

Any physician likes to make a diagnosis of myxedema. One reason is that it is more or less of a medical curiosity; another, that treatment is exceedingly successful.

Thyroid extract results in the complete disappearance of symptoms which may have been present for many years. Of course, the thyroid extract has to be kept up throughout life, but this is simple and not excessively costly.

"Seems Like Yesterday You Came Up to My Knee"

Washington News

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Democratic National Committee is going into a couple of fancy finance promotion schemes to pay off its 1956-58 debts and to raise around $950,000 for 1959. If there's a little left over for 1960 too, nobody will be mad.

First is the "750 Club." The idea is to sign up 750 Democrats to give $1,000 apiece and so pay off the party's $750,000 debt. E. H. Foley, Washington lawyer who was treasury undersecretary in Truman's time, heads this up.

Principal attraction for members is that their subscription—in addition to coming to the aid of their party in time of need—will guarantee them a hotel reservation and two tickets to the 1960 convention in Los Angeles.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT tried this idea back in 1944 to finance the party in wartime. He called it the "One Thousand Club." The plan then was 1,000 members at $1,000 each, to raise a million. But only 291 signed up.

At the end of the campaign, the One Thousand Club had $3,400 in its treasury. Suggestions were made that the money be turned over to Democratic National Committee. The members would have none of that. They came to Washington for the 1945 inaugural, 275 strong, and threw themselves a big dinner. The bill was $6,155. They ended $2,755 in the red and just who paid that tab never was cleared up.

The Democrats think they can do better this time. So far, 225 members have been enrolled, leaving 525 to get.

THE SECOND DEMOCRATIC FLYER will be the Harry S. 75th birthday celebration May 8. This is a real gamble.

Mr. Truman is the only Democratic ex-president to reach 75 since James Buchanan in 1866. There was no celebration then. This time the Democrats decided to do something. Mr. Truman went along with the idea, to help the party.

Other cities signed up are Albuquerque, Chattanooga, Denver, Gary, Kansas City, Los Angeles, New Orleans, Oklahoma City, San Francisco. About 30 other cities are trying to organize tieins and 10 more are possibles.

IF MOST OF THEM HOOK ON, the celebration can make the party a lot of money. If they don't the losses can be awful. For the first costs are $80,000 for the show alone.

The program will include a half-hour filmed life story of President Truman, now in production under Roger L. Stevens, New York play producer. Mr. Truman will make a short personal appearance at the end of the program.

The financial arrangement is that the Democratic National Committee and local sponsoring committees will split gross receipts 50-50. But the National Committee will have to pay original production costs and local committees will have to pay ticket, dinner or hall rental costs plus $2,500 for line costs to cities of under 500,000, or $5,000 to cities over 500,000.

The cities will have to raise this money and pay it on the line before April 24. Otherwise they won't get their big screen installed and connected for the show two weeks later. That's where the risk comes in.

Senators Said to Resent 'Gag' at Justice's Hearing

WASHINGTON — Several members of the United States Senate are a little disturbed over the attempt the other day to gag them when they were questioning Justice Potter Stewart of the Supreme Court of the United States.

Mr. Stewart was given a "recess appointment" as an associate justice of the Supreme Court on Oct. 14, 1958. He has not been confirmed by the Senate, but he has participated in many decisions and has written nine opinions.

Some justices in the past have declined to take the oath of office until confirmed. The embarrassments that come to a justice who is already sitting on the court but who has to appear before a Congressional committee to give information, presumably on his own qualifications, are obvious.

Curb on Questions

In the hearing of the Senate Judiciary Committee the other day, lasting two hours, a point of order was made that no question should be asked of Justice Stewart concerning Supreme Court decisions or his own attitude toward past decisions. But in the discussion that followed, it was apparent that the point of order was not concurred in by other members of the committee from both the North and the South.

While the Constitution provides that the Senate may confirm or reject any Presidential nomination submitted to it, sometimes, when Congress is not in session, "recess appointments" are made. The recipient of such an appointment can serve only through the subsequent session of Congress. If he is not confirmed during that session, he is no longer eligible to remain at his post.

Queried on Segregation

Justice Stewart was, of course, not on the Supreme Court when the segregation decisions of 1954 were issued, but he has since had opportunities to concur in various rulings derived from the original case. On the surface, it would seem to be an impropriety to ask any Supreme Court Justice to discuss his reasoning with respect to decisions that he has already rendered on the high court, even though serving under a recess appointment. But the Senators on the judiciary committee did not ask about current decisions. They were interested in the reasoning of the Supreme Court in decisions prior to the time of Mr. Stewart's appointment. They wanted to know whether the new justice agrees with the reasoning, and Senator McClellan of Arkansas, Democrat, asked him to explain what he thinks was the reasoning and logic applied in the school segregation cases.

Justice Stewart said that basically he agrees with the 1954 decision, but not with "all the grammar and the footnotes." Yet it was one of those footnotes citing "psychological authority"—including Gunnar Myrdal, a Swedish Socialist—that has occasioned widespread criticism. Certainly in the argument before the Supreme Court itself, there was no opportunity to offer a rebuttal to the Myrdal view, because the "footnote" had at the time not been mentioned by the court.

It might well be asked of what value it is to determine whether an appointee to the court agrees or disagrees with past decisions. On this point, Mr. Stewart said, "I've never read any opinion of any court that I thought was perfect."

But the real duty of the Senate, every time a judicial appointment is submitted, is to find out whether the prospective justice actually believes in a written Constitution and the method prescribed therein for its amendment, or whether he believes that the Supreme Court can override the Constitution at will.

At one point, when the Senate Judiciary Committee was interrogating Justice Stewart, he was asked:

"Do you think the Supreme Court has the power to amend the Constitution?" He answered: "Certainly not to amend it, no."

The questioning of Justice Stewart is to be resumed in a few days. This is not the first time the views of a judicial appointee have come under close scrutiny by members of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Back in 1930, when Charles Evans Hughes was nominated to be Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, he was sharply criticized for his views in various cases. Indeed, much of the opposition to his confirmation came from the radicals of those days, and on the final vote they voted against Mr. Hughes plainly because of his previous decisions. In the case of John J. Parker, a member of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals who was nominated by President Hoover for the Supreme Court of the United States, the labor-union opposition was such that his nomination was rejected by a vote of the Senate.

There is, therefore, ample precedent for the present members of the Judiciary Committee to exxamine the views of any appointee to the Supreme Court and, indeed, to vote against him if they are so inclined.

Woman's Club Will Give Scholarship Awards This Year

Members of the Woman's Club of Rosendale, decided, at their April meeting, to continue awarding a prize of $10 to the student who made the most improvment during the year in each of the six schools in the Town of Rosendale. This will be given to the Cottekill, Creek Locks, Maple Hill, Rosendale, St. Peter's and Tillson Schools. In addition, a $100 scholastic award will be presented this year to a girl high school senior residing in the Town of Rosendale.

Mrs. Charles DeWitt of Tillson, winner of the sewing contest from the Woman's Club of Rosendale, won first prize at the Third District contest held in Albany recently. Mrs. DeWitt, accompanied by Mrs. Alfred Trandle, also a member of the club, will represent the Third District at the state judging to take place this week at Syracuse.

The group will provide refreshments and serve at the library open house beginning Thursday, April 16 from 2-5 and 7-9 p. m.

President Van Winkle reported that Mrs. Louis Mastro, Mrs. William Curran and herself had attended a meeting of the library board of trustees and requested that the club be permitted to use the library as a meeting place to accommodate increased membership. The Board granted the club's request since this group was the sponsor of the library.

Mrs. Thomas Burns, chairman of the loan closet, reported that the Loan Closet wheelchairs had been in use for some time. Since the original purpose of the loan closet was to provide emergency temporary use of the equipment, it was decided to reemphasize this. Mrs. Burns was authorized to purchase a new mattress cover to replace one of the present ones.

The club voted to send $25 to help defray the cost of Third District Director, Mrs. William McVey who had been so helpful in the club activities.

Co-hostesses for the meeting held at the home of Mrs. Nicholas Pezzello were Mrs. Burns, Mrs. George and Mrs. O'Leary.

Novelist Tells Meaning of Books And Libraries

Editor's Note — This week thousands of communities are observing the second National Library Week, sponsored by the National Book Committee in cooperation with the American Library Assn. Here a well known novelist explains what books—and libraries—mean to her.

By TAYLOR CALDWELL
Written For The Associated Press

It is an old aphorism that we never miss what we have until it has gone.

We take books for granted, all the glory, tragedy, humor, sadness and adventure, which books contain, all the companionship and the inspiration, all the new paths they open for us, the new places, the new scenes, the new people, the new excitement of discovery, the wisdom, the golden thoughts, the laughter.

A book is a passport to the world, and it is only when we lost that passport that we discover that we are homeless, that the world of men is closed to us, that we are bound and exiled, with no place to go, and that we have lost touch with our fellows.

There are some who say that it is much worse to be hungry and homeless and unwanted than it is not to have books. I disagree. I have been hungry, homeless and unwanted, and I filled all the barren space with the books I borrowed and I was consoled and inspired, and I was given courage.

The first terrifying experience of not having books—that is, unable to read them—occurred when I was 14 years old. I had been wandering in some woods and a thorn tree whipped at me and injured my right eye. For two weeks thereafter, I was forbidden to read until my eye healed.

There was music in our home, but music is only part of the world. I could walk on the streets, but the street was only a tiny section of living. I could talk with others, but talk does not convey a man's real thoughts. For a few days I had to live in a darkened room, and to this day darkness means terror to me and emptiness, a place without thought or being.

When I was finally permitted to read I fell on books as a starving man falls on food and I could not get enough of them, and I still can't, for without books there is a spiritual darkness.

A home without a library is not a home at all. The library does not have to be a special room. For many, many years my only library was three wooden shelves I put up myself in a rented room. Once my library consisted only of a suitcase.

Music and pictures, friends and entertainment, are only part of living. But books are all of living, for in them are music, pictures, friends and entertainment. A book contains the thoughts of the ages; the most modern book is only an echo of books written hundreds, even thousands of years ago. It is man's greatest monument — the book. The written word is man's noblest invention. A people without an alphabet and books are a people without civilization. They remain at the primitive level of beasts. "A man who does not read," said Plato, "is a creature who is not fully a man."

Divides Estate Among Friends

DOUGLAS, Ariz. (AP) — Grace Mackey was a stern mannered woman who put great faith in the devotion of friends.

Although wealthy, she never allowed financial standards to interfere with friendship.

She was fond of Ed Fox, 76, a taxicab driver who often provided transportation on her trips around this southern Arizona community.

She liked Ruby Hall, 46, a dining room hostess, who dropped by for a nightly visit.

Chief of Police Percy Bowden was her advisor. She called Ernie Beyer, 69, a bank cashier at nearby Bisbee, a close friend; and the same for Helen Ellis, a Colorado Springs, Colo., widow.

Mrs. Mackey, whose late husband founded the famed Gadsden Hotel of Douglas, died last August at 84. The division of her estate was announced recently.

Mrs. Hall received a check for $78,933. So did Bowden.

Fox, who has been worried about security for his old age, was willed $22,522. So were Beyer and Mrs. Ellis.

She divided the rest of her estate—which totaled $285,500 after taxes—among friends around the nation.

Speakers Named For AP's Annual Gotham Meeting

NEW YORK (AP)—Three analysts and reporters of international news will participate in a panel discussion next Monday during the annual meeting of The Associated Press.

U.S. Secretary of the Treasury Robert B. Anderson will be principal speaker at the annual AP luncheon the same day.

Panel of Newsmen

The panel of AP newsmen will be composed of Harold K. Milks, until recently chief of the Moscow bureau; John Hightower, diplomatic reporter who has covered the U.S. State Department since 1943; and William L. Ryan, foreign news analyst.

Kenneth MacDonald, vice president and editor of the Des Moines (Iowa) Register and Tribune and a director of The Associated Press, will be moderator of the discussion to be held during the afternoon session of the annual meeting at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

Anderson, a former Texas lawyer and businessman, has held three posts in the Eisenhower administration. Named Navy secretary in 1953, he moved up to deputy secretary of defense in little more than a year. In 1955, Anderson left government service for private business but returned in 1957 to head the Treasury after retirement of George M. Humphrey.

To Name Six Directors

Six directors will be elected to the 18-man Associated Press board of directors at the morning business meeting.

Three incumbents, having served three 3-year terms were not eligible for renomination under AP bylaws. They are Paul Miller, Rochester (N.Y.) Times-Union; Robert B. Choate, Boston (Mass.) Herald and Boston Sunday Herald; and Harry F. Byrd Jr., Winchester (Va.) Evening Star. Byrd represents cities of less than 50,000 population.

The incumbents renominated are Robert McLean, Philadelphia (Pa.) Evening and Sunday Bulletin, who as a former president of the AP is exempt from the three-term restriction; MacDonald; and John W. Runyon, Dallas (Tex.) Times-Herald.

Other Nominees

Other nominees named by the committee headed by Charles A. Storke, Santa Barbara (Calif.) News-Press, are: Frank S. Hoag Jr., Pueblo (Colo.) Chieftain; Millard Cope, Marshall (Tex.) News-Messenger; Robert Bunnelle, Asheville (N.C.) Citizen and Asheville Citizen-Times; Joseph Upulitzer Jr., St. Louis (Mo.) Post-Dispatch; Franklin D. Schurz, South Bend (Ind.) Tribune and Sunday Tribune; Alvah H. Chapman Jr., Savannah (Ga.) Morning News and Evening Press; and Buell W. Hudson, Woonsocket (R.I.) Call and Evening Reporter.

Nominated in the under-50,000 class to succeed Byrd were: Robert B. Atwood, Anchorage (Alaska) Times; and Hugh N. Boyd, New Brunswick (N.J.) Daily Home News and Sunday Home News and Sunday Times.

New Paltz Youth Wins Third Place In State Contest

Red-Picked Lama Reaches Peiping

TOKY O(AP) — The Panchen Lama, Communist-appointed ruler of Tibet, arrived in Peiping today to attend the Red People's congress.

The 21-year-old puppet, placed on the throne after the Dalai Lama fled to India, was expected to parrot full support for Communist control of his strife-torn Himalayan land.

Red Chinese Premier Chou En-lai and other high officials were at the railroad station to greet the Panchen Lama, Peiping radio said.

The Indian government announced that the Dalai Lama and his 80-member entourage will arrive at the railhead town of Texpur, in northeast India, April 18.

Man Stabs Wife, Her Mother, Two Others on Street

NEW YORK (AP)—A 26-year-old man stabbed his wife and mother-in-law Monday, then went out and attacked two strangers on the street, killing one and critically wounding another, police say.

Police identified the man as James Davis, Negro, of the Bronx.

His wife, Joan, 18, Negro, was in fair condition at Lincoln Hospital. Her mother, Mrs. Lillian Stevens, 36, was treated at the hospital and released.

Francisco Quinones, 46, of the Bronx, was in critical condition at the same hospital.

The dead man was identified as Effraim Velez, 29, also of the Bronx.

Police said Davis went to his mother-in-law's apartment, where his estranged wife was staying, late in the afternoon and got in an argument. He whipped out a fishing knife, stabbed his wife in the back, and stabbed his mother-in-law in the arm, they said.

Then he went on a drinking bout. He met Quinones on the street and stabbed him for no apparent reason, and later knifed Velez during an argument outside a tavern, according to the police account.

He was picked up by police shortly after the last stabbing.

Davis was booked on a charge of homicide.

Merchants Block

should be done with best possible advantage to the city.

128 Sign Opposition

Further delay last night on the proposal was apparently due largely to opposition of the uptown merchants. Sully Fleming, president of the Uptown Businessmen's Association, yesterday reported a petition with 128 signatures opposing the boost in rates would be presented at the meeting.

Another petition bearing 86 names of Fourth Ward residents was left with Deputy City Clerk Walter S. Foster. It was brought to the council chamber by Thomas Orr, 130 Murray Street.

See Loss of Business

The merchants felt that the boost, at this time, would affect the uptown shopping because of the inducement to do business out of the city.

Fleming emphasized that 46 per cent of area residents were shopping out of the city. He proposed that more rigid control of present meter rates would bring the city more revenue.

A group of 15 merchants met with Mayor Radel before last night's meeting to present their objections.

Alderman Mayes said that only two merchants had telephoned him with objections after it was noted that he had signed the call order for the special meeting. This, he felt, was insufficient to bring a change in sentiment.

Richter Tells About CP Work To Kiwanians

Herbert Richter, local attorney and director of the local Cerebral Palsy Center, was guest speaker Monday evening at the meeting of the Ulster Kiwanis. He described the work done at the local clinic and stated that at least 11 children from the Town of Ulster were receiving treatment.

A film "53 Minutes" was shown. The title of the film indicates that every 53 minutes a child suffering from cerebral palsy was born. The film depicts methods of treatment for afflicted children and methods of rehabilitating adults who were victims of the disease.

Richter said the members of Cerebral Palsy realized fully the needs of obtaining the facilities locally for the rehabilitation of the handicapped, such as those offered by the Kiwanis club and which the club was endeavoring to do in their project to raise funds for Gateway Industries.

Tickets on Sale

It was announced at the meeting that tickets for the benefit performance of "Old Kingston Point Park" will be on sale at Salzmann's Bakery, 720½ Broadway and at the Parish Linoleum and Tile Company, 781 Broadway. Contributions for the benefit of Gateway Industries may also be left at those stores.

Members of Ulster Kiwanis will assemble Friday evening and Saturday afternoon at Wall and John Streets to give information relative to the handicapped of the area and to sell tickets to the show they are sponsoring. All proceeds obtained by the Kiwanis club will be turned over to Gateway Industries. No expenses are to be incurred in this project.

Mrs. Hatfield May Stay in Europe Due to Illness

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—A group of New Yorkers on a tour of Europe may return without Mrs. Ernest I. Hatfield, who has been ill with pneumonia in Amsterdam, Holland.

Mrs. Hatfield is the wife of the state senator who heads New York's "Year of History" delegation.

Thomas E. Mulligan, coordinator of the Temporary State Commission on Historic Observances, said Monday the senator told him by telephone that Mrs. Hatfield had been confined to a hotel room since the Hatfields arrived in Amsterdam April 3.

Mulligan said it was not known yet whether Mrs. Hatfield would be able to return to the United States Thursday with the rest of the 42-member delegation.

The group left London yesterday for Dublin, the last stop on their goodwill tour.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market made an irregular advance in fairly active trading early this afternoon.

Gains of key stocks went from fractions to around a point. There were plenty of losers in the same range.

Among drugs, Warner-Lambert slashed an early 3-point gain to a point or so. Bristol-Myers erased a small early gain and showed a net loss of about 2.

Parke, Davis kept a gain of about a point while Vick Chemical, a lively gainer recently, dropped a couple of points. Pfizer was off 1. . .

Lockheed was steady and Douglas Aircraft dropped a fraction.

Gains of about a point were posted for Atlantic Coast Line, Southern Pacific and Illinois Central.

A 3-point gain for Thiokol made this stock a standout in the rocket-fuel section. Beckman Instruments added 2 and Radio Corp. more than a point in the electronics group. Raytheon gained more than a point.

If approved the street departments employes will receive five cents addition per hour. There will also be $200 increases for Village Clerk Ernest Ackert and William Voerg, superintendent of public works, and a $220 increase for William McCormick, village hall janitor. The budget also contains $100 for the Hudson-Champlain celebration expenses in the village.

National Library Week Will Be Observed Locally

The theme for National Library Week, April 12 through 18, is "Wake Up and Read."

Saugerties Public Library is offering to junior readers pamphlets entitled "Growing Up With Books" and "Growing Up With Science Books." A new Classics Club has been started at the library. Children who read 10 of the recommended children's classics will receive a special reading certificate. Miss Janice Lee Myers has received the first certificate awarded in this category.

Regular reading certificates have been awarded to more than 200 local boys and girls who have completed borrowers' cards.

Senior readers are invited to reserve favorite best sellers. Many excellent books which never reach best-seller lists are always available. Technical books not found at the local library may be borrowed through the inter-library loan system from the New York State Library at Albany. Patrons whe request books from the State Library are expected to pay return postage on these particular books.

During the past year the circulation figures reached more than 34,000 and during this period approximately 3,000 reference questions were answered.

Nixon Proposes World Court Act On E-W Disputes

NEW YORK (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon proposes that the World Court be made the umpire in disputes arising from any future East-West agreements.

U.S. dedication to a strong military position reduces the chance of deliberate war, he said. But as long as force remains the final arbiter of international disputes there will always be the possibility of "war by miscalculation," he added.

Nixon spoke Monday night at the Academy of Political Science.

His proposal is not yet the official United States position, he said, but he has discussed it at length with Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers and officials of the State Department. He said he is convinced the proposal deserves serious consideration.

The World Court — the International Court of Justice — is the principal judicial organ of the United Nations. It is composed of 15 judges elected by the General Assembly and the Security Council of the U.N.

The court, which sits at the Hague, Netherlands, cannot consider any case not voluntarily submitted to it by one or more nations, and has no power to enforce a decision.

Nixon proposed that nations signing future international agreements agree to be bound by the court's interpretation.

128 Sign Opposition

Further delay last night on the proposal was apparently due largely to opposition of the uptown merchants. Sully Fleming, president of the Uptown Businessmen's Association, yesterday reported a petition with 128 signatures opposing the boost in rates would be presented at the meeting.

Another petition bearing 86 names of Fourth Ward residents was left with Deputy City Clerk Walter S. Foster. It was brought to the council chamber by Thomas Orr, 130 Murray Street.

Richter Tells About CP Work To Kiwanians

Herbert Richter, local attorney and director of the local Cerebral Palsy Center, was guest speaker Monday evening at the meeting of the Ulster Kiwanis. He described the work done at the local clinic and stated that at least 11 children from the Town of Ulster were receiving treatment.

A film "53 Minutes" was shown. The title of the film indicates that every 53 minutes a child suffering from cerebral palsy was born. The film depicts methods of treatment for afflicted children and methods of rehabilitating adults who were victims of the disease.

Richter said the members of Cerebral Palsy realized fully the needs of obtaining the facilities locally for the rehabilitation of the handicapped, such as those offered by the Kiwanis club and which the club was endeavoring to do in their project to raise funds for Gateway Industries.

Tickets on Sale

It was announced at the meeting that tickets for the benefit performance of "Old Kingston Point Park" will be on sale at Salzmann's Bakery, 720½ Broadway and at the Parish Linoleum and Tile Company, 781 Broadway. Contributions for the benefit of Gateway Industries may also be left at those stores.

Members of Ulster Kiwanis will assemble Friday evening and Saturday afternoon at Wall and John Streets to give information relative to the handicapped of the area and to sell tickets to the show they are sponsoring. All proceeds obtained by the Kiwanis club will be turned over to Gateway Industries. No expenses are to be incurred in this project.

Mrs. Hatfield May Stay in Europe Due to Illness

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—A group of New Yorkers on a tour of Europe may return without Mrs. Ernest I. Hatfield, who has been ill with pneumonia in Amsterdam, Holland.

Mrs. Hatfield is the wife of the state senator who heads New York's "Year of History" delegation.

Thomas E. Mulligan, coordinator of the Temporary State Commission on Historic Observances, said Monday the senator told him by telephone that Mrs. Hatfield had been confined to a hotel room since the Hatfields arrived in Amsterdam April 3.

Mulligan said it was not known yet whether Mrs. Hatfield would be able to return to the United States Thursday with the rest of the 42-member delegation.

The group left London yesterday for Dublin, the last stop on their goodwill tour.

The university announced his appointment yesterday.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market made an irregular advance in fairly active trading early this afternoon.

Gains of key stocks went from fractions to around a point. There were plenty of losers in the same range.

Among drugs, Warner-Lambert slashed an early 3-point gain to a point or so. Bristol-Myers erased a small early gain and showed a net loss of about 2.

Parke, Davis kept a gain of about a point while Vick Chemical, a lively gainer recently, dropped a couple of points. Pfizer was off 1. . .

Lockheed was steady and Douglas Aircraft dropped a fraction.

Gains of about a point were posted for Atlantic Coast Line, Southern Pacific and Illinois Central.

A 3-point gain for Thiokol made this stock a standout in the rocket-fuel section. Beckman Instruments added 2 and Radio Corp. more than a point in the electronics group. Raytheon gained more than a point.

$231,253 Village Budget Hearing Set for Tonight

A public hearing on the $231,253.50 Saugerties village budget for 1959-1960 with a tax rate of $15.90—the same as last year—will be held tonight at 8 o'clock in the village clerk's office.

The tentative budget was approved by the village board at its meeting March 30.

The budget includes anticipated revenue of $73,645.10 with $157,608.40 to be raised by taxes. The rate $15.90 is based on $1,000 assessed valuation.

Although the budget was described as "tight" by Mayor George P. Holmes, it was possible to grant raises in some departments.

If approved the street departments employes will receive five cents addition per hour. There will also be $200 increases for Village Clerk Ernest Ackert and William Voerg, superintendent of public works, and a $220 increase for William McCormick, village hall janitor. The budget also contains $100 for the Hudson-Champlain celebration expenses in the village.

Pupils of Upper Grades, Parents Session Scheduled

Opportunities for advanced education and training will be discussed at a meeting sponsored by Saugerties High School guidance department Tuesday, April 28 at 7:30 p. m. in the Saugerties High School auditorium.

Miss A. Frances Larned, director of guidance, and Kenneth Lane, guidance counselor, will be the speakers. Pupils in the eighth, ninth, tenth, and eleventh grades and their parents are especially invited to attend this meeting but anyone else who may be interested will be welcomed.

Miss Larned and Lane will describe the types of education available in business schools, nurses' training institutions, junior colleges, technical institutes, beauty culture schools, miscellaneous types of schools and four year colleges.

Miss Learned will also explain how apprentice training for a skilled trade may be secured. Lane will point out the many opportunities for advanced education and training available through military service.

Considerable mimeographed material concerning various types of advanced schools and scholarships will also be distributed. At the close of the formal program an opportunity will be given for both parents and students to ask questions.

National Library Week Will Be Observed Locally

The theme for National Library Week, April 12 through 18, is "Wake Up and Read."

Saugerties Public Library is offering to junior readers pamphlets entitled "Growing Up With Books" and "Growing Up With Science Books." A new Classics Club has been started at the library. Children who read 10 of the recommended children's classics will receive a special reading certificate. Miss Janice Lee Myers has received the first certificate awarded in this category.

Regular reading certificates have been awarded to more than 200 local boys and girls who have completed borrowers' cards.

Senior readers are invited to reserve favorite best sellers. Many excellent books which never reach best-seller lists are always available. Technical books not found at the local library may be borrowed through the inter-library loan system from the New York State Library at Albany. Patrons who request books from the State Library are expected to pay return postage on these particular books.

During the past year the circulation figures reached more than 34,000 and during this period approximately 3,000 reference questions were answered.

The slogan "Wake Up and Read" calls all area residents to share the treasures of inspiration, information and recreation found on library shelves, Mrs. Vera I. Mack, librarian said.

P-TA to Meet At Mt. Marion On Status Vote

The topic, "Reading in the Grades," will be considered at the regular monthly meeting of Saugerties Parent-Teacher Association Wednesday at 8 p. m. in the auditorium of the Mount Marion School.

The guest speaker will be Dr. George W. Bond, professor of education at the State University Teachers College, New Paltz.

The type of organization to be followed in the future by the Saugerties Parent-Teacher Association will be voted on during the business meeting.

Members will be asked to vote whether they wish to have P-TA continue as a large unit with meetings rotating among the larger schools; or continue the present P-TA charter allowing any group wishing to withdraw to secure a charter before October 1, 1959; or a central P-TA organization with separate representative parent-teacher groups in individual schools. These groups would not be connected with the National Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Sawyer Debaters Set for Syracuse Weekend Tourney

April, the critical championship month of Sawyer debate activity approaches one of its three peak weekends this Friday and Saturday with the State National Forensic League Championship at Syracuse. Spokesmen from 21 schools will compete in debate and six speech categories.

Jamestown, 1957 and 1958 champion, will be after its third straight title. Sawyer hopes will be carried by varsity veterans Nancy Overbagh and Carolyn Roeser paired with the recently successful (Mohawk-Hudson Championship) negative squad of Paul Kruger and George Popowicz.

Nancy Misasi, Carolyn Halpert, Michael Breen, Eileen Cahill, Malcolm MacKay, Lynda Wrolsen, Hannah McLennan and Rosemary Mooney will carry Sawyer hopes in the speech categories. Saugerties finished third in 1957 and fourth in 1958. In cumulative scoring the Saugerties hold on first place captured in February was lost in March to Poughkeepsie. From March 25 to April 1st the Sawyers again took first place only to slip back to second again on the April 1st ranks.

On April 25-26 four Sawyer debate squads compete in the New York State open championships. Hannah McLennan, Nancy Misasi and Eileen Cahill will also be finalists in extemporaneous, dramatic and original speech categories.

May 2 the annual debate banquet will be held to honor this year's squad. A Mid-Hudson round robin tourney will wind-up debate activity in May.

Town Notes

Mrs. Harold Kamp of the village was second award winner in the recent fashion-sewing competition of the Third District, New York State Federation of Women's Clubs at Albany. Mrs. Kamp represented the Monday Club.

Evening Unit to Meet

The Evening Unit of Saugerties Home Extension Service meets tonight at 8 o'clock in Trinity Episcopal Church Hall.

There will be a special auction sale following the meeting. Each member may bring items for the sale.

Nixon Proposes World Court Act On E-W Disputes

NEW YORK (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon proposes that the World Court be made the umpire in disputes arising from any future East-West agreements.

U.S. dedication to a strong military position reduces the chance of deliberate war, he said. But as long as force remains the final arbiter of international disputes there will always be the possibility of "war by miscalculation," he added.

Nixon spoke Monday night at the Academy of Political Science.

His proposal is not yet the official United States position, he said, but he has discussed it at length with Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers and officials of the State Department. He said he is convinced the proposal deserves serious consideration.

The World Court — the International Court of Justice — is the principal judicial organ of the United Nations. It is composed of 15 judges elected by the General Assembly and the Security Council of the U.N.

The court, which sits at the Hague, Netherlands, cannot consider any case not voluntarily submitted to it by one or more nations, and has no power to enforce a decision.

Nixon proposed that nations signing future international agreements agree to be bound by the court's interpretation.

Lawyer Believes Youth Innocent Of Armed Robbery

BALTIMORE (AP) — A lawyer is pondering further legal steps in behalf of a 17-year-old youth sentenced to 20 years for armed robbery of a woman.

Milton Allen, lawyer for Lemuel Smith of Amsterdam, N. Y., expressed his faith in Smith Monday after the youth received the maximum sentence.

"I sincerely believe in my heart that this boy is innocent," the lawyer said.

Allen said he had not decided whether to ask the Maryland Court of Appeals to review the case. This court, the state's highest, previously rejected an appeal of the guilty verdict returned by a jury.

Smith was convicted last January by a Youth Court jury in the July 30, 1958 robbery of a cleaning shop. Mrs. Edna Johnson, victim of the robbery, was severely beaten.

When asked yesterday by Judge Joseph R. Byrnes if he had anything to say, Smith replied: "God knows I'm innocent."

Slate Dr. Fields For TB & Health Anniversary Meet

Dr. Morey Fields, internationally known educator in the field of health, will give the address for the 50th annual meeting of Ulster County TB and Health Association Wednesday, May 6.

President of the association, Dr. Frederic W. Holcomb Sr., said, "We are more than pleased to have received word that Dr. Fields will attend. He is an outstanding international figure in the field of health today. His contribution to health education and public health is vast. Presently he is with the Health Education Division of the Department of health in New York City. He is familiar with the work of the voluntary Health agency, having served at one time as the executive director of the Oneida County TB and Health Association. He is known widely as a lecturer and author and for his research work in the field of health. As a member of the world health organization, Dr. Fields served as a professor in the School of Public Health in Calcutta, preparing health educators for work throughout India."

"On behalf of the Ulster County TB and Health Association," Dr. Holcomb said, "I extend a cordial invitation to everyone to attend this golden anniversary meeting. I believe Dr. Field's address on health as one of the great contributing forces for good in our land and for the world today, will be an inspiring and challenging message."

The Ulster County TB and Health Association originated in 1909 as the "Committee for the Prevention of Tuberculosis" with the late Judge Joseph M. Fowler as the first chairman. The organization has carried on a progressive program in many phases of health over this half century.

Lead Reported For Vaccine in Leprosy Cases

By FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Science Writer

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)— A possible lead towards developing a long-sought vaccine against leprosy — one of man's oldest scourges—was reported today.

A government researcher announced successful growth in test tube tissue culture of bacteria which causes leprosy in rats. He indicated that this might open one way to:

1. Producing a vaccine against the rat disease.
2. Perhaps ultimately developing a vaccine against the human malady.

Dr. Y. T. Chang, of the National Institute of Arthritis and Metabolic Diseases and the American Leprosy Foundation, gave this outline in a report to the 43rd annual meeting of the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology:

The bacillus that causes human leprosy is one of the wiliest and most elusive organisms of the germ world.

For many years, he said, researchers have attempted to maintain growth of the organism outside its natural host, the human body. Though it grows vigorously inside the body, it stops multiplying and soon dies if placed in an artificial environment.

Attempts to grow rat leprosy germs outside the living animal body have, until now, been tough.

Chang has come up with a cell culture in which the number of germs has increased seven times in seven weeks.

This is still not as fast as the germ multiplies inside the body, so attempts are being made to step up the rate.

If these attempts are successful, said Chang, it may be possible to produce a vaccine against rat leprosy just as the polio vaccine is produced from large cultures of polio virus. Such a vaccine might point the way to a similar preventive for the human disease.

He is familiar with the work of the voluntary Health agency, having served at one time as the executive director of the Oneida County TB and Health Association. He is known widely as a lecturer and author and for his research work in the field of health. As a member of the world health organization, Dr. Fields served as a professor in the School of Public Health in Calcutta, preparing health educators for work throughout India."

"On behalf of the Ulster County TB and Health Association," Dr. Holcomb said, "I extend a cordial invitation to everyone to attend this golden anniversary meeting. I believe Dr. Field's address on health as one of the great contributing forces for good in our land and for the world today, will be an inspiring and challenging message."

The Ulster County TB and Health Association originated in 1909 as the "Committee for the Prevention of Tuberculosis" with the late Judge Joseph M. Fowler as the first chairman. The organization has carried on a progressive program in many phases of health over this half century.

Lead Reported For Vaccine in Leprosy Cases

By FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Science Writer

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)— A possible lead towards developing a long-sought vaccine against leprosy — one of man's oldest scourges—was reported today.

A government researcher announced successful growth in test tube tissue culture of bacteria which causes leprosy in rats. He indicated that this might open one way to:

1. Producing a vaccine against the rat disease.
2. Perhaps ultimately developing a vaccine against the human malady.

Dr. Y. T. Chang, of the National Institute of Arthritis and Metabolic Diseases and the American Leprosy Foundation, gave this outline in a report to the 43rd annual meeting of the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology:

The bacillus that causes human leprosy is one of the wiliest and most elusive organisms of the germ world.

For many years, he said, researchers have attempted to maintain growth of the organism outside its natural host, the human body. Though it grows vigorously inside the body, it stops multiplying and soon dies if placed in an artificial environment.

Attempts to grow rat leprosy germs outside the living animal body have, until now, been tough.

Chang has come up with a cell culture in which the number of germs has increased seven times in seven weeks.

This is still not as fast as the germ multiplies inside the body, so attempts are being made to step up the rate.

If these attempts are successful, said Chang, it may be possible to produce a vaccine against rat leprosy just as the polio vaccine is produced from large cultures of polio virus. Such a vaccine might point the way to a similar preventive for the human disease.

Photographers Display Exhibited at College

An exhibition "Photographs of Children," by David Seymour, is now on display at the State University Teachers College. This exhibit will remain until Saturday. The public is invited to visit the college and see the exhibition.

Seymour, said to be one of the outstanding photographers of this century, was killed in 1956 while covering the arrival of the United Nations troops in the Suez Canal zone. He was killed along with Jean Joy when they tried to cross in their jeep from the British-French lines to the Egyptian side.

Often using the name "Chim," Seymour had work appearing in all of America's leading photo-news magazines, and he helped to found Magnum, the international photo-journalists' cooperative, in 1947.

The pictures included in the exhibition range from some taken during the Spanish Civil War to others in Port Said, shortly before his death. Many come from a coverage for UNESCO on the plight of Europe's children during the aftermath of World War II.

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

I wonder if folks remember what made us feel that Spring was really here. Remember the first summer trolley of the season. It brought out all the storekeepers and the smiling motorman and conductor would wave to everyone. Sometimes if the weather was only warm in the afternoon, and turned colder in the evening back would come the winter trolley and that would make us sad. If the evening remained warm, folks often would take the five cent trolley ride on the summer trolley. I can look back on such evenings, when my father would close the store earlier so we could ride uptown and back. Sometimes we would get off on Wall Street and look at the show windows and take the next trolley down. That is all gone, autos and diesel engines have taken over the Broadway raceway.

There was also the hurdy-gurdy man and his pet monkey. He seemed to appear from nowhere. I never knew if he came on foot, horseback or what. He was like a character out of a fairy-tale, when suddenly one heard his music of old Italian classics or some modern number. We would all rush outside to see where he was. He was so a part of our youth, with that little music-box strapped around his shoulders and the little monkey who loved him very much. Every so often she would throw her arms around him as if she was in fear of the world and people around her. As a rule she wore a little red hat and jacket, and in that jacket was a little pocket and in that pocket went all the pennies folks gave her. I remember her little fingers taking the coin firmly and putting it in her pocket and then tipping her little hat. The organ-grinder man tipped his hat too.

Perfect spring weather started the folks thinking about Kingston Point Park and Dayline excursions. There were also little steam yachts to various places like Eddyville. Many girls rode bicycles in those days as well as boys. We could always go over the Skillyput to Port Ewen or over the Big Ferry and ride for miles in the country. You could take your bike down to the Point just for the ride, all for free, no gas taxes, no entrance fees. For a nickel you could get an ice-cream soda or a cone.

Playing jacks was a game the girls liked. We used to gather in front of Avnet's Grocery store on lower Broadway because there was a convenient bluestone step. Hop-scotch was chalked on good side-walks and we played and played and everyone of us liked to jump rope. It was usually old clotheslines not fit any longer for household use. We never bought jumping rope. The boys played hide and seek, and cops and robbers. We played and rode our bicycles until we were called for supper, then we came in exhausted and ate what food was put before us.

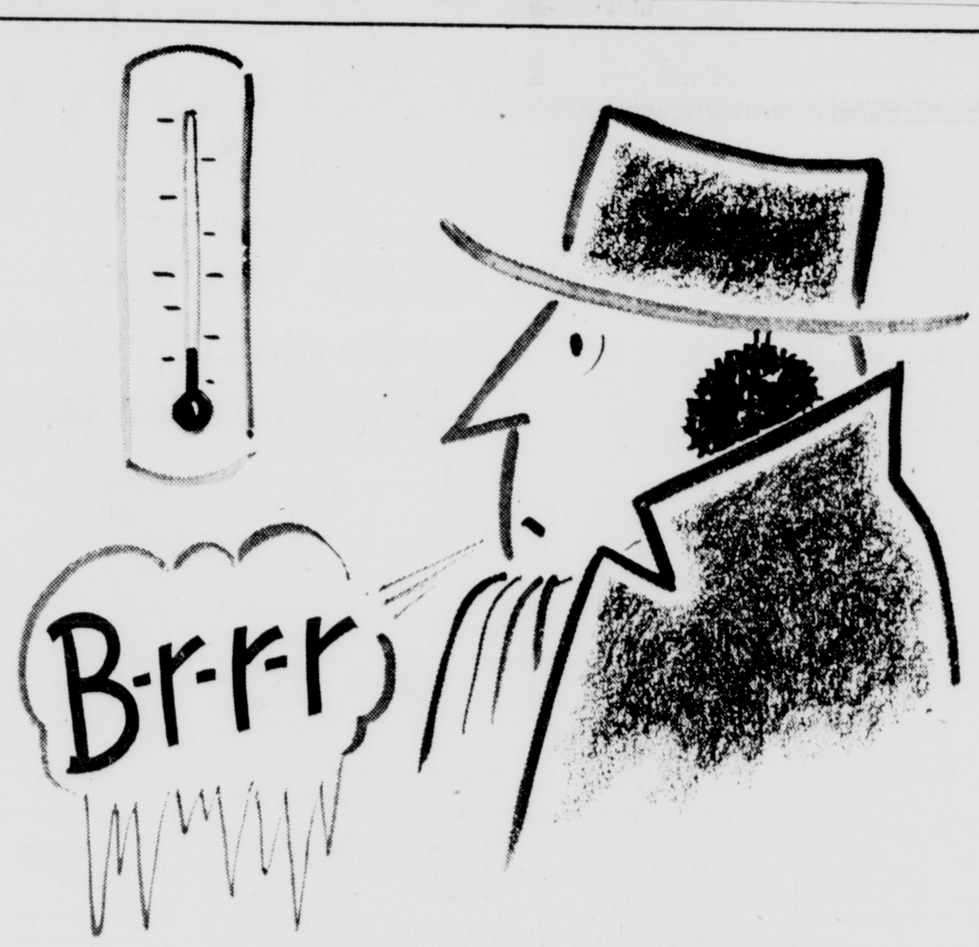

I think we spent more time outdoors than children do now. In those days we had McVey's Field, which they call Hasbrouck Park. We had Block Park, and Cornell Park, which was Rice's property in those days to us. We exxplored caves, and the boys would dive off the dock to catch pennies thrown by passengers from the boats. Many of the boys used to climb up on the high piles and dive off. When a boy did not show up for the evening meal in the summer, Officer White often found him down by the dock and walked him home in no uncertain manner. The Mary Powell whistle, and the early curfew, 9 in the summer, 8 in the winter sent us all home. After those hours police officers had a right to send us home pronto.

Play Offsets Bad Bidding

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

South's two-spade bid was doubtful and his rebid to game can only be described as total optimism.

He won the opening heart lead in dummy and after looking things over carefully he saw that he just might make his contract if everything went well.

He promptly played the deuce of clubs and East won with the ten. East had nothing better to do than lead a second heart and South was back in dummy.

He ruffed a club to get to his own hand and led a small trump. West rose with the ace. He had nothing to gain by playing small. Another heart was won by South's ace and a second spade lead produced the king from West and the jack from East.

West led a fourth heart. South ruffed, picked up West's eight of trumps with the ten, finessed the diamond and made the hand.

Photographers Display Exhibited at College

An exhibition "Photographs of Children," by David Seymour, is now on display at the State University Teachers College. This exhibit will remain until Saturday. The public is invited to visit the college and see the exhibition.

Seymour, said to be one of the outstanding photographers of this century, was killed in 1956 while covering the arrival of the United Nations troops in the Suez Canal zone. He was killed along with Jean Joy when they tried to cross in their jeep from the British-French lines to the Egyptian side.

Often using the name "Chim," Seymour had work appearing in all of America's leading photo-news magazines, and he helped to found Magnum, the international photo-journalists' cooperative, in 1947.

The pictures included in the exhibition range from some taken during the Spanish Civil War to others in Port Said, shortly before his death. Many come from a coverage for UNESCO on the plight of Europe's children during the aftermath of World War II.

Play Offsets Bad Bidding

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

South's two-spade bid was doubtful and his rebid to game can only be described as total optimism.

He won the opening heart lead in dummy and after looking things over carefully he saw that he just might make his contract if everything went well.

He promptly played the deuce of clubs and East won with the ten. East had nothing better to do than lead a second heart and South was back in dummy.

He ruffed a club to get to his own hand and led a small trump. West rose with the ace. He had nothing to gain by playing small. Another heart was won by South's ace and a second spade lead produced the king from West and the jack from East.

West led a fourth heart. South ruffed, picked up West's eight of trumps with the ten, finessed the diamond and made the hand.

All of which proves once more that good play and good luck can make up for a whole lot of overbidding.

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

I wonder if folks remember what made us feel that Spring was really here. Remember the first summer trolley of the season. It brought out all the storekeepers and the smiling motorman and conductor would wave to everyone. Sometimes if the weather was only warm in the afternoon, and turned colder in the evening back would come the winter trolley and that would make us sad. If the evening remained warm, folks often would take the five cent trolley ride on the summer trolley. I can look back on such evenings, when my father would close the store earlier so we could ride uptown and back. Sometimes we would get off on Wall Street and look at the show windows and take the next trolley down. That is all gone, autos and diesel engines have taken over the Broadway raceway.

There was also the hurdy-gurdy man and his pet monkey. He seemed to appear from nowhere. I never knew if he came on foot, horseback or what. He was like a character out of a fairy-tale, when suddenly one heard his music of old Italian classics or some modern number. We would all rush outside to see where he was. He was so a part of our youth, with that little music-box strapped around his shoulders and the little monkey who loved him very much. Every so often she would throw her arms around him as if she was in fear of the world and people around her. As a rule she wore a little red hat and jacket, and in that jacket was a little pocket and in that pocket went all the pennies folks gave her. I remember her little fingers taking the coin firmly and putting it in her pocket and then tipping her little hat. The organ-grinder man tipped his hat too.

Perfect spring weather started the folks thinking about Kingston Point Park and Dayline excursions. There were also little steam yachts to various places like Eddyville. Many girls rode bicycles in those days as well as boys. We could always go over the Skillyput to Port Ewen or over the Big Ferry and ride for miles in the country. You could take your bike down to the Point just for the ride, all for free, no gas taxes, no entrance fees. For a nickel you could get an ice-cream soda or a cone.

Playing jacks was a game the girls liked. We used to gather in front of Avnet's Grocery store on lower Broadway because there was a convenient bluestone step. Hop-scotch was chalked on good side-walks and we played and played and everyone of us liked to jump rope. It was usually old clotheslines not fit any longer for household use. We never bought jumping rope. The boys played hide and seek, and cops and robbers. We played and rode our bicycles until we were called for supper, then we came in exhausted and ate what food was put before us.

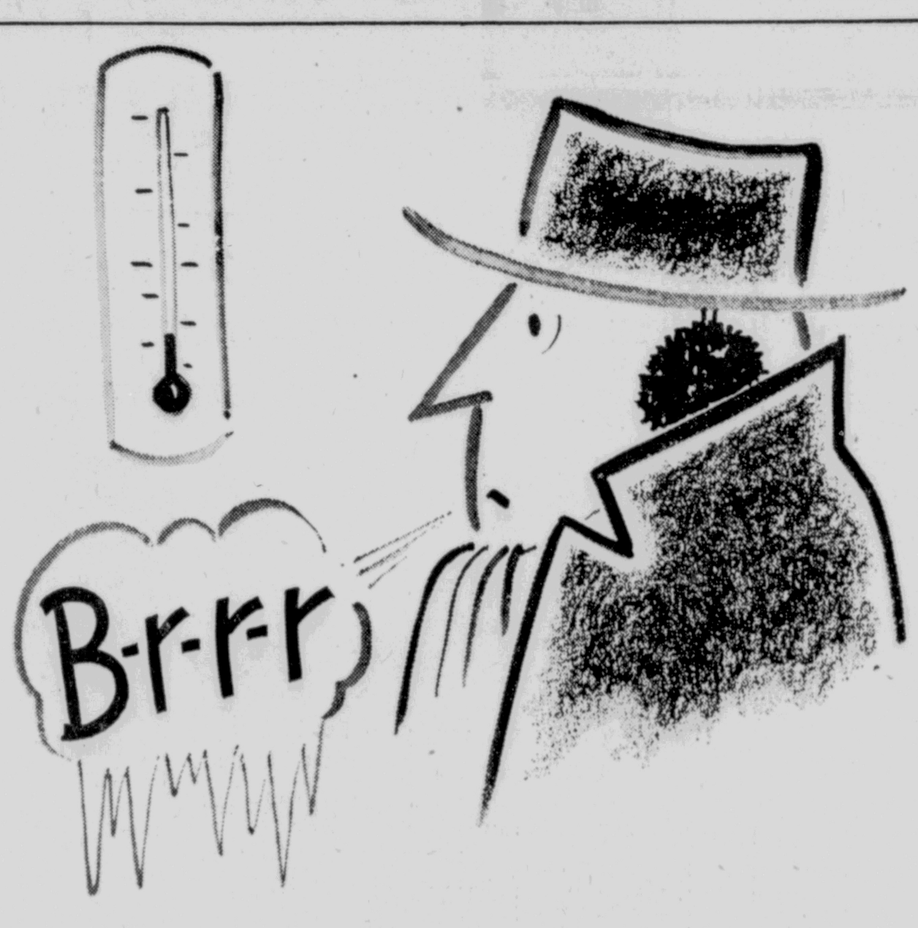

I think we spent more time outdoors than children do now. In those days we had McVey's Field, which they call Hasbrouck Park. We had Block Park, and Cornell Park, which was Rice's property in those days to us. We exxplored caves, and the boys would dive off the dock to catch pennies thrown by passengers from the boats. Many of the boys used to climb up on the high piles and dive off. When a boy did not show up for the evening meal in the summer, Officer White often found him down by the dock and walked him home in no uncertain manner. The Mary Powell whistle, and the early curfew, 9 in the summer, 8 in the winter sent us all home. After those hours police officers had a right to send us home pronto.

Disability Benefits Under Social Security Are Outlined

George J. Johnson, manager of the Kingston, New York, Social Security Administration District Office said today, "The risk of disability hangs over all of us, and although it may strike only one in every hundred, it may affect the family's financial security more than the retirement, or even the death of a worker.

"In recent years the old-age and survivors insurance program has been enlarged to give protection also against loss of earnings because of severe, long-lasting disability.

"Part of our job at the social security office is to answer questions which people have about this protection under the social security program."

Johnson says that these are the questions most often asked about disability benefits under the social security law:

Q. How old do I have to be to be eligible for disability benefits?

A. Monthly payments may be made to disabled workers aged 50 to 65. A person's disability benefits are automatically changed to old-age benefits when he reaches 65. The amount of the benefit is the same. (However, a person disabled since childhood may get benefits regardless of his age if one of his parents gets retirement or disability benefits under the law, or dies after working long enough under social security to become insured.)

Q. What if I become disabled before I am 50 years old?

A You may have your social security earnings record "frozen" to protect your own and your family's rights to future benefits. When your earnings record is frozen, the period during which you are totally disabled for work is not counted, and does not lower your average earnings.

Q. How long must I have worked under social security to be eligible for disability payments, or to have my social security record frozen?

A. At least 5 years—or, since social security credits are counted in units of calendar quarters of the year, in at least 20 calendar quarters. The 20 quarters of coverage need not be consecutive, they must all have been during the 10 year period ending with the calendar quarter in which you become disabled. After 1961 the amount of work required will increase slowly.

Q. How disabled do I have to be to meet the terms of the social security disability provisions?

A. You don't have to be completely helpless to be found "disabled" under the social security law, but you must have a disability which, in the words of the law, makes you "unable to engage in any substantial gainful activity." Your condition must have lasted for at least 6 months, and be expected to continue for an indefinite time. Your physical or mental condition must show up in a medical examination or tests. Some examples of conditions which ordinarily are considered severe enough to make a person unable to engage in any substantial gainful activity are: loss of use of both arms, both legs, or a leg and an arm; cancer which is progressive and cannot be improved or cured by surgery or other treatment; permanent and total inability to speak; total deafness (which cannot be corrected by a hearing aid); and mental disease requiring constant supervision or continued confinement in an institution.

Q. Will my family receive any social security benefits if I am disabled for work?

A. The 1958 amendments to the social security law provide for dependents benefits to be paid to certain members of your family while you are receiving disability insurance benefits. Monthly payments can go to your unmarried children under age 18; your disabled, unmarried son or daughter 18 years of age or older, if the disability began before his or her 18th birthday; your wife age 62 or older (or your dependent husband, age 65 or older); your wife under age 62 if she has in her care a child under 18 (or a disabled child 18 or over) who is eligible for benefits.

Any further questions regarding social security benefits for disabled workers and their dependents should be directed to the social security office, which is located at 61 Albany Ave., Kingston, N. Y., and services all of Ulster and Sullivan Counties. Telephone FE 8-7307.

Pays Dividends

LAWRENCEBURG, Tenn. (AP)—The First Presbyterian Church's new $200,000 sanctuary has just about everything the 56-member congregation could want. And it's all paid for. How could such a small group pay cash? In 1949, the church received a gift of stock from the late Richard S. Reynolds Sr., president of the Reynolds Metals Co. By last year the stock had increased in value enough to pay the costs of the new building.

NEW YORK (AP) — "There is more than one way for an American firm to operate abroad—we use four. But there's just one reason we are thinking about further expansion overseas — we aren't going to be pushed out of any of our world markets."

That's how Gifford V. Leece, Quincy, Ill., maker of tools and President of Gardner - Denver, Quincy, Ill., maker of tools and machinery, reacts to all the talk today about whether Americans are being priced out of world markets.

Operating costs have been rising in the United States faster than in other lands. Many American firms have been able in the past to surmount this because of technical advances here that put them out in front of their foreign competitors.

But in the last few years Europe and Japan particularly have been catching up fast both in technique and designs. Americans feel they haven't the advantage they once had — and the rising costs here are beginning to hurt.

American exports have been falling off. Now many American firms are recouping because of increasing sales of their foreign plants.

The start of the Common Market in Europe has given some American manufacturers still more to worry about. They fear that in time the six nations — West Germany, France, Holland, Belgium, Luxembourg and Italy — will build a tariff wall that gives unbeatenable protection to plants operating inside the area.

Since Gardner - Denver has plants within the Common Market area, Leece feels that the new departure may be a help in building up his sales there.

The four plans that his firm uses overseas are:

1. A wholly owned plant in Rio De Janeiro, where factory and tools are its own and its product is made for distribution in Brazil, and maybe later in other countries. It was built to offset local competition that was cutting into the firm's market.

2. A leased plant in South Africa was built to Gardner - Denver specifications and the company installed its own tools. It makes and distributes its own products. It moved in to protect its existing markets in Africa.

3. In Belgium the firm contracted with a local company that already had factories and tools to make the American items to its specifications and deliver them to warehouses. Its own sales force handles them.

4. Gardner-Denver bought a controlling interest in a German company. The Americans furnish the specifications and the techniques and the German firm makes the products. The American sales force takes over from there.

Leece says that in no case does his company allow others to sell its goods.

The Quincy company is constantly studying opportunities for more expansion abroad. "We intend to hold our markets, whether we make the goods here or abroad," says Leece.

...in a road-hugging Wide-Track Pontiac!
Take all its beauty, balance it gracefully on a wider, steadier wheel design and you have a car the likes of which you've never owned. The wheels are five inches farther apart. This widens the stance, but not the car. You're secure at the controls, more comfortable from head to toe. There's a noticeable lack of lean and sway. Narrow track cars fall far short by comparison. Wouldn't this be a good day for you to drive this sweet automobile? The keys are waiting.

THE ONLY CAR WITH WIDE-TRACK WHEELS
Dotted lines show conventional wheel positions. Pontiac's wheels are five inches farther apart. This widens only the stance, not the car itself. Pontiac takes a better grip on the road, hugs tighter on curves and corners. Sway and lean are considerably reduced, ride is smoother, balanced, steadier.

St. John Tells Republicans Politics Is Full-Time Job

Politics is not a business in which you operate for only one month a year, former district attorney Howard C. St. John said in a speech before the Woodstock Republican Club.

"You must keep in politics on a year-round basis," St. John told the more than 50 members who turned out for the April meeting. "You must run strong candidates because the voting public is getting more selective and will not be fooled," he warned.

"There is no substitute for a strong candidate," he continued, "and in order to win you must get all of your registered voters to the polls on election day."

After discussing in some details ways and means of stimulating interest in the Republican party, St. John paid high tribute to Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson of Woodstock, the chairman of the Ulster county Republican committee. "Ken Wilson is not a 'political boss' in the old sense of the word," said St. John. "He is a leader dedicated to the best interests of the party and the taxpayers."

Hailed by Longendyke

The guest speaker was introduced by Monroe Longendyke, who described St. John as one of the finest Republican figures in Ulster county.

Club president, James E. Hamlin, complimented St. John's remarks with a statement that the club should campaign for the best possible candidates, get speakers and large turnouts for their meetings.

The president also announced the appointment of a Community Committee to greet all new residents of the township and explain the principles of Republicanism to them. Members of the committee which will be enlarged later are: Birge Simmons, Woodstock; Edgar Baker, Wittenberg and Mrs. Richard G. Counihan of Zena.

James W. Kinns and Floyd A. DeWitt were designated to serve as liaison between the Republican Club and the Woodstock Association. President Hamlin also urged the club to take a complete census of the town to include the names of all residents, ages, occupations and political affiliation.

Plan July 4 Clambake

It was decided to stage a clambake on July 4 and invite a Republican speaker from the state level. Abram F. Molyneaux volunteered the use of his farm, if another site is not available.

It was announced that Telford A. Graham will head a committee from the Woodstock Junior Chamber of Commerce in a street cleanup campaign on April 20.

Abram Molyneaux and Mrs. Virginia Holdridge were named a committee to update and codify the by-laws of the organization.

Members of the refreshment committee for the program were: Mrs. Joseph Fitzsimmons, Mrs. Adele Longendyke, Mrs. James MacVitty and Mrs. James E. Hamlin.

Mrs. Louise Burmester Wins 1st Place in Sewing Contest

Mrs. Louise Burmester won first prize in the Woodstock Jayncees sewing contest and will represent the Jayncees in the New York State Jayncees finals at the Saugerties High School on Saturday, April 18.

Mrs. Burmester's entry was adjudged the best among 14 exhibited at the Jayncee contest held at the Methodist Church hall.

Mrs. Dolores Fredericks was second prize. Third prize went to Mrs. Barbara Williams. Receiving honorable mention were Mrs. Earl Davies Sr. and Mrs. Elaine Zucker.

Mrs. Burmester entered and modeled two outfits. The first was a jacket dress of red wool and nylon blend with taffeta print. Her second entry, an original pattern, was a cream colored India cocktail dress.

In addition to her registration fees and luncheon, which will be sponsored by the Woodstock Jayncees, Mrs. Burmester also won a shampoo set and a gift certificate for shoes.

Mrs. Fredericks Second

Mrs. Fredericks placed second with a boys double-breasted winter coat of camel hair and wool with pellon interlining made from a Simplicity pattern and modeled by her son, Wayne.

Mrs. Barbara Williams entered and modeled an afternoon dress in a blue and green print of a silk and viscose material, made from a McCall's pattern.

In the runnerup department, Mrs. Earl Davis Sr. entered a white organdy party dress with lace inserts made from a Simplicity pattern. The dress was modeled by her grand-daughter, Stephanie Graham. Mrs. Elaine Zucker's two entries which she modeled were a brown plaid wool skirt and coat lined in white crepe which she designed herself; and a blue and white wool two-piece suit lined in crepe, which she also designed.

Other entries submitted were: Kathy and Karen Larsen — modeled suits made by a family friend from beautiful plaid wool sent from Scotland by the girls' uncle; Mrs. Pat Carr — a child's red coat of hopsocking lined with a cotton strawberry print and matching dress in the same print, modeled by her daughter, Karen. Mrs. Carr modeled a brown blueson cotton print made from a Simplicity pattern by Mrs. Audrey Bagnall.

Other Good Entries

Also, Mrs. Pat Hastie modeled a two-piece blue and green flavored print of hopsocking and made from a Simplicity pattern; Dianne Wittner, modeled a child's blue and white stripped cotton dress which was made by Mrs. Nallory from a Simplicity pattern; Mrs. Mary Graham, modeled a beige, orange and brown print sheath with matching jacket in a dri-dry orlon and cotton; Mrs. Doris Bellinger, entered and modeled a lightweight bolero suit of dark blue silk and worsted. The shirt was made from a Vogue pattern and the jacket from a Simplicity pattern; Mrs. Margaret Glass, entered and modeled a sheath of light blue cotton tweed made from a McCall's pattern.

Mrs. K. W. Nickel entered and modeled a white sheath with empire bow, made from a Vogue pattern; Mrs. Xena Popplewell showed a lavendar summer cotton child's dress, Simplicity pattern, which was modeled by Libby Nickel; Mrs. Patricia Van Wart, entered and modeled a full-length coat of holly hock pink wool and mohair lined with pink taffeta, made from a Simplicity pattern. Mrs. Van Wart also showed a harem-skirted evening dress of blue peau-de-soie.

Mrs. Evangeline Mallory entered and modeled a two-piece suit of brown tweed woolen silk, which she designed herself. Mrs. Mallory also showed a two-piece Navy blue wool dress which she designed and remade from a maternity suit; Mrs. Holly Meyer entered and modeled a green wool skirt made from a Simplicity pattern.

Merchants taking part in the program included Pauline's Beauty Shop, Estelle's, Woodstock Gift Box, The Little Shop, Houst's Hardware, Woodstock Jewelers, Hilda Lightstone and Studio Shop.

Judges for the contest were Mrs. Betty Jenkins, principal of the East Kingston elementary School, and Mrs. Mary Cole, teacher of Home Economics at Onteora Central School.

Koch Finds Movie Industry Showing Signs of Decadence

The film industry in Hollywood has undergone a tremendous change—and for the worst—in the past seven years, says a Woodstock resident who is nationally prominent as a screenwriter and author.

Howard Koch told a packed house at the Guild Gallery Sunday that Hollywood is not at its best and there is a vast difference in the modus operandi of today and a decade ago. He has just returned from a two-months stay in the film capital.

"Hollywood is in the hands of two great agencies — MCA and the William Morris Agency — and they have the 'golden key' to the stable of stars," said Koch. "The agencies are in bad hands and they are killing the goose that lays the golden eggs."

$700,000 for Peck

As an example of the tremendous implications on finance, rather than quality, Koch pointed out that Gregory Peck commands $700,000 salary and 50 per cent of the gross for every film he makes. He was not alluding to Peck's ability, rather the financial consciousness of the present day industry.

"The movie industry is eating more and more substance," said the screen writer, "and films are sold by labels and quality is disregarded. In spite of this emphasis on finances and the big star, Hollywood still turns out an occasional good picture."

"Theatres are closing around the country," Koch went on, "but the producers keep making bigger pictures. Pretty soon the screen will stretch all away around the theatre.

IIn response to questions from the floor, Koch said he thought England was maintaining its picture integrity better than Italy, France and other European countries. He also said that long-standing taboos on subject material no longer exist in Hollywood.

Greater Latitude Today

"Scripts dealing with dope addicts, prostitution and miscegenation are taken in stride these days," he added.

Koch said that in his two-months stay in Hollywood he found many people interested in Woodstock; that Woodstock was more in the national consciousness.

"Woodstock is a little different from the main stream," said Koch, and Woodstock and Hollywood have become symbols."

Molyneaux Reply Defends His Role With Town Board

"I don't have to struggle too much with my conscience that the Republican policies and ideas were far more right than wrong," Attorney Abram F. Molyneaux told members of the Woodstock Republican Club at their April meeting.

Molyneaux, town Republican-controlled Town Board, made the statement in rebuttal to charges levelled against him by Donald Twine, recently elected vice president of the Woodstock Democratic Club.

Twine had charged at the recent meeting of the Democratic Club that Molyneaux has superseded his authority in his role as town legal adviser during deliberations of the Town Board.

Denies Prejudice

"I certainly hope he didn't mean to impugn my professional integrity at anytime," said Molyneaux. "As a Republican I have certain ideas just as Mr. Twine has a Democrat but my position as legal adviser does not influence my judgment. I have represented people of many political faiths and I am a lawyer before I am a Republican."

Molyneaux said that, in effect Twine was guilty of a half-truth when he charged that Supervisor Joseph Fitzsimmons had said at town board meetings that what the superintendent of highways did with the taxpayer's money was none of his business.

"Mr. Twine knows that before the superintendent's department receives an appropriation it must be included in the budget which is discussed at an open hearing. He is also aware of the authority vested in the superintendent by the town halls."

"If the Republicans are dissatisfied with the superintendent's performance they can defeat him in caucus," Molyneaux continued. "If the Democrats are dissatisfied they can work to beat him at the polls. I believe Mr. Twine is guilty of warping some of the things Supervisor Fitzsimmons has said in the past."

House Rejects Pardons

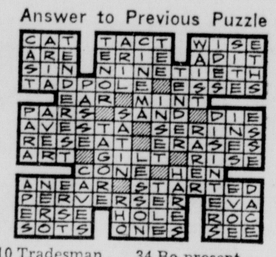

BOSTON (AP) — Without debate and without a record vote, the Massachusetts House has killed a bill to grant pardons to Sacco and Vanzetti.

The House upheld Monday a committee report which said the Legislature ought not to interfere with constitutional provisions resting the pardoning power in the governor and his Executive Council.

Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, Italian immigrants, were executed in 1927 for the 1921 killings of a paymaster and his armed guard in South Braintree, 20 miles south of Boston. Their trial and the six-year effort to save them had worldwide repercussions.

BATH, N. Y. (AP)—A former Royal Canadian Air Force officer has been indicted on charges of first-degree grand larceny and burglary.

He is William J. Binkley, 51, also a former newsman, who told police he committed over 100 burglaries in the United States and Canada.

A Steuben County grand jury returned the indictment Monday in connection with a burglary in Corning last February.

Binkley, who was arrested at a motel, said Toronto was his home. He was described as a college graduate who worked on papers in Kingston and London, Ont.

He was due to be arraigned later this week.

Plan July 4 Clambake

It was decided to stage a clambake on July 4 and invite a Republican speaker from the state level. Abram F. Molyneaux volunteered the use of his farm, if another site is not available.

It was announced that Telford A. Graham will head a committee from the Woodstock Junior Chamber of Commerce in a street cleanup campaign on April 20.

Abram Molyneaux and Mrs. Virginia Holdridge were named a committee to update and codify the by-laws of the organization.

Members of the refreshment committee for the program were: Mrs. Joseph Fitzsimmons, Mrs. Adele Longendyke, Mrs. James MacVitty and Mrs. James E. Hamlin.

Mrs. Louise Burmester Wins 1st Place in Sewing Contest

Mrs. Louise Burmester won first prize in the Woodstock Jayncees sewing contest and will represent the Jayncees in the New York State Jayncees finals at the Saugerties High School on Saturday, April 18.

Mrs. Burmester's entry was adjudged the best among 14 exhibited at the Jayncee contest held at the Methodist Church hall.

Mrs. Dolores Fredericks was second prize. Third prize went to Mrs. Barbara Williams. Receiving honorable mention were Mrs. Earl Davies Sr. and Mrs. Elaine Zucker.

Mrs. Burmester entered and modeled two outfits. The first was a jacket dress of red wool and nylon blend with taffeta print. Her second entry, an original pattern, was a cream colored India cocktail dress.

In addition to her registration fees and luncheon, which will be sponsored by the Woodstock Jayncees, Mrs. Burmester also won a shampoo set and a gift certificate for shoes.

Mrs. Fredericks Second

Mrs. Fredericks placed second with a boys double-breasted winter coat of camel hair and wool with pellon interlining made from a Simplicity pattern and modeled by her son, Wayne.

Mrs. Barbara Williams entered and modeled an afternoon dress in a blue and green print of a silk and viscose material, made from a McCall's pattern.

In the runnerup department, Mrs. Earl Davis Sr. entered a white organdy party dress with lace inserts made from a Simplicity pattern. The dress was modeled by her grand-daughter, Stephanie Graham. Mrs. Elaine Zucker's two entries which she modeled were a brown plaid wool skirt and coat lined in white crepe which she designed herself; and a blue and white wool two-piece suit lined in crepe, which she also designed.

Other entries submitted were: Kathy and Karen Larsen — modeled suits made by a family friend from beautiful plaid wool sent from Scotland by the girls' uncle; Mrs. Pat Carr — a child's red coat of hopsocking lined with a cotton strawberry print and matching dress in the same print, modeled by her daughter, Karen. Mrs. Carr modeled a brown blueson cotton print made from a Simplicity pattern by Mrs. Audrey Bagnall.

Other Good Entries

Also, Mrs. Pat Hastie modeled a two-piece blue and green flavored print of hopsocking and made from a Simplicity pattern; Dianne Wittner, modeled a child's blue and white stripped cotton dress which was made by Mrs. Nallory from a Simplicity pattern; Mrs. Mary Graham, modeled a beige, orange and brown print sheath with matching jacket in a dri-dry orlon and cotton; Mrs. Doris Bellinger, entered and modeled a lightweight bolero suit of dark blue silk and worsted. The shirt was made from a Vogue pattern and the jacket from a Simplicity pattern; Mrs. Margaret Glass, entered and modeled a sheath of light blue cotton tweed made from a McCall's pattern.

Mrs. K. W. Nickel entered and modeled a white sheath with empire bow, made from a Vogue pattern; Mrs. Xena Popplewell showed a lavendar summer cotton child's dress, Simplicity pattern, which was modeled by Libby Nickel; Mrs. Patricia Van Wart, entered and modeled a full-length coat of holly hock pink wool and mohair lined with pink taffeta, made from a Simplicity pattern. Mrs. Evangeline Mallory entered and modeled a two-piece suit of brown tweed woolen silk, which she designed herself. Mrs. Mallory also showed a two-piece Navy blue wool dress which she designed and remade from a maternity suit; Mrs. Holly Meyer entered and modeled a green wool skirt made from a Simplicity pattern.

Merchants taking part in the program included Pauline's Beauty Shop, Estelle's, Woodstock Gift Box, The Little Shop, Houst's Hardware, Woodstock Jewelers, Hilda Lightstone and Studio Shop.

Judges for the contest were Mrs. Betty Jenkins, principal of the East Kingston elementary School, and Mrs. Mary Cole, teacher of Home Economics at Onteora Central School.

Koch Finds Movie Industry Showing Signs of Decadence

The film industry in Hollywood has undergone a tremendous change—and for the worst—in the past seven years, says a Woodstock resident who is nationally prominent as a screenwriter and author.

Howard Koch told a packed house at the Guild Gallery Sunday that Hollywood is not at its best and there is a vast difference in the modus operandi of today and a decade ago. He has just returned from a two-months stay in the film capital.

"Hollywood is in the hands of two great agencies — MCA and the William Morris Agency — and they have the 'golden key' to the stable of stars," said Koch. "The agencies are in bad hands and they are killing the goose that lays the golden eggs."

$700,000 for Peck

As an example of the tremendous implications on finance, rather than quality, Koch pointed out that Gregory Peck commands $700,000 salary and 50 per cent of the gross for every film he makes. He was not alluding to Peck's ability, rather the financial consciousness of the present day industry.

"The movie industry is eating more and more substance," said the screen writer, "and films are sold by labels and quality is disregarded. In spite of this emphasis on finances and the big star, Hollywood still turns out an occasional good picture."

"Theatres are closing around the country," Koch went on, "but the producers keep making bigger pictures. Pretty soon the screen will stretch all away around the theatre.

IIn response to questions from the floor, Koch said he thought England was maintaining its picture integrity better than Italy, France and other European countries. He also said that long-standing taboos on subject material no longer exist in Hollywood.

Greater Latitude Today

"Scripts dealing with dope addicts, prostitution and miscegenation are taken in stride these days," he added.

Koch said that in his two-months stay in Hollywood he found many people interested in Woodstock; that Woodstock was more in the national consciousness.

"Woodstock is a little different from the main stream," said Koch, and Woodstock and Hollywood have become symbols."

Molyneaux Reply Defends His Role With Town Board

"I don't have to struggle too much with my conscience that the Republican policies and ideas were far more right than wrong," Attorney Abram F. Molyneaux told members of the Woodstock Republican Club at their April meeting.

Molyneaux, town Republican-controlled Town Board, made the statement in rebuttal to charges levelled against him by Donald Twine, recently elected vice president of the Woodstock Democratic Club.

Twine had charged at the recent meeting of the Democratic Club that Molyneaux has superseded his authority in his role as town legal adviser during deliberations of the Town Board.

Denies Prejudice

"I certainly hope he didn't mean to impugn my professional integrity at anytime," said Molyneaux. "As a Republican I have certain ideas just as Mr. Twine has a Democrat but my position as legal adviser does not influence my judgment. I have represented people of many political faiths and I am a lawyer before I am a Republican."

Molyneaux said that, in effect Twine was guilty of a half-truth when he charged that Supervisor Joseph Fitzsimmons had said at town board meetings that what the superintendent of highways did with the taxpayer's money was none of his business.

"Mr. Twine knows that before the superintendent's department receives an appropriation it must be included in the budget which is discussed at an open hearing. He is also aware of the authority vested in the superintendent by the town halls."

"If the Republicans are dissatisfied with the superintendent's performance they can defeat him in caucus," Molyneaux continued. "If the Democrats are dissatisfied they can work to beat him at the polls. I believe Mr. Twine is guilty of warping some of the things Supervisor Fitzsimmons has said in the past."

House Rejects Pardons

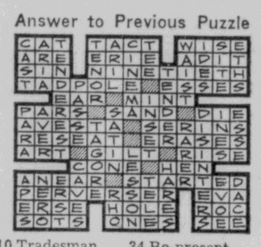

BOSTON (AP) — Without debate and without a record vote, the Massachusetts House has killed a bill to grant pardons to Sacco and Vanzetti.

The House upheld Monday a committee report which said the Legislature ought not to interfere with constitutional provisions resting the pardoning power in the governor and his Executive Council.

Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, Italian immigrants, were executed in 1927 for the 1921 killings of a paymaster and his armed guard in South Braintree, 20 miles south of Boston. Their trial and the six-year effort to save them had worldwide repercussions.

BATH, N. Y. (AP)—A former Royal Canadian Air Force officer has been indicted on charges of first-degree grand larceny and burglary.

He is William J. Binkley, 51, also a former newsman, who told police he committed over 100 burglaries in the United States and Canada.

A Steuben County grand jury returned the indictment Monday in connection with a burglary in Corning last February.

Time Won't Wait

Dulles' Influence Will Mark Talks at Geneva

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst

John Foster Dulles once remarked: "Time is the most valuable thing in life, and I don't want to waste it."

Time works against him now. While he battles cancer in the hospital, the hour is swiftly approaching when the policies on which he based America's prosecution of the cold war will face momentous trials.

New Secretary Possible

In less than a month, the foreign ministers of the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union are scheduled to meet to prepare the way for a summit meeting of government heads. It is possible the United States will be represented in Geneva by a new secretary of state.

But the influence of John Foster Dulles will be present in any case. The past six years demonstrated the tremendous impact a single personality can have upon a nation's policy and the course of history.

Basically, perhaps, American policy in a time of cold war would have been pretty much the same under any secretary of state. But it makes a great deal of difference how those policies are interpreted and carried out.

No Room for Compromise

Dulles' solemn, almost evangelistic approach and his stubborn defense of moral principles have left little room for compromise on any fundamental issue of what he considered right or wrong.

Perhaps U.S. policy might have done better if its architect had been more deliberately cynical in dealing with a cynical enemy. Dulles seems to have denied himself that weapon out of conviction that a civilized Western nation's diplomacy should rely on the moral force of Christian principles. Possibly this was a little naive in today's world. But in the matter of assessing his antagonists, Dulles has displayed little naivete.

"We are devoting billions in money and our highest talents to preparation for a fighting war, a war that may never come," Dulles wrote long before he became secretary. "The strength of our society is being underminded by the cold war that is here and which could finally defeat us."

Domination His Warning

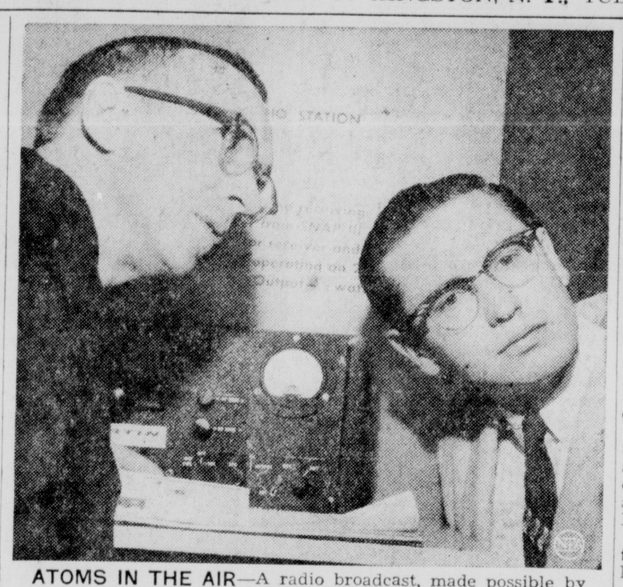

Dulles has never lost sight of that possibility. Apparently he still believes the Kremlin is intent upon world domination through Communist expansion. The cornerstone of his policy has been a determination to convince the Kremlin it can never succeed.

The post of secretary of state always has been an easy and popular target for criticism, and Dulles has aroused many storms. Educated opinion both at home and abroad attributes U.S. policy not to President Eisenhower — as it had to presidents before him—but directly to Dulles. He bore the full brunt of criticism when he solemnly issued such verbal thunderbolts as "agonizing reappraisal" and "massive retaliation."

Vital Contests Ahead

Only time will tell whether he will be vindicated. But time will not wait for him. Important cold war contests are ahead. Will the United States be represented by a man equal in rank to the other foreign ministers?

Dulles and President Eisenhower face another agonizing reappraisal. Dulles' influence surely will be felt at Geneva, but perhaps he and the President will decide the time has come to give the reins of U.S. policy into other hands.

ATOMS IN THE AIR—A radio broadcast, made possible by grapefruit-sized atomic-powered generator called Snap III, holds the attention of ham radio operator Godfrey Anzic, right. The broadcast was part of the Atomic Energy Commission display at the 1959 Nuclear Congress and AtomFair in Cleveland, Ohio. O. J. Jones of Martin Co., builders of Snap III, listens with Godfrey. The generator is similar to one displayed by President Eisenhower last January. It converts heat directly into electricity and has powered messages to ham operators as far away as Europe.

Rocky Signs Measure on Succession

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Suppose New York State were hit by an enemy attack and the duties of governor fell upon the state health commissioner. . .

The health commissioner? It could happen—under a bill Gov. Rockefeller signed today.

The measure adds eight state offices to the line of succession in case the governor dies or is killed or disabled.

Under the State Constitution, the order of succession is lieutenant governor, temporary president (majority leader) of the Senate and speaker of the Assembly. It stops there.

Rockefeller asked the Legislature for a new law to carry the line farther.

"Our state," he said today, "must be prepared to provide leadership to its citizens under any situation."

The new law fixes this order of succession, after Assembly speaker:

Attorney general, comptroller, superintendent of public works, health commissioner, commerce commissioner, industrial commissioner, chairman of the public service commission and secretary of state.

Rockefeller said he was studying all Constitutional provisions dealing with emergencies to make sure they were adequate.

Granted Divorce

DENVER (AP)—When Robert Millard, 39, sawed off the legs of his wife's new dining room table, she says she at first tried to grin and bear it.

"We sat on pillows to eat our meals," Mrs. Millard, 38, told Dist. Judge Neil Horan. "We would lie on the floor to talk and we had to lean against the wall to read."

Said Mrs. Millard of her husband: "he just wanted to be different."

Her divorce was granted Monday.

Masked Man Sought For Attacks on Women

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — A masked man broke into a suburban home Monday night and raped a 25-year-old housewife, police reported.

Investigators said the attack appeared to be another in a series of similar incidents that have plagued nearby Amherst and Tonawanda in the last two years.

The latest victim, whose name was withheld, told police she was alone in the house when a man, wearing a white cloth over his face, broke in through the kitchen door. The woman's husband was at work.

There have been at least seven other similar attacks in the two areas.

Ride Sweeper, Fined

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich. (AP) — Two airmen of Selfridge Air Force Base, Darrell P. Tavernier and William B. Fish, both 21, zipped through town on a 10-ton street sweeper.

Police said both had been drinking before taking off.

War on Starfish

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — New York is willing to wage war on the starfish if Connecticut is.

The object is to stop him from eating the oysters along the shores of Long Island Sound.

Gov. Rockefeller signed a bill today appropriating $25,000 for a study of starfish control in cooperation with Connecticut. But the neighboring state must put up a like sum before the study can begin.

Rockefeller said in a memorandum that the starfish threatened to destroy the oyster industry in Long Island.

He said he hoped Congress would appropriate federal funds for a broad program of starfish eradication.

Cadillac

World's Best Synonym for "Quality"!

In fact, it would be safe to say that "Cadillac" is now an international synonym for "quality".

What a telling tribute this is to the motor car that bears this proud name—and that has given the Cadillac ideal such widespread recognition.

And certainly, that ideal of quality has never been more clearly evident—or more beautifully delineated—than it is in the current "car of cars".

First of all, it can be seen—in the majesty of its lines and contours . . . in the regal grace of its silhouette . . . and in the jewel-like elegance of its finish and trim.

Or it can be felt—in the brilliant response of its great new engine . . . in the incredible smoothness of its ride . . . and in the ease with which it drives and handles.

It can even be sensed—in the superb taste of its interior appointments . . . and in the matchless character of its beautiful fabrics and leathers.

And yes, it can be heard—in the marvelous quiet of its operation . . . and its truly wonderful silence on even the roughest of byways.

In brief, the Cadillac name has never before represented excellence in such great measure—as a personal appraisal will amply demonstrate.

It will give you a new understanding of how truly fine a motor car can be.

Only time will tell whether he will be vindicated. But time will not wait for him. Important cold war contests are ahead. Will the United States be represented by a man equal in rank to the other foreign ministers?

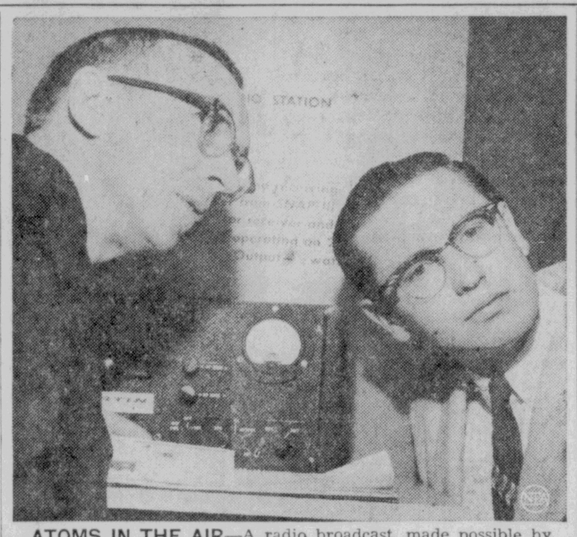

Dulles and President Eisenhower face another agonizing reappraisal. Dulles' influence surely will be felt at Geneva, but perhaps he and the President will decide the time has come to give the reins of U.S. policy into other hands.

War on Starfish

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — New York is willing to wage war on the starfish if Connecticut is.

The object is to stop him from eating the oysters along the shores of Long Island Sound.

Gov. Rockefeller signed a bill today appropriating $25,000 for a study of starfish control in cooperation with Connecticut. But the neighboring state must put up a like sum before the study can begin.

Rockefeller said in a memorandum that the starfish threatened to destroy the oyster industry in Long Island.

He said he hoped Congress would appropriate federal funds for a broad program of starfish eradication.

Rocky Signs Measure on Succession

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Suppose New York State were hit by an enemy attack and the duties of governor fell upon the state health commissioner. . .

The health commissioner? It could happen—under a bill Gov. Rockefeller signed today.

The measure adds eight state offices to the line of succession in case the governor dies or is killed or disabled.

Under the State Constitution, the order of succession is lieutenant governor, temporary president (majority leader) of the Senate and speaker of the Assembly. It stops there.

Rockefeller asked the Legislature for a new law to carry the line farther.

"Our state," he said today, "must be prepared to provide leadership to its citizens under any situation."

The new law fixes this order of succession, after Assembly speaker:

Attorney general, comptroller, superintendent of public works, health commissioner, commerce commissioner, industrial commissioner, chairman of the public service commission and secretary of state.

Rockefeller said he was studying all Constitutional provisions dealing with emergencies to make sure they were adequate.

Said Mrs. Millard of her husband: "he just wanted to be different."

Cadillac

World's Best Synonym for "Quality"!

In every land where automobiles are seen and appreciated, the Cadillac name has become a part of the language.

In fact, it would be safe to say that "Cadillac" is now an international synonym for "quality".

What a telling tribute this is to the motor car that bears this proud name—and that has given the Cadillac ideal such widespread recognition.

And certainly, that ideal of quality has never been more clearly evident—or more beautifully delineated—than it is in the current "car of cars".

First of all, it can be seen—in the majesty of its lines and contours . . . in the regal grace of its silhouette . . . and in the jewel-like elegance of its finish and trim.

Or it can be felt—in the brilliant response of its great new engine . . . in the incredible smoothness of its ride . . . and in the ease with which it drives and handles.

It can even be sensed—in the superb taste of its interior appointments . . . and in the matchless character of its beautiful fabrics and leathers.

And yes, it can be heard—in the marvelous quiet of its operation . . . and its truly wonderful silence on even the roughest of byways.

In brief, the Cadillac name has never before represented excellence in such great measure—as a personal appraisal will amply demonstrate.

We suggest you visit your authorized Cadillac dealer soon—and view your favorite highway through the windshield of a 1959 Cadillac.

It will give you a new understanding of how truly fine a motor car can be.

At the meeting of the Ulster County Women's Republican Club meeting which was held at the Governor Clinton Hotel, April 9, at 8 p. m., the president, Mrs. Bernhardt S. Kramer appointed Mrs. John Salapatis chairman of the spring luncheon, which will be held May 23 at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

The newly elected first vice president, Mrs. Raymond LeFevre, introduced the guest speaker, the Hon. Judge John B. Sterley, newly appointed city chairman. Judge Sterley said, "the ladies' enthusiasm has been a wonderful thing for the Republican Party. Don't let us go around now with a sad face because of the investigation. We have a new county chairman, Kenneth Wilson, in whom we have a capable leader. Let's be proud of being a Republican. Let's work for a revitalized Republican Party. We must go out and say to the people that nothing is to be gained by supporting the Economy Party or any third party. Tell them we will nominate people whom the people will respect, people who have ability to handle the job. Get behind your committeemen, get the people out to register and enroll in the party of their choice —naturally that is the Republican Party."

After the close of the business meeting, refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Leslie Hotaling and Mrs. William S. Keyser.

Very Informal Invitations

Dear Mrs. Post: My daughter is going to be married next month and after the ceremony we would like our many friends to go down into the Social Hall of the church for a piece of wedding cake and a glass of punch. However, I do not want to make any mention of a reception on the invitations because people might come expecting a good deal, and also I don't want them to feel they have to bring a present because they are invited downstairs for punch and wedding cake. Have you any suggestions as to how this can be handled?

Answer: It could be handled by the ushers stationed at the back of the church. They would announce to all the guests as they leave, "The bride and bridegroom are receiving in the Social Hall downstairs."

Daughter Substituting for Mother

Dear Mrs. Post: When one receives an invitation and cannot accept it, is it proper to send someone else in her place? The situation is this: I received an invitation to the wedding and reception of the daughter of a friend of mine. I will not be able to go, but would like my daughter to go in my place. The wedding is to be a large fashionable one and she would love to go if it would be proper.

Answer: A daughter substituting for her mother at a large wedding would not be improper. But I think it would be best to telephone and ask for permission rather than just send her.

Protecting One's Favorite Ornaments

Dear Mrs. Post: When an acquaintance comes to visit and brings her young child with her, may the hostess, when she sees the child going for her best ornaments, ask her please not to touch them when the mother sits by and says nothing, or does politeness demand that she stay silent and hope for the best?

Answer: It is entirely right for her to say something in a nice polite voice.

Mrs. Jay Melton Named Hadassah President For Two Years; Other Officers Are Listed

Mrs. Jay Melton was elected president of the Kingston Chapter of Hadassah last night.

Election of a new slate of officers highlighted the chapter's general meeting, held in Temple Emanuel. Mrs. Melton succeeds Mrs. Murray J. Fletcher, who has headed the Kingston chapter for the past two years.

Also on the slate are Mrs. Robert S. Yalkum, first vice president in charge of membership; Mrs. Sidney Treinkman, second vice president and fund-raising coordinator; Mrs. Arthur H. London, third vice president in charge of program; Miss Ruby Markson, treasurer; Mrs. Martin E. Kantor, recording secretary; Mrs. William Buchbinder, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Jerome Strugatz, financial secretary.

The new Hadassah president, who will be installed at the May meeting and will head the 350-member group for the next two years, has been active in the local chapter since moving to Kingston ten years ago. She has served as financial secretary and membership chairman and has attended several regional conferences as a member of Kingston delegations.

Mrs. Melton has worked on the Hadassah Medical Organization-Donor campaign since its inception by the Kingston chapter seven years ago and has served as chairman in recent years. She heads arrangements for this year's campaign, which includes a series of Hadassah projects benefiting Hadassah Medical Organization. The drive will be climaxed with the annual Donor Dinner-Dance, to be held June 7 at Grossingers.

A member of Temple Emanuel, she has been active in its Sisterhood. Mr. and Mrs. Melton and their sons, Russell and Robert, make their home at 20 Overlook Drive.

Last night's meeting also featured a talk by Mrs. Nathaniel B. Gross, who recently returned from a trip to Israel and reported on the growth of the nation since her last visit ten years ago. Mrs. Lotar Saluc, education chairman, discussed the significance of the holiday of Passover, which Jews throughout the world will celebrate April 22-30.

Reports were given by Mrs. Herbert Gertner, chairman of the special HMO benefit; Mrs. Louis Kornfeld, Eye Bank Day chairman, aided by Mrs. Morris Kaplan; Mrs. Sidney Treinkman, ads chairman; and Mrs. Melton, Donor chairman, assisted by Mrs. Robert Nadler.

The program for the evening was a highly successful country auction, with Mrs. Stanley London and Mrs. Carl Lipton, chairmen, assisted by Mrs. Walter Suskind. The sale benefitted the Hadassah Supplies project, through which the organization raises funds for purchases in Israel of hospital linens, layettes, garments, uniforms and other materials produced by Israel's growing industries. Also purchased for Hadassah hospitals, schools and housing centers are much needed medical equipment, drugs and teaching materials.

The local chapter is currently running its spring "New and Nearly New Shop." The shop at 597 Broadway in the Community Theater building, is open from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. tomorrow through Thursday and from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. Friday. Proceeds benefit Hadassah's vocational education program. On sale are clothing items for men, women and children, with new merchandise donated by local businessmen and out-of-town manufacturers in addition to used items in excellent condition. Those who wish to contribute items for sale may take them to the shop or contact Mrs. Murray J. Fletcher or Mrs. Sidney Treinkman.

Founded in 1912, Hadassah conducts a comprehensive health and social welfare program in Israel, including a hospital network of diagnostic, curative and preventive medical services, health stations, youth refugee rehabilitation, vocational education and land-redemption projects. In the U. S., the organization helps to foster creative Jewish living through an educational program; encourages and supports Jewish youth activities and acts as an interpreter of Israel and its way of life to the American community. Now the largest Zionist organization in the world, Hadassah has more than 315,000 members throughout the U. S. and Puerto Rico.

Spring Luncheon Plans Are Made By Republicans

At the meeting of the Ulster County Women's Republican Club meeting which was held at the Governor Clinton Hotel, April 9, at 8 p. m., the president, Mrs. Bernhardt S. Kramer appointed Mrs. John Salapatis chairman of the spring luncheon, which will be held May 23 at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

The newly elected first vice president, Mrs. Raymond LeFevre, introduced the guest speaker, the Hon. Judge John B. Sterley, newly appointed city chairman. Judge Sterley said, "the ladies' enthusiasm has been a wonderful thing for the Republican Party. Don't let us go around now with a sad face because of the investigation. We have a new county chairman, Kenneth Wilson, in whom we have a capable leader. Let's be proud of being a Republican. Let's work for a revitalized Republican Party. We must go out and say to the people that nothing is to be gained by supporting the Economy Party or any third party. Tell them we will nominate people whom the people will respect, people who have ability to handle the job. Get behind your committeemen, get the people out to register and enroll in the party of their choice —naturally that is the Republican Party."

After the close of the business meeting, refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Leslie Hotaling and Mrs. William S. Keyser.

Very Informal Invitations

Dear Mrs. Post: My daughter is going to be married next month and after the ceremony we would like our many friends to go down into the Social Hall of the church for a piece of wedding cake and a glass of punch. However, I do not want to make any mention of a reception on the invitations because people might come expecting a good deal, and also I don't want them to feel they have to bring a present because they are invited downstairs for punch and wedding cake. Have you any suggestions as to how this can be handled?

Answer: It could be handled by the ushers stationed at the back of the church. They would announce to all the guests as they leave, "The bride and bridegroom are receiving in the Social Hall downstairs."

Daughter Substituting for Mother

Dear Mrs. Post: When one receives an invitation and cannot accept it, is it proper to send someone else in her place? The situation is this: I received an invitation to the wedding and reception of the daughter of a friend of mine. I will not be able to go, but would like my daughter to go in my place. The wedding is to be a large fashionable one and she would love to go if it would be proper.

Answer: A daughter substituting for her mother at a large wedding would not be improper. But I think it would be best to telephone and ask for permission rather than just send her.

Protecting One's Favorite Ornaments

Dear Mrs. Post: When an acquaintance comes to visit and brings her young child with her, may the hostess, when she sees the child going for her best ornaments, ask her please not to touch them when the mother sits by and says nothing, or does politeness demand that she stay silent and hope for the best?

Answer: It is entirely right for her to say something in a nice polite voice.

Mrs. Jay Melton Named Hadassah President For Two Years; Other Officers Are Listed

Mrs. Jay Melton was elected president of the Kingston Chapter of Hadassah last night.

Election of a new slate of officers highlighted the chapter's general meeting, held in Temple Emanuel. Mrs. Melton succeeds Mrs. Murray J. Fletcher, who has headed the Kingston chapter for the past two years.

Also on the slate are Mrs. Robert S. Yallum, first vice president in charge of membership; Mrs. Sidney Treinkman, second vice president and fund-raising coordinator; Mrs. Arthur H. London, third vice president in charge of program; Miss Ruby Markson, treasurer; Mrs. Martin E. Kantor, recording secretary; Mrs. William Buchbinder, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Jerome Strugatz, financial secretary.

The new Hadassah president, who will be installed at the May meeting and will head the 350-member group for the next two years, has been active in the local chapter since moving to Kingston ten years ago. She has served as financial secretary and membership chairman and has attended several regional conferences as a member of Kingston delegations.

Mrs. Melton has worked on the Hadassah Medical Organization-Donor campaign since its inception by the Kingston chapter seven years ago and has served as chairman in recent years. She heads arrangements for this year's campaign, which includes a series of Hadassah projects benefiting Hadassah Medical Organization. The drive will be climaxed with the annual Donor Dinner-Dance, to be held June 7 at Grossingers.

A member of Temple Emanuel, she has been active in its Sisterhood. Mr. and Mrs. Melton and their sons, Russell and Robert, make their home at 20 Overlook Drive.

Last night's meeting also featured a talk by Mrs. Nathaniel B. Gross, who recently returned from a trip to Israel and reported on the growth of the nation since her last visit ten years ago. Mrs. Lotar Saluc, education chairman, discussed the significance of the holiday of Passover, which Jews throughout the world will celebrate April 22-30.

Reports were given by Mrs. Herbert Gertner, chairman of the special HMO benefit; Mrs. Louis Kornfeld, Eye Bank Day chairman, aided by Mrs. Morris Kaplan; Mrs. Sidney Treinkman, ads chairman; and Mrs. Melton, Donor chairman, assisted by Mrs. Robert Nadler.

The program for the evening was a highly successful country auction, with Mrs. Stanley London and Mrs. Carl Lipton, chairmen, assisted by Mrs. Walter Suskind. The sale benefitted the Hadassah Supplies project, through which the organization raises funds for purchases in Israel of hospital linens, layettes, garments, uniforms and other materials produced by Israel's growing industries. Also purchased for Hadassah hospitals, schools and housing centers are much needed medical equipment, drugs and teaching materials.

The local chapter is currently running its spring "New and Nearly New Shop." The shop at 597 Broadway in the Community Theater building, is open from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. tomorrow through Thursday and from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. Friday. Proceeds benefit Hadassah's vocational education program. On sale are clothing items for men, women and children, with new merchandise donated by local businessmen and out-of-town manufacturers in addition to used items in excellent condition. Those who wish to contribute items for sale may take them to the shop or contact Mrs. Murray J. Fletcher or Mrs. Sidney Treinkman.

Founded in 1912, Hadassah conducts a comprehensive health and social welfare program in Israel, including a hospital network of diagnostic, curative and preventive medical services, health stations, youth refugee rehabilitation, vocational education and land-redemption projects. In the U. S., the organization helps to foster creative Jewish living through an educational program; encourages and supports Jewish youth activities and acts as an interpreter of Israel and its way of life to the American community. Now the largest Zionist organization in the world, Hadassah has more than 315,000 members throughout the U. S. and Puerto Rico.

Little Joey Says:
It's getting pretty hard to get a word in here — with Dad and Mother using this space — I'm being crowded out.
I just wanted to tell you how happy I am that Winter's over — and I can get outside and play. And I know Daddy's glad, too, 'cause I heard him say: "Springtime is car time."
I suppose that means he's going to be busy. Why don't you go in to see him and find out what he really means?

Mother's Constant Nagging Undercuts Her Authority

In rearing children a mother has to know in her own mind what is important and what is unimportant, and take a stand only on the important things.

Someone once said that the ready concession of minor points is a part of the grace of life. It's a big part of rearing children, too.

The mother who is constantly after her children to go wash their faces, come back and shut the door quietly, fold the newspaper neatly, speak more slowly, stop biting their nails, stand up straight, and on and on is wasting her breath.

The children get so used to mama's nagging commands and reminders that they make little or no impression, except to prompt them to get out of the house and stay out of hearing distance of all those do's and don'ts.

Furthermore, when mama does try to impress them with a really important pointer, the children think it's just more of mama's making a mountain out of a molehill. And they aren't impressed.

But the mother who can overlook some of the things that her children do which annoy or displease her, leave some faults to be corrected by time, is willing to settle for less than perfection in her children, can usually put across the ideas that are really important.

The children listen when she speaks, because she isn't yammering at them all the time. They take criticism in good grace if they aren't forever being criticized. They are more inclined to try to please if pleasing doesn't seem like such an impossible job.

So if you are having trouble getting your children to do what they are told, listen to the commands, suggestions and critical comments you make in the course of just one day. Perhaps you are confounding the trite with the important.

Teachers Warned Of Penalties If Walkout Occurs

NEW YORK (AP)—The head of the New York City school system has warned the city's 40,000 teachers he will invoke "the fullest extent of the law" if they take part in a one-day walkout called for Thursday.

Superintendent John J. Theobald explained that he referred to sections of the state civil service code known as the Condon-Wadlin Act. It provides various penalties for striking public employes, up to and including instant dismissal.

Theobald did not mention the possibility of dismissal in his talk, but he did say teachers could lose certain benefits and tenure rights.

Theobald spoke to the teachers in radio program, in which he agreed that there is a need for higher salaries. But he appealed to them not to do anything drastic.

The radio talk drew immediate criticism from the New York Teachers Guild, which is sponsoring a walkout, and two other major teacher groups, the High School Teachers Assn. and the New York Teachers Union.

In separate statements they accused Theobald of trying to intimidate the teachers.

More Rolling Own

LOCKPORT, N. Y. (AP)—More smokers are rolling their own since the state cigarette tax was increased from three to five cents a package April 1, dealers here observe.

Sales of cigarette-making kits have soared. But dealers believe folks will be back for their favorite brands, once the novelty has worn off and the shock of the tax increase has been absorbed.

TV Academy Lists 42 Acting Groups For Emmy Awards

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The Television Academy has come up with more acting categories—42—but fewer snafus than usual in the 11th annual Emmy nominations.

The nominations, announced Monday, put veteran actors Robert Young and Walter Brennan in what amounts to the best-comedian category against Jack Benny, Phil Silvers, Danny Thomas and Bob Cummings.

Milton Berle and Red Skelton, both weekly funnymen, were passed by in that category.

But most of the nominations pretty well fit the various acting categories.

"We know that voting for the Emmies is a cumbersome process," said one member of the academy. "But TV is a cumbersome medium—we operate seven days a week practically around the clock. You can't reduce that many acting performances to a handful as the movies do."

Probably the most interesting race for the viewers is that for best actor in a dramatic series. It is strictly a fast draw to the finish among three private eyes and three Western heroes.

They are: Raymond Burr (Perry Mason), Craig Stevens (Peter Gunn), Efrem Zimbalist Jr. (77 Sunset Strip), James Arness (Gunsmoke), Richard Boone (Have Gun, Will Travel) and James Garner (Maverick).

WomenVotersLeague Has Study Sessions

United States Representative J. Ernest Wharton of the 29th Congressional District met Thursday with representatives of League of Women Voter groups in this area. The luncheon meeting at the Old Fort, New Paltz, was arranged by Mrs. Harry Cornwell, president of the New Paltz League and Mrs. Daniel Casner, president of the Poughkeepsie League.

Also attending were Mrs. Robert Yallum, president of the Provisional LWV of Kingston and Mrs. Harry C. Lawson, president of the Woodstock Provisional group as well as members of the Poughkeepsie and New Paltz foreign policy committees.

Subjects discussed included foreign policy legislation and appropriations which appear currently on the National LWV program as a study item, "Evaluation of U. S. foreign policy with continued support of the United Nations system, world trade and economic development and collective security."

Alderman Richard Wood of the 12th Ward met with a committee of the Kingston Provisional LWV at the home of Mrs. Martin Rubashkin. The group, part of the "Know Your Kingston" study committee discussed city budgeting and fiscal policy.

Mrs. Rubashkin and Mrs. Gerald Bills are co-chairmen of the area dealing with local government personnel, finance, equipment as well as political organizations and elections. Mrs. Melvin Mones and Mrs. Eugene Abramsky head the section working on historical background, characteristics and geography while Mrs. Morton Kamen and Miss Evelyn Zelickman are in charge of the section on public health, welfare and sanitation. The three areas are currently under study with several other aspects to be considered later. For further information Mrs. Jeremiah Sachs or Mrs. Ellsworth Johnson, co-chairmen of the study, may be contacted.

Little Joey Says:

It's getting pretty hard to get a word in here — with Dad and Mother using this space — I'm being crowded out.

I just wanted to tell you how happy I am that Winter's over — and I can get outside and play. And I know Daddy's glad, too, 'cause I heard him say: "Springtime is car time."

I suppose that means he's going to be busy. Why don't you go in to see him and find out what he really means?

Tillson Woman Wins Third District Award In Women's Clubs Fashion Sewing Contest

Mrs. William McVey, third district director of the New York State Federation of Women's Clubs, announced today that Mrs. Charles DeWitt of Tillson is the first prize winner on the district level, of the Vogue Fashion Sewing Contest, sponsored by the General Federation of Women's Clubs. Mrs. DeWitt represented the Woman's Club of Rosendale.

The contest was held at the home of the Woman's Club of Albany and the judges were Mrs. Treva Kauffman, Associate in Home Economics Education, New York State Education Dept., Mrs. Donald Terhune who is on the faculty of Philip Livingston Jr. High, Albany; and Miss Jane Coolican, Albany County Home Demonstration Agent.

The winning outfit, modeled by Mrs. DeWitt, was an orlon-wool sky-blue sheath dress with matching lined jacket and a petaled beret matchmate hat.

Second prize winner of the third district and alternate was Mrs. Harold Kamp of the Saugerties Monday Club, also an Ulster County Club. She wore a dacron jersey hand washable wrinkle-free navy dress with a graceful drape.

Other entries were Mrs. John Schomer of Sorosis of Kingston, Mrs. Wallace Chadderdon, the Monday Council Club of Cairo, Mrs. Raymond Briggs of the Woman's Club of Valley Falls, and Mrs. Fred Carrol representing the Junior Woman's Club of Albany.

Chairman of the Vogue Fashion Sewing Contest on the District level is Mrs. William McHugh of the Delmar Progress Club. Mrs. Cyrus Crounse Jr., president of the Albany Woman's Club, welcomed those present at the judging. Hostesses were the Junior Woman's Club of Albany. Mrs. McVey and Mrs. Crounse poured for the tea which followed the judging.

The next step in the General Federation of Women's Clubs Fashion Sewing Contest will be the judging on the state level today at the Hotel Syracuse, Syracuse. This is part of the NYSFWC 65th annual convention and the winner, whose name will be announced Thursday, will receive a cash award.

A three-weeks trip to Paris and London is the grand prize in the National judging, with cash awards going to the second and third place winners. First and second place winners will also receive trips to the 1959 GFWC Convention in Los Angeles as part of their awards.

The costumes were judged on the basis of versatility and appropriateness for club occasions, over-all fashion effect, becomingness to wearer and workmanship. The purpose of the contest was to select the 'Ideal Costume for the Clubwoman's Wardrobe."

Mother's Constant Nagging Undercuts Her Authority

In rearing children a mother has to know in her own mind what is important and what is unimportant, and take a stand only on the important things.

Someone once said that the ready concession of minor points is a part of the grace of life. It's a big part of rearing children, too.

The mother who is constantly after her children to go wash their faces, come back and shut the door quietly, fold the newspaper neatly, speak more slowly, stop biting their nails, stand up straight, and on and on is wasting her breath.

The children get so used to mama's nagging commands and reminders that they make little or no impression, except to prompt them to get out of the house and stay out of hearing distance of all those do's and don'ts.

Furthermore, when mama does try to impress them with a really important pointer, the children think it's just more of mama's making a mountain out of a molehill. And they aren't impressed.

But the mother who can overlook some of the things that her children do which annoy or displease her, leave some faults to be corrected by time, is willing to settle for less than perfection in her children, can usually put across the ideas that are really important.

The children listen when she speaks, because she isn't yammering at them all the time. They take criticism in good grace if they aren't forever being criticized. They are more inclined to try to please if pleasing doesn't seem like such an impossible job.

So if you are having trouble getting your children to do what they are told, listen to the commands, suggestions and critical comments you make in the course of just one day. Perhaps you are confounding the trite with the important.

Teachers Warned Of Penalties If Walkout Occurs

NEW YORK (AP)—The head of the New York City school system has warned the city's 40,000 teachers he will invoke "the fullest extent of the law" if they take part in a one-day walkout called for Thursday.

Superintendent John J. Theobald explained that he referred to sections of the state civil service code known as the Condon-Wadlin Act. It provides various penalties for striking public employes, up to and including instant dismissal.

Theobald did not mention the possibility of dismissal in his talk, but he did say teachers could lose certain benefits and tenure rights.

Theobald spoke to the teachers in a radio program, in which he agreed that there is a need for higher salaries. But he appealed to them not to do anything drastic.

The radio talk drew immediate criticism from the New York Teachers Guild, which is sponsoring a walkout, and two other major teacher groups, the High School Teachers Assn. and the New York Teachers Union.

In separate statements they accused Theobald of trying to intimidate the teachers.

More Rolling Own

LOCKPORT, N. Y. (AP)—More smokers are rolling their own since the state cigarette tax was increased from three to five cents a package April 1, dealers here observe.

Sales of cigarette-making kits have soared. But dealers believe folks will be back for their favorite brands, once the novelty has worn off and the shock of the tax increase has been absorbed.

TV Academy Lists 42 Acting Groups For Emmy Awards

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The Television Academy has come up with more acting categories—42—but fewer snafus than usual in the 11th annual Emmy nominations.

The nominations, announced Monday, put veteran actors Robert Young and Walter Brennan in what amounts to the best-comedian category against Jack Benny, Phil Silvers, Danny Thomas and Bob Cummings.

Milton Berle and Red Skelton, both weekly funnymen, were passed by in that category.

Fred Astaire, who sang and danced on his show, finds himself competing for best single performance by an actor against the dramatic performances of Paul Muni, Christopher Plummer, Mickey Rooney, Robert Crawford and Rod Steiger.

But most of the nominations pretty well fit the various acting categories.

"We know that voting for the Emmies is a cumbersome process," said one member of the academy. "But TV is a cumbersome medium—we operate seven days a week practically around the clock. You can't reduce that many acting performances to a handful as the movies do."

Probably the most interesting race for the viewers is that for best actor in a dramatic series. It is strictly a fast draw to the finish among three private eyes and three Western heroes.

They are: Raymond Burr (Perry Mason), Craig Stevens (Peter Gunn), Efrem Zimbalist Jr. (77 Sunset Strip), James Arness (Gunsmoke), Richard Boone (Have Gun, Will Travel) and James Garner (Maverick).

Women Voters League Has Study Sessions

United States Representative J. Ernest Wharton of the 29th Congressional District met Thursday with representatives of League of Women Voter groups in this area. The luncheon meeting at the Old Fort, New Paltz, was arranged by Mrs. Harry Cornwell, president of the New Paltz League and Mrs. Daniel Casner, president of the Poughkeepsie League.

Also attending were Mrs. Robert Yallum, president of the Provisional LWV of Kingston and Mrs. Harry C. Lawson, president of the Woodstock Provisional group as well as members of the Poughkeepsie and New Paltz foreign policy committees.

Subjects discussed included foreign policy legislation and appropriations which appear currently on the National LWV program as a study item, "Evaluation of U. S. foreign policy with continued support of the United Nations system, world trade and economic development and collective security."

Alderman Richard Wood of the 12th Ward met with a committee of the Kingston Provisional LWV at the home of Mrs. Martin Rubashkin. The group, part of the "Know Your Kingston" study committee discussed city budgeting and fiscal policy.

Mrs. Rubashkin and Mrs. Gerald Bills are co-chairmen of the area dealing with local government personnel, finance, equipment as well as political organizations and elections. Mrs. Melvin Mones and Mrs. Eugene Abramsky head the section working on historical background, characteristics and geography while Mrs. Morton Kamen and Miss Evelyn Zelickman are in charge of the section on public health, welfare and sanitation. The three areas are currently under study with several other aspects to be considered later. For further information Mrs. Jeremiah Sachs or Mrs. Ellsworth Johnson, co-chairmen of the study, may be contacted.

Marlboro, Cornwall Tie, 2-2, in Opening Scholastic Tilt

Darkness Halts Contest After Eight Frames

Displaying mid-season form, Marlboro and Cornwall High Schools battled to a 2-2 deadlock yesterday at Cornwall in the opening game for both schools. Dom DiCapua, veteran Marlboro chucker, and Dom Navarro of the home side hooked up in a splendid hurling duel until darkness halted the proceedings after the eighth inning.

After five scoreless frames, Jack Kroh's club tallied twice in the top of the sixth when with one out, Tony Fino singled, Sam Mandia was safe on an infield bobble, and DiCapua also reached first on a miscue with both runners scoring.

The home side quickly got those runs back in its half of the sixth on a single by Bruce Kirpatrick, a passed ball, a walk to Russ DeVoe, two stolen bases and a safety by Bill Moroney.

Neither team had many threats aside from their run producing innings. DiCapua, one of the fine athletes at Marlboro, walked only four batters, surrendered three hits and struck out 16 in a fine opening performance. Navarro also gave up three hits, walked three and whiffed seven.

Marlboro, which figures to be right in the thick of the UCAL race, makes its second start Wednesday at Monroe-Woodbury.

Ortiz Kayoes Len Matthews In 6th Round

PHILADELPHIA (AP) —Carlos Ortiz is talking of a lightweight title bout after showing unexpected power in a sixth-round technical knockout of Len Matthews.

"I could have beaten the champ (Joe Brown) the way I felt," Ortiz said after Monday night's decisive win. "First I have to meet Willie Toweel in London and then I hope to get Brown."

Ortiz, the second-ranking contender, certainly did nothing to hurt his title chances.

Matthews, unranked but supposedly the superior hitter, landed some of his best punches. Ortiz neither flinched nor appeared shaken.

Ortiz the little Puerto Rican from New York, led the Philadelphian all the way. There were no knockdowns.

Ortiz, at 136, had a one-pound weight advantage.

Veeck Promises White Sox Fans Some Surprises

By JOE MOOSHIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—Amid rumors that Satchel Paige will be the starting pitcher and baseball is once again open to midgets, the Chicago White Sox inaugurate their 1959 home season with none other than Bill Veeck on the scene.

Veeck, who heads a syndicate which purchased 54 per cent of the club, assured all concerned that Paige will not be the starting pitcher.

And, he confided, there'll be no midgets sent to bat as there once was when he owned the St. Louis Browns.

"I can't say in advance what we'll do," said Veeck, "but something will be popping and there may be a surprise or two."

Some Fireworks

The Associated Press, however, learned that one of Veeck's stunts will include fireworks and the first display will take place when the crowd is singing the Star Spangled Banner and reaches the bars "and the rockets red glare, the bombs bursting in air."

At this point, in a lot behind the bleachers, Veeck's cohorts will touch off an explosion of fireworks.

Another Veeck stunt will take place in the seventh inning when the Sox come to bat.

Free beer will be passed out in the stands to toast the White Sox.

Fans Not Excited

Behind all this hulabaloo will be, of all things, the baseball team known as the White Sox. Chicago fans aren't too excited even though the Sox are in first place with their 3-0 record.

They cautiously view it as the same team which in nearly every one of the past eight years sparked Windy City hopes for a pennant only to fall short.

Pennant or not, it promises to be an interesting season for the Sox and the fans, especially with Mr. Veeck on the scene.

Pirates Seek Win

The Pittsburgh Pirates, surprising members of the winless six, are at Cincinnati tonight but that doesn't qualify as an opener. It was at Cincinnati that the Pirates began their 0-3 frustration last Thursday.

The White Sox, who matched some fine relief pitching with some surprise power for a three-game sweep at Detroit, expect a crowd of about 23,000 at Comiskey Park for their debut against the A's, who were beaten by Cleveland in their only two starts.

The unbeaten Indians come home with hopes of pulling in 40,000 or more while giving Herb Score another test. The betroubled lefty was wild in a brief relief chore at Kansas City.

The Yankees (1-0) also have a test case on the mound, with Don Larsen still to prove that his bothersome shoulder is fit. The Orioles, who haven't played since losing Thursday's opener at Washington, estimate some 30,000 fans will show up.

The Red Sox, stymied by bad weather and the two-hit pitching of Bob Turley at New York last weekend, now are battling the flu. About 20,000 are expected at Fenway Park.

Spahn Goes Again

Warren Spahn, who shut out the Pirates last Friday, goes for No. 2 against the Phils, who beat Cincinnati in their lone start. Good weather is expected to bring 43,000 fans.

The Giants, 3-0 after their sweep at St. Louis, have a half - game edge over the Braves (2-0). They'll introduce their half of the trade with the Phils with Jack Sanford going for his seventh victory in 10 decisions against the Cubs. The Giants expect a sellout crowd of 23,000.

The Dodgers, who split a pair at Chicago last weekend, hope for 60,000 at the Coliseum.

Kingston Cagers Win in Tournament

Pat Sangaline and Joe Klonowski led the Kingston Salvation Army Youth center to a 101-86 win over Ogdensburgh at Rome Saturday. The locals will represent the Eastern New York division in the playoffs in New York City.

Arlington Features Two Good Chuckers

Arlington's baseball team is pretty well fortified with veteran talent this year but is suffering from the usual "weak spots." Coach Fritz Jordan has plenty of company among the coaching fraternity though a little better off in the pitching department. Mike SaVino and Gerry Anderson figure to do most of the chucking and also take turns in the outfield.

Jordan needs to find an infield, having lost first baseman John Bloomer, second baseman Gil Baright, third baseman George Thorne and shortstop Mike Moyer, who is out for golf this year. Larry Weisberg did very well as a second baseman after coming up from the jayvees and has that job to his own now. Others in line for infield action are Ed Cavo, Ricky Wilhelm, Jay Slocum and Dennis Railing.

Pitchers last season who are no longer on the premises are Dave Harrand, Bob Durland. Catcher Art Osterhoudt is absent, along with outfielder Larry Dickinson.

Outfielders seeking action are Don Marchese, Ron Lafko and Dickie Haight. Bill McRitchie is a catching hopeful. All of these lads have had some varsity experience.

Others, most of them up from the jayvees are Art Crum, Bill Green, Ricky Stearns, Frank Abbate, Bill Lasko, Les Bierman, Tom Randall, Neil Baitenger, Frank Scanco and Charles Meyers.

The team is slated to begin today against Highland after being rained out against Dover Plains last week.

Alonzo Johnson Gets Split Win

NEW YORK (AP) — Alonzo Johnson, an outstanding heavyweight prospect, had a winning streak of 11 today and a good chance of getting a crack at a ranking fighter in a television bout.

"He looks like a real comer," said Harry Markson, general manager of boxing for Madison Square Garden. "I'm going to try and match him with one of the top 10 fighters."

Markson was scouting talent for the Friday night network TV fight program.

Johnson, a 6-foot, 187½-pounder from Pittsburgh, racked up No. 11 by gaining a split decision over Billy Hunter, 6-3, 192-pounder from Detroit, at St. Nicholas Arena Monday night.

Unbeaten in two years, Johnson now has a 14-1 record. Hunter's record now is 12-6-1.

LOST AND FOUND

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Somebody made a date for lunch at Tim Costello's with Harry Grayson. Tim's is on the East Side and Grayson works on the West Side, so he doesn't get over to Costello's very often.

The NEA Sports Editor was sitting cooling his soup when a bent, white-haired gent tapped him on the shoulder.

"You're Harry Grayson," he informed Grayson. "I've got a picture here I've been holding for you."

"Here you are," said the old fellow. "And here is Hype Igoe and here is Tommy Flannigan. God rest their souls."

"I want you to have this picture, Harry, because it was taken just 25 years ago today and I remember that you told me, "Today I am going to work for NEA,' and I said, 'Whatever the hell is NEA?'"

He pressed the picture into Grayson's hands and moved away.

"Who is he?" asked Grayson.

His companion said, "That's Tim."

Wappingers to Seek DCSL Baseball Honors

Having taken the Central section basketball bunting, the Wappingers Falls athletes hope to come right back and add the baseball award to their trophy case. The team might well do it, too, if the pitching holds up. Coach Dick Bennison is entrusting the chore to Bob Booth and Gary Brown. The Tribe is slated to entertain Pawling today in its opener.

Booth hurled for the jayvee nine with good results last season. Brown played shortstop. He was a star flinger in the Little league and in Junior play, however. Lynn Tonsing, Rick Ferland and Bruce Housan also are seeking hill action.

Veteran talent on hand includes Julie Pigiacampi, second base; Jim Husted, first base; Bill Hughes, a utility infielder; and outfielders, Herb Lee and Lou Detmer. Up from the jayvees are catcher Maynard Darrow, infielders Fred Toettcher, Nick Quattro and Tom Smith, and outfielders Chuck Straley and Bill Raiche.

Marlboro, Cornwall Tie, 2-2, in Opening Scholastic Tilt

Darkness Halts Contest After Eight Frames

Displaying mid-season form, Marlboro and Cornwall High Schools battled to a 2-2 deadlock yesterday at Cornwall in the opening game for both schools. Dom DiCapua, veteran Marlboro chucker, and Dom Navarro of the home side hooked up in a splendid hurling duel until darkness halted the proceedings after the eighth inning.

After five scoreless frames, Jack Kroh's club tallied twice in the top of the sixth when with one out, Tony Fino singled, Sam Mandia was safe on an infield bobble, and DiCapua also reached first on a miscue with both runners scoring.

The home side quickly got those runs back in its half of the sixth on a single by Bruce Kirpatrick, a passed ball, a walk to Russ DeVoe, two stolen bases and a safety by Bill Moroney.

Neither team had many threats aside from their run producing innings. DiCapua, one of the fine athletes at Marlboro, walked only four batters, surrendered three hits and struck out 16 in a fine opening performance. Navarro also gave up three hits, walked three and whiffed seven.

Marlboro, which figures to be right in the thick of the UCAL race, makes its second start Wednesday at Monroe-Woodbury.

Ortiz Kayoes Len Matthews In 6th Round

PHILADELPHIA (AP) —Carlos Ortiz is talking of a lightweight title bout after showing unexpected power in a sixth-round technical knockout of Len Matthews.

"I could have beaten the champ (Joe Brown) the way I felt," Ortiz said after Monday night's decisive win. "First I have to meet Willie Towel in London and then I hope to get Brown."

Ortiz, the second-ranking contender, certainly did nothing to hurt his title chances.

Matthews, unranked but supposedly the superior hitter, landed some of his best punches. Ortiz neither flinched nor appeared shaken.

Ortiz the little Puerto Rican from New York, led the Philadelphian all the way. There were no knockdowns.

Ortiz, at 136, had a one-pound weight advantage.

Alonzo Johnson Gets Split Win

NEW YORK (AP) — Alonzo Johnson, an outstanding heavyweight prospect, had a winning streak of 11 today and a good chance of getting a crack at a ranking fighter in a television bout.

"He looks like a real comer," said Harry Markson, general manager of boxing for Madison Square Garden. "I'm going to try and match him with one of the top 10 fighters."

Markson was scouting talent for the Friday night network TV fight program.

Johnson, a 6-foot, 187½-pounder from Pittsburgh, racked up No. 11 by gaining a split decision over Billy Hunter, 6-3, 192-pounder from Detroit, at St. Nicholas Arena Monday night.

Unbeaten in two years, Johnson now has a 14-1 record. Hunter's record now is 12-6-1.

LOST AND FOUND

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Somebody made a date for lunch at Tim Costello's with Harry Grayson. Tim's is on the East Side and Grayson works on the West Side, so he doesn't get over to Costello's very often.

The NEA Sports Editor was sitting cooling his soup when a bent, white-haired gent tapped him on the shoulder.

"You're Harry Grayson," he informed Grayson. "I've got a picture here I've been holding for you."

In a few moments he was back showing Harry a large framed photograph showing four youthful, dark-haired fellows chatting over drinks in front of Costello's wonderful James Thurber murals.

"Here you are," said the old fellow. "And here is Hype Igoe and here is Tommy Flannigan. God rest their souls."

"I want you to have this picture, Harry, because it was taken just 25 years ago today and I remember that you told me, 'Today I am going to work for NEA,' and I said, 'Whatever the hell is NEA?'"

He pressed the picture into Grayson's hands and moved away.

"Who is he?" asked Grayson.

Wappingers to Seek DCSL Baseball Honors

Having taken the Central section basketball bunting, the Wappingers Falls athletes hope to come right back and add the baseball award to their trophy case. The team might well do it, too, if the pitching holds up. Coach Dick Bennison is entrusting the chore to Bob Booth and Gary Brown. The Tribe is slated to entertain Pawling today in its opener.

Booth hurled for the jayvee nine with good results last season. Brown played shortstop. He was a star flinger in the Little league and in Junior play, however. Lynn Tonsing, Rick Ferland and Bruce Housan also are seeking hill action.

Veteran talent on hand includes Julie Pigiacampi, second base; Jim Husted, first base; Bill Hughes, a utility infielder; and outfielders, Herb Lee and Lou Detmer. Up from the jayvees are catcher Maynard Darrow, infielders Fred Toettcher, Nick Quattro and Tom Smith, and outfielders Chuck Straley and Bill Raiche.

Onteora High School Baseball Nine Shows Four Veterans

Frosh, Sophs To Dominate Indian Squad

Only four returning lettermen and a host of "rookies" have reported to Onteora Baseball coach Tom Wheeler as he preps the candidates through their scrimmages in anticipation of the April 21 opener at Cairo. The Indians finished second in the UCAL last season, just behind Wallkill, but have their work cut out for them this year.

The pitching department figures to be a strong point with Bruce Wiederspiel heading the moundsmen. Another strong armed senior, Tom McCrosson, will also toe the slab. Others are junior Drew Elwyn and sophomores Len Muhlich and Don Vanacoro.

Bartsch To Catch

Sophomore Dick Bartsch is the returning letterman behind the plate. Others are sophomore Gary Moore and freshman Paul Stolpinski. Senior Bob Shulman is the fourth returning letterman. He is expected to hold down the first base position, with senior Peter Tosi in reserve.

Infield prospects are seniors Jim Alexander, Ralph Matos, Herb Krein and Rudy Hellenschmidt and sophomores Joe DiGiovanni and Jay Gordon. Outfield candidates are Ralph Kulseng, Warren Smith, Fred Resnir, Jim Shelhorse and McCrosson, Shulman, Muhlich and Vanacoro.

Coach Wheeler said that of the thirty-five prospects, twenty-three of them are freshmen or sophomores and all but four of the remaining twelve have had little or no varsity experience. The Indian coach feels there will be at least three sophomores in the starting lineup.

Arcaro to Pilot First Landing At the Derby

NEW YORK (AP) — Eddie Arcaro is sticking by his original decision. He'll bid for his sixth Kentucky Derby victory May 2 with First Landing.

The veteran jockey made that plain today after the 2-year old champ of 1958 had jumped back into the derby picture with a sizzling six-furlong performance at Wood Memorial Saturday and that means I'll also be up on him in the Derby," said the 43-year-old jockey who has won more Kentucky Derbies than any other rider.

Arcaro could have selected the Elkcam Stable's Atoll, with whom he won the Swift Stakes and last Saturday's Gotham with a three-quarter length decision over highly regarded Intentionally.

But after sending First Landing over three-quarters of a mile in 1:10 1-5 for a three-length triumph and then working him out an extra eight of a mile for a seven-furlong time of 1:23 4-5, Eddie lost no time announcing his decision.

Whether Arcaro made a wise choice will be partially answered Saturday when First Landing hooks up with Atoll and Intentionally in the mile and one-eighth of the $75,000-added Wood.

St. Louis Signs Maglie As Minor League Coach

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Time caught up with Sal Maglie Monday.

The 42-year-old righthander, who stilled enemy bats with a snapping variety of curve balls, took a job with the St. Louis Cardinals as a pitching instructor for their minor league clubs. The Cards recently had asked waivers on Maglie in order to hand him his unconditional release.

But the front office brass figures Sal is a treasure trove of pitching knowledge—invaluable to fledgling hurlers.

Maglie's first chore was to travel by train—he doesn't trust airplanes—to Albany, Ga., where the Cards have their minor league headquarters. From there Maglie will wander about in nomad fashion, helping out wherever he's needed.

In Good Spirits

As he packed in his hotel room, Sal seemed in good spirits. He said his new job was "the best thing for me."

"I like to work with kids and I think I can teach them a lot," he added.

In nine seasons in the majors he notched 119 victories while losing only 62, a percentage of .657.

Leafs in Usual Underdog Role

TORONTO (AP) —The Toronto Maple Leafs are in a familiar role for tonight's third game of the Stanley hockey cup finals against the Montreal Canadiens. They're the underdogs.

The Leafs, who crossed the odds-makers by edging into National Hockey League playoffs three weeks ago and did it again last week by eliminating the Boston Bruins in the semifinal round, aren't given much of a chance to halt the Canadiens.

Toe Blake's club won the first two games of the best-of-seven series and needs only two more to make it a sweep. The next two games will be in Toronto.

Toronto bookies have made the Canadiens 8-5 favorites to win tonight's game.

The Canadiens have won the cup the last three seasons.

Only Whitey Ford of the Yankees — among active pitchers — has done better. Ford has a phenomenal .724 career mark.

Only four returning lettermen and a host of "rookies" have reported to Onteora Baseball coach Tom Wheeler as he preps the candidates through their scrimmages in anticipation of the April 21 opener at Cairo. The Indians finished second in the UCAL last season, just behind Wallkill, but have their work cut out for them this year.

The pitching department figures to be a strong point with Bruce Wiederspiel heading the moundsmen. Another strong armed senior, Tom McCrosson, will also toe the slab. Others are junior Drew Elwyn and sophomores Len Muhlich and Don Vanacoro.

Bartsch To Catch

Sophomore Dick Bartsch is the returning letterman behind the plate. Others are sophomore Gary Moore and freshman Paul Stolpinski. Senior Bob Shulman is the fourth returning letterman. He is expected to hold down the first base position, with senior Peter Tosi in reserve.

Infield prospects are seniors Jim Alexander, Ralph Matos, Herb Krein and Rudy Hellenschmidt and sophomores Joe DiGiovanni and Jay Gordon. Outfield candidates are Ralph Kulseng, Warren Smith, Fred Resnir, Jim Shelhorse and McCrosson, Shulman, Muhlich and Vanacoro.

Coach Wheeler said that of the thirty-five prospects, twenty-three of them are freshmen or sophomores and all but four of the remaining twelve have had little or no varsity experience. The Indian coach feels there will be at least three sophomores in the starting lineup.

Arcaro to Pilot First Landing At the Derby

NEW YORK (AP) — Eddie Arcaro is sticking by his original decision. He'll bid for his sixth Kentucky Derby victory May 2 with First Landing.

The veteran jockey made that plain today after the 2-year old champ of 1958 had jumped back into the derby picture with a sizzling six-furlong performance at Wood Memorial Saturday and that means I'll also be up on him in the Derby," said the 43-year-old jockey who has won more Kentucky Derbies than any other rider.

Arcaro could have selected the Elkcam Stable's Atoll, with whom he won the Swift Stakes and last Saturday's Gotham with a three-quarter length decision over highly regarded Intentionally.

But after sending First Landing over three-quarters of a mile in 1:10 1-5 for a three-length triumph and then working him out an extra eight of a mile for a seven-furlong time of 1:23 4-5, Eddie lost no time announcing his decision.

Whether Arcaro made a wise choice will be partially answered Saturday when First Landing hooks up with Atoll and Intentionally in the mile and one-eighth of the $75,000-added Wood.

Wasn't Troilus' pre-Florida Derby injury kept secret until the two-buck bettor already plunked down his cash—he pulled up lame—because it would have cost the track an estimated $300,000 in handle? . . . and isn't Horace Wade, who built the spring race with ingenuity and enterprise, fed up with pinch-penny operation enough to quit after '59? . . .

St. Louis Signs Maglie As Minor League Coach

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Time caught up with Sal Maglie Monday.

The 42-year-old righthander, who stilled enemy bats with a snapping variety of curve balls, took a job with the St. Louis Cardinals as a pitching instructor for their minor league clubs. The Cards recently had asked waivers on Maglie in order to hand him his unconditional release.

But the front office brass figures Sal is a treasure trove of pitching knowledge—invaluable to fledgling hurlers.

Maglie's first chore was to travel by train—he doesn't trust airplanes—to Albany, Ga., where the Cards have their minor league headquarters. From there Maglie will wander about in nomad fashion, helping out wherever he's needed.

In Good Spirits

As he packed in his hotel room, Sal seemed in good spirits. He said his new job was "the best thing for me."

"I like to work with kids and I think I can teach them a lot," he added.

In nine seasons in the majors he notched 119 victories while losing only 62, a percentage of .657.

Leafs in Usual Underdog Role

TORONTO (AP) —The Toronto Maple Leafs are in a familiar role for tonight's third game of the Stanley hockey cup finals against the Montreal Canadiens. They're the underdogs.

The Leafs, who crossed the odds-makers by edging into National Hockey League playoffs three weeks ago and did it again last week by eliminating the Boston Bruins in the semifinal round, aren't given much of a chance to halt the Canadiens.

Toe Blake's club won the first two games of the best-of-seven series and needs only two more to make it a sweep. The next two games will be in Toronto.

Toronto bookies have made the Canadiens 8-5 favorites to win tonight's game.

The Canadiens have won the cup the last three seasons.

Only Whitey Ford of the Yankees — among active pitchers — has done better. Ford has a phenomenal .724 career mark.

Anderson Named Iowa State Coach

AMES, Iowa (AP) —Glendon Anderson, 29, freshman coach at Iowa State for four years, was promoted to head basketball coach Monday night succeeding Bill Strannigan. Strannigan resigned a week ago to become head coach at Wyoming.

Army Pays More To Dress Women Than Men Troops

WASHINGTON, (AP) —Just in case anybody has any doubts about it, the Army has proved with elaborate figures that it costs more to clothe a woman than a man.

The current initial allowance for an enlisted man totals $166.20. For an enlisted woman, the figure is $232.36. The figures, with hundreds of others, were given a House Appropriations subcommittee in testimony made public today.

Two Youths Are Held For Burglarizing Home

Apprehended in the act of burglarizing an unoccupied furnished dwelling in the Town of Rosendale at 5:30 p. m. Monday, two youths were charged with third degree burglary. Arraigned before Town of Ulster Justice of the Peace Millard Davis, the defendants asked for an adjournment until 6:30 p. m. today to obtain counsel.

State Trooper Joseph Ventriglia of Lake Katrine who made the arrest with Rosendale Police Sergeant George Bockelman, identified the defendants as Joseph Wallace, 25, of Tillson and Lawrence Ricci, 21, of 24 Main Street, Rosendale.

Trooper Ventriglia said he and Sergeant Bockelman went to the unoccupied, furnished home of Wallace Yaeger, in the Town of Rosendale, to check the dwelling. The trooper said they found Wallace and Ricci in the act of burglarizing the residence. Yaeger reportedly is serving with the U .S. Air Force and his home had been unoccupied.

Union Proposes Steel Industry Freeze Prices

NEW YORK (AP)—The United Steelworkers of American have proposed to the steel industry that it freeze its prices for the term of the next contract with the union to help "economic stability."

Even if the industry agreed to do so, the union says it would insist on higher wages and other benefits for its half-million members.

Industry spokesmen had no immediate formal reply to the union's proposal, made Monday night in a letter to 12 big steel-producing companies.

Prompt rejection of the union's suggestion was expected. The union last week turned down an industry proposal that wages and other contract benefits be frozen for a one-year contract period.

The industry's call for a one-year wage freeze and the union's proposal for a price freeze are part of the sparring prior to negotiations on a new contract to replace the one that expires June 30.

Cyclists Injured In Dutchess, One Driver Charged

Two motorcyclists were injured and one was charged with two motor vehicle violations as the result of a collision which occurred in Route 9-G west of Route 9, Town of Rhinebeck, Monday night.

Rhinebeck state police identified the operators and owners of the motorcycles as Ronald Van-Etten, 19, of Rhinecliff, and Leonard Rathbun Jr., 18, of Rhinebeck.

Trooper A. J. Visciarelli said both motorcycles were traveling east on Route 9G, with Van-Etten in the lead. The tail-light on his vehicle went out and Rathbun's cycle hit the rear of the first vehicle, it was reported. Both drivers were thrown to the pavement, and Rathbun's motorcycle burst into flames and was subsequently destroyed by fire, the report added.

Trooper Visciarelli charged Rathbun with operating a vehicle without registration or insurance. The summonses are returnable April 20, before Town of Rhinebeck Justice of the Peace Clarence Traver.

Both youths were taken to the Northern Dutchess Health Center, Rhinebeck. Van Etten was treated for a possible fracture of the left ankle. Rathbun was attended for bruises of the right leg and released from the hospital.

Claim Booth Record

NAMPA, Idaho (AP) — This time it's 40 students—or parts of them — packed in a telephone booth.

Students of Northwest Nazarene College did it Monday and claim it's a new record. They say the rules — there are rules? — put a person inside the booth if he gets an arm or leg in somewhere.

The scholars say only 10 students really got completely inside.

Taft Memorial Is Dedicated by Ike

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower dedicated a towering memorial today to the late Sen. Robert A. Taft. He praised Taft as a man who gave generously and unstintingly of himself "for the good of all America."

Eisenhower honored a former political rival and ally at ceremonies at the base of a 100-foot bell tower erected at the foot of Capitol Hill in momory of the Ohio senator.

Taft, Eisenhower said, was a liberal in championing individual rights and the symbol of conservatism in everything affecting the national economy.

Former President Herbert Hoover and high government officials also participated with Eisenhower in the dedication.

Silver Probing Mobsters' Role In Tenpin Control

NEW YORK (AP)—Dist. Atty. Edward S. Silver's staff is investigating complaints that mobsters are seeking to get control of Brooklyn's 10 - million-dollar-a-year bowling alley business.

Silver announced Monday that the Brooklyn rackets grand jury will start taking testimony on Wednesday about charges that members of an independent union have threatened bowling alley operators because they refused to let their employes join the union.

Silver said he has information that stench bombs were thrown in one bowling alley in an attempt to intimidate the owner.

The bowling alley proprietors have organized into the Brooklyn Bowling Proprietors Assn.

Threats reportedly came from members of Local 3 of the Production, Maintenance and Service Employes Union of Brooklyn.

Hartwick to Get $1,700,000 From Woman's Estate

ONEONTA, N. Y. (AP)—Hartwick College is receiving about $1,700,000 from the estate of Miss Marian Yager of Oneonta.

Dr. Miller A. F. Ritchie, college president, said Monday the bequest was the largest single gift in the history of the college.

It was given in memory of Miss Yager's brother, Willard E. Yager, who died in 1929.

Willard Yager had been a collector of Indian artifacts. After his death, his sister gave his collection to Hartwick.

Miss Yager died Feb. 22 in Fiesole, Italy. Her estate consists largely of stock in International Business Machines Corp.

She made smaller bequests to a number of charitable and religious organizations.
